A GREAT DAY AT OLD QUEEN'S

to compare with the influence that one Oxford College has had upon Imperial affairs. For better or worse Balliol has governed England since the days of the ascendancy of Jewett.

Continuing Dr. Taylor said: "The general temper of the English and Canadian systems has been reflected in the attitude of the several Governments to students who fought. The Old Country has realized that these men on demobilization return only to broken courses, and to an occupation which is merely preparatory and cannot yet give subsistence. It knows at the same time that they compose one of the most valuable elements in the Empire and so it is prepared to assist the student soldier until he qualifies for his life's work. England, burdened as it is by the vast cost of the war, is prepared to do this because administrators who are themselves university men can see the loss that would ensue if this kind of ability should have to slip back into the ranks of unskilled or less skilled labour. It may be that in Canada the opportunities of making a livelihood have been so manifold as to draw the university man away from a political service that is full of thorny places and disillusionments. But this as it may, the fact remains that the mass of university output in this country loses its momentum before it reaches the point of impact upon public life. Where the universities ought to be able to show their strength is in the production of a distinctive type. The man of practical affairs may call the idealist a dreamer but there is always room for the detached view.

"For this reason it is the business of a University to keep its training as broad as possible, to maintain the study of the humanities and the large subjects of general culture, but above all things to instill a love of reading."

"The real contribution that Queen's in the past has made to the national life of Canada has been her idealism. Her students have not, generally speaking, become rich as men count riches; they have chosen the difficult ways that have been the ways of the mind. But, in this civilization where wealth comes rapidly and counts for much, Queen's has gained her distinctiveness by sending her students forth believing that the highest satisfaction is to be found in following the things of the mind, and content, in the great venture of life, to stake all upon that."

Following his address, Principal Taylor introduced the following, who delivered congratulatory addresses: Hon. H. J. Cody, Minister of Education; Sir Robert Alexander Falconer, president of the University of Toronto; Arthur C. McGiffert, D.D., LL.D., president of the Union Theological Seminary, New York; Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, Minister of Labor; W. L. McKenzie King, Harvard University.

Honorary degrees were then conferred in person on the following by the chancellor: Degree of D.D. upon Rev. Alexander Gordon.
Degree of LL.D. upon the following:

Hollis Goffrey, president of the Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.
Thomas Franklin Holgate, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Northwestern University.

Arthur Cushman McGiffert, president of the Union Theological Seminary, New York city.

H. M. Nappo, editor of the Detroit Saturday Night.
Edgar Paul Smith, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

Robert Mark Wenley, head of the department of philosophy, University of Michigan.

Frederick James Eugene Woodbridge, dean of the faculty of physical science, philosophy and pure science, Columbia University.

Frank Dawson Adams, acting principal of McGill University.

Hon. Frank Carrell, editor of the Quebec Telegraph.

George Herrick Duggan, Lachine, Que.

Sir Robert Alexander Falconer, president of the University of Toronto.

General J. T. Fotheringham, Ottawa.

Dr. Louis de Lotbinière Harwood, dean of the faculty of medicine, University of Montreal.

Stephen Butler Leacock, professor of political economy, McGill University.

Miss Aletta E. Marty, inspector of public schools, Toronto.

Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition, Ottawa.

Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, Minister of Labor for the Dominion of Canada.

Philip Danken Ross, editor of the Ottawa Journal.

Dr. Francis John Sheppard, Montreal.

Brig.-Gen. Hon. Arthur E. Ross, Kingston.

Addresses By Delegates.
In his address, Dr. Cody, remarked that he had received a degree in theology at Queen's, sixteen years ago. He spoke of the long and honored career of the university, and the contribution the university had made to the highest things in life. He also spoke of the co-operation Queen's had always given the department of education, and made special reference to the splendid contribution of the university to the teaching staff in the province. There were 247 graduates of Queen's university teaching in the Collegiate and high schools in Ontario. The majority of the school inspectors were also graduates of Queen's.

Sir R. A. Falconer, extended greetings from the University of Toronto, stated that under the new regime at Queen's, the Toronto university would look for help and strength. One had but to listen to the history of the university to understand why the university was admired. The new chancellor was an honor graduate of Toronto University. Dr. Taylor was also well known in Toronto, and was always made welcome. The speaker made a strong appeal for co-operation among the various universities.

W. L. MacKenzie King conveyed the greetings of Harvard University, and pointed out a great tribute due Queen's and her work.

Dr. Arthur C. N. McGiffert extended the greetings of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, and spoke of the ties of friendship between Canadian and American universities, and pointed out a warm tribute to Queen's and her work.

Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, praised the work of Queen's, and expressed the hope that the university could secure more government aid. Speaking on education, he said there were a great many who were under the impression that a college education did not pay enough money, and as a result entered industrial lines.

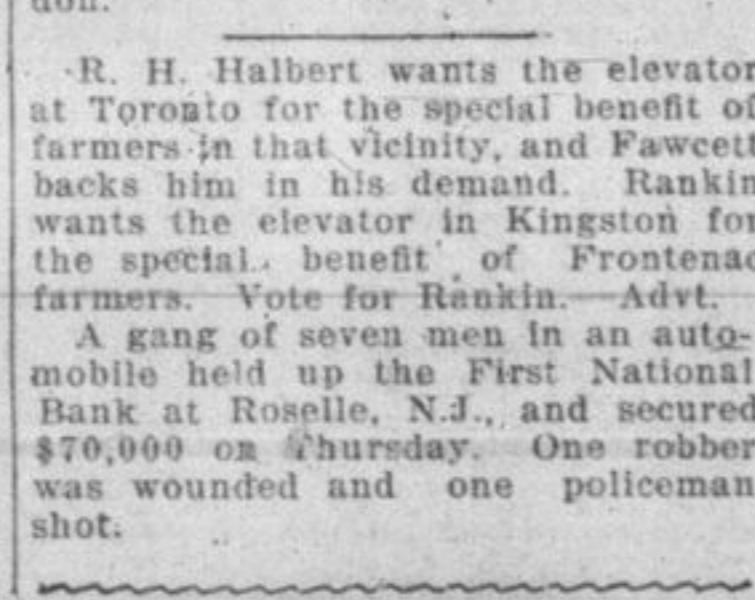

Principal S. W. Dyde, of the theological college, presented Rev. Alexander Gordon for the degree of D.D. He said that Rev. Alexander Gordon served overseas, won D.S.O., and M.O., and served as senior chaplain of the fourth division and was promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Following the granting of the honorary degrees, Brigadier-General A. E. Ross spoke on behalf of the new graduates. General Ross spoke of the self-sacrificing spirit of the men of Queen's, for upholding the college in the old days of "poverty", as the speaker referred to it. He also made a reference to the war, telling of the men who went into the conflict, realizing the danger yet willing to take the risk.

Following the address of General Ross, the ceremonies of Convocation concluded with the singing of the National Anthem and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. Daniel Gordon.

R. H. Halbert wants the elevator at Toronto for the special benefit of farmers in that vicinity, and Falconer backs him in his demand. Rankin wants the elevator at Kingston for the special benefit of Frontenac farmers. Vote for Rankin. Advt.

A gang of seven men in an automobile held up the First National Bank at Roselle, N.J., and secured $70,000 on Thursday. One robber was wounded and one policeman shot.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids, and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach, which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.
