Uncle Jake's Best

By JANE OSBORN

************ (Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) pout of her courtship days but the dine episode, "but so long as he jokes spolled-child pout that she dared to 1 cannot stand him." indulge in now that she was really truly married to the embodiment, in ber eyes, of all masculine charms and virtues-Rodney Blaine. have to have him along with us. 'He'll, bachelor." Just spoil everything. It isn't that I | It was in midsummer and Maud-

If he had none of the crotchets which to retire. are sometimes ascribed to those of ad- Rodney had danced with Mand and

But Maud took herself, and above enger as the others. all she took Rodney, amazingly seri- But it had never occurred to him ofisiy. Now that summer had come, that he might want to marry her. In the Rodney Blaines had made arrange- fact, Rodney-in spite of his twenty-five ments to depart from the city for the | years-had never thought very much woods, where Rodney owned a smail about wanting to marry any lady.

tion of encouraging Uncle Jake to oc- where beneath those soft brown curls, cupy a smaller cabin not many rods that she did want to marry, and that from theirs which he would make the she wanted to marry Rodney Blaine, headquarters for his fishing and out- though she would have died rather ing trips; and he would share the than to have let any one suspect this. company of his nephew and niece in She had convinced berself-and at many of his hours of inactivity.

his wife, "It isn't at all as if he were as no hope. She had smiled and critical or intended to interfere with pouted as archly for Rodney as she you in any way. There is no one else had for Tom and Bill and Walter, and he likes so well as you-and me. He's Tom and Bill and Walter had all in the best sport in the world and what their own way let Maud know that if he does pull off a practical joke they found her distracting and that once in a while? I rather like his they dreamed of no greater bappiness

"And besides," said Rodney, as he girls if she refused him. went on inspecting the fishing para. Maud had thought it all out in her phernalia that he had recently pur- eighteen-year-old mind. She was quite chased as preliminary to the vaca- sure that the case was hopeless and tion in the woods, "besides uncle has that she herself had arrived at the willed everything he has to us. That place where she must decide between shows that he is devoted to us."

of being mercenary, though had any merely liked. one else made this accusation she This man was Walter. Walter had would have raged indeed.

went with the Rodney Blaines, and sistence. Maud had assured Walter this was not because Rodney acted that she didn't really love him, but had contrary to his wife's pleadings, but fibbed in saying that she loved no one because after having protested and else. pouted she assured her husband that | Then she thought it over quite definhe was right as in all other cases and litely and decided that, as she was that she was sorry that she had shown | neither musical, artistic nor literary. such prejudice and would try to feel and had no sisters or brothers to as strong attachment for Uncle Jake whose children she might devote her-

Then she regretted her good nature. for a home and to have some First he disguised as possible game age her affairs. If Walter asked her warden and called at the cabin one again before he went back to the city day when Rodney was not at home she had determined to accept him. and informed Maud that her husband Then came the special messenger had been violating the game law and from the post office, ten miles away, would have to serve a life imprison- bringing that ten-pound box of the ment. Maud, in spite of her ardent choicest candy that the most expensive suffrage principles, was quite igno- candy shop in the city had for sale. rant of the law and before she recognized Uncle Jake in the heavily card that simply bore the engraved false-bearded person, she had offered him her entire worldly wealth if he would go away and say nothing to the authorities concerning Rodney's guilt.

Then on the day that she went fish-

Youth and Age

THERE is no time in woman's life that she cannot benefit by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in order to keep up the supply of pure, rich blood and to ensure a healthful condition of the nervous system.

Headaches, neuralgia, sleeplessness, -nervous spells, irritability. tired, worn-out feelings, soon disappear when the vigor and energy of the nerves are restored by the use of this great food cure.

50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

ing with him he contrived to have her book attach itself to a little package that he had brought with him to the brook and which proved, after Mand had excitedly angled for five minutes, to contain a can of sardines -a delicacy for which she had a decided aversion and of which Rodney and Uncle Jake, not knowing this, had set in a large supply.

Mild and even stupid jokes both of these yet Maud allowed herself to be annoyed by them.

Maud pouted-not the piquant, arch told Rodney, the evening after the sar-"He's a dear in many ways," she

"I wasn't going to tell you," Rodney replied, "but you see it is just because Uncie Jake does joke that I'm so attached to him. If he hadn't been "I think you are a mean old thing." a joker, you'd now be Mrs. Somebody she announced with some heat. "To else and I'd be a disconsolate old don't like him, but he is such a dread- the eighteen-year-old Maud who pouted very archly then and still wore her The joker referred to was none oth- curls merely tied at the back of her er than Rodney's uncle, Jacob fliaine, neck instead of in the present psyche a slightly built but erect old gentle -- was four or five hundred miles man, who at three score and five had away from Rodney, who was working given up business and determined to in the city in the office of the Uncle lead the rest of his days in the open. I be wno had not yet found occasion vancing years he had some of the sent flowers to Maud on occasions. foibles that had been characteristic of just as a dozen others had done, and his boyhood. Nothing pleased him bet- as he had done to a dozen or so beter than a practical joke, though his sides. Of course he thought she was jokes were always of a kindly nature pretty, and when there were other and, so far as any one knew, they had men trying to put their maines on her never caused any one real discomfort. dance order Rouney was always as

But Maud at eighteen had definitely He had just announced his inten- made up her mind, that lurked some-eighteen one convinces oneself of "Well, my dear," Rodney assured such matters quite easily-that there than to be her slaves for life.

"Like his joking!" echoed Maud. But Rodney had made no such proand her eyes snapped fire as much as testations and, though he always asked eyes as blue as hers ever could snap for dances when he was about he managed to dance with other pretty a life of resigned spinsterdom or the Maud at this accused her husband alternative of marrying the man she come up to her mother's country place The result was that Uncle Jake to press his suit with considerable per-

Maud opened it, and out dropped a name of Rodney Blaine. That changed everything. Walter went back to the city unrewarded for his trip, incidentally asking another girl to be his wife, and was accepted.

The same locomotive that bore him back to the city and away from Maud, carried a letter from Maud to Rodney. that showed between the lines that she had been thinking as much of him as the candy showed that he had been t inking of her. Incidentally, the next m til carried an invitation from Maud's mother to Rodney to spend part of his vacation at their cabin, and well, it was then that Rodney discovered what he had been too stupid to guess before, that Maud really was the most charmng girl of his acquaintance and the one he had been in love with from the

"It was Uncle Jake that sent that candy," Rodney told Maud. "He was in one of his joking moods and he took your name because it was the first one he came across in my address book, then he got hold of a card of mine and off went the candy. You see I had always loved you, Maud, but I didn't know I had a ghost of a chance. I thought you were all in favor of that Waiter Bates. So if it hadn't been for Uncle Jake's tendency to joke, I never would have had the nerve to ask you. I never could have guessed how things

Mand was in a reminiscent mood, that brought to her lips a pout that was arch and piquant. "I'm sorry I said what I did about him. Really I think he's a dear and I really didn't mind a bit about the sardines."

War's Havoc in Wales. "Only those on the spot," says a correspondent of a London paper, can ully realize the devastation of the roodland portions of North Wales, which has been carried on for the past hree years. This is notably the case n Carnarvenshire, where whole valleys and mountain sides have been robbed n order to satisfy the demand of the vernment for pitprops and railway epers. Notwithstanding the fact at the timber already felled and re-

Your Country's "Promise to Pay"

WHEN you buy Victory Bonds you hold Canada's solemn promise to repay you their full face value in money at the time stipulated in the bond with interest every six months.

THEREFORE, in point of security, Canada's Victory Bonds are in the first rank of the world's investments because—

- -the principal and interest are as certain of payment as anything can be-backed by the whole assets of Canada—the pledge of honour of Her people—and all the assets of all the people of Canada.
- -Victory Bonds are also the most "liquid" form of investment. Without trouble or delay they can be converted into cash at any time.
- -Victory Bonds pay a good rate of interest-more than any other investment having equal security—nearly twice the interest paid by Savings Banks.

LOR the investment of estate funds, trust funds, sinking funds and all other money which by law or other necessity must be placed only in unquestioned securities, Canada's Victory Bonds are the premier investment.

XECUTORS, trustees, municipalities, public service corporations, officers of lodges and fraternal societies, and all others with trust funds to invest, can further their own and their country's interest by investing their funds in Victory Bonds.

A ND because of the good rate of interest which Victory Bonds pay, together with the supreme security behind them, there is every reason to believe that Canada's Victory Bonds, 1919, will increase in value in the open market, as have Victory Bonds of all previous issues.

BUT Victory Bonds, 1919, are much more than a sound money investment. They are vital to the continued prosperity of the country. The proceeds of the Victory Loan, 1919, will furnish the means of retaining our great export business, by bringing to Canada foreign orders for agricultural and industrial products, which mean the continued prosperity of every citizen. The Victory Loan, 1919, will also enable Canada to carry out her necessary plans of demobilization -fulfill her pledges to her fighting forces-and to readjust the country from War to Peace conditions.

IN HIS PERSONAL INTEREST—

- -to obtain an investment of unrivalled security
- —to secure an investment yielding a high interest return

AGAIN IN HIS OWN INTEREST AND THAT OF CANADA—

- -to ensure the continued prosperity of the nation
- -to enable Canada to discharge her duty to her soldiers
- -in order to finance Canada's period of readjustment from War to Peace

EVERY CANADIAN WILL SUPPORT TO THE UTMOST THE

"Every dollar spent in Canada"

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

oms made with the contractors, will A Grand Trunk train struck a relations between the cities.

Line of averting a strike of Several motor vehicles have arriv. The cost of the Portuguese army Peter George and Thomas Fergu- Labor registered a sweeping vic-500,000 U.S. bituminous coal min-ed Frankfort from Paris loaded with sent to the front in France was son of Nobel village, near Parry tory in both East and West Hamilton red runs into many thousands of ers on November 1st does not look textile goods and other articles from $140,000,000 from its departure to Sound, are dead, and a fourth is in the Provincial election. Hamilatend in some cases into next year." buggy Monday afternoon at Guelph. It is reported that a Rumanian for sale much of his Derbyshire propfor sale much of his Derbyshire propSgt.-Major B. Houghton of Calgary A copy of the treaty with Austria killing two women and two child- patrol boat fired on a British River erty, including the historic Haddon was accidentally killed when hunting was tabled in the House of Com-