Mr. Foster had heard that Celestials were travelling back and forth between Toronto and Montreal, but he could not capture them. They gave their names as Wong Lee and Lee Wing. Their car contained 70 bottles of Chinese liquor, 36 bottles of whiskey and a small tin opium.

The men were taken to Iroquois and appeared before Justice James Collinson and J. J. Payne, Lee was fined $400 and costs and Wing $200 and costs. They did not have the money so Mr. Foster said they have to go to Cornwall jail to serve a term or until the cash was forthcoming. The Chinamen said their Toronto friends would not pay the fines if they were locked up, but would do so Foster accompanied the two men to the Queen City in their auto and collected the fines. After settling with the inspector, Wong Lee shook hands with the official and asked him not to held towards him remarked that he would make the trip to Montreal
