"If Off Your Route It Pays to Walk"

Theatrical

At The Grand.
The management of the Grand do not exaggerate when they announce that they have another splendid Tom Mix picture playing this theatre the last three days of this week. The play, a William Fox production, called "The Coming of the Law," and taken from Charles Alden Seltzer's book, is perhaps the finest piece of work this popular star has done. The new picture is a full-blown western story of the days before the law had reached its hand into the far corners of that section. Kent Hollis (Tom Mix) is not in any sense a two-gun man, but he is a lively two-fisted easterner, and he accomplishes more in a couple of months with his strong right arm than all the guns could accomplish in that out-of-the-way town. Mix does some remarkable stunts in the picture—real hair-raisers. There is also a remarkable Alice Brady picture, "The Ordeal of Rosetta" in which Miss Brady is seen in a dual role; that of twin sisters, but radically different—physically, mentally and morally. A tremendous contrast, and one which owes its successful delineation and convincingness to the faithful portrayal of each role by Alice Brady, the versatile and winning Select star. There are comedies and other pictures of merit, and an act of excellent vaudeville that is making a great hit. This bill will be repeated tonight and Saturday, matinee and night.—Adv.

At Griffin's.
"The Spirit of '17," which is Jack Pickford's newest starring vehicle, affords that popular portrayal of America's boyhood a brand new type of photoplay, and was presented at Griffin's last evening with great success. Long years hence the "Spirit of '17" will be recalled with a thrill that cannot be expressed in words. Whether we cross "over there" or whether we remain at home. Steadfastly and determinedly doing our bit, the spirit that has aroused this great nation and sent its men and its money to fight for the world's future, will win and the men and women of the future will turn to us. It is but natural that this spirit should be reflected in the literature, the drama, the screen and the life of today, and so it is in Jack Pickford's new play "The Spirit of '17" which is a strongly patriotic play, but differing widely from any of the recent so-called "war pictures." You cannot afford to miss this good photoplay, which is shown along with our usual line of added attractions, and provides an excellent evening's entertainment.—Adv.

At The Strand.
Do you enjoy a play of mystery and intrigue—a story of the by-ways of the secret service. If so then you will surely enjoy Harold Lockwood in "Shadows of Suspicion," which opened a three day engagement at the Strand last night. The story deals with the silent and powerful methods of the British Secret Service, showing their untiring watchfulness against the treachery and intrigue of the ruthless Hun. Mr. Lockwood is seen in the role of a young Englishman who is looked upon with suspicion by his friends because he has failed to enter the army. That he is a powerful member of the secret service he cannot reveal and has to bear the unjust accusations even of the girl he loves. Circumstances arise however, which makes her help imperative and in this manner he is able to vindicate himself in her eyes. The thrilling happenings and unusual romance makes a production which is sure to draw unbounded admiration and which provides an entertainment of unusual worth. "Playthings of Passion," the added attraction starring Kitty Gordon is also worth of much note. The story is one that should appeal to all dealing as it does with all sides of life, from dance halls to a clergyman's home and from tenement slums to society palaces.—Adv.

MOUNTAIN GROVE WEDDING.

Carscallen-Abbott Nuptials in Methodist Church.
A pretty wedding took place at high noon, on Wednesday, Oct. 29th, in the Methodist church, Mountain Grove, when Florence Mildred, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Abbott, was united in marriage to Errell Roy Carscallen, of Selby, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Carscallen. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's bridal march, played by Miss Marlon G. Coulter, and looked very sweet in a dainty gown of white silk, with tulle of georgette crepe, trimmed with pearl beading. She wore an embroidered white net veil with wreath of orange blossoms, white silk shoes and hose, and the gift of the groom, a gold bar pin, set with sapphires. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Buckler, in the presence of a few intimate friends, and afterwards luncheon was served at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Coulter, Main street. The bride is very popular, and the gifts received testify to the esteem in which she is held. The groom went overseas in the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles and served three years at the front. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge. Amid showers of rice and confetti, the young couple left for Rochester, N.Y. The bride travelled in a smart suit of tete de negre serge. Her blouse was maize ninoe and she wore coon furs. The good wishes of the community follow the young couple. They will reside at Selby.

Weather Notes.
The disturbance which was west of the Mississippi yesterday has proved to be comparatively unimportant and now covers the Great Lakes. Rain has fallen throughout Ontario and snow in Manitoba and Southern Saskatchewan.

The Returned Men's Club, of Queen's University is holding a dance in Grant Hall to-night. The men of the R.O.H.A. were all inoculated on Thursday against typhoid and were given twenty-four hours off duty as sick leave.

NO PLACE FOR THIS UNFORTUNATE MAN And So He Must Remain In Jail, Although of Unsound Mind.

There seems to be a great deal of time wasted in securing a place for Joseph Thornton, an aged man who was gathered in by the police about five weeks ago on the charge of vagrancy. When he first appeared in police court it was thought that he was somewhat out of his mind, so the physician examined the accused and declared that he should be sent to Rockwood Hospital for treatment. Although the magistrate notified the authorities as yet they have not made room for him at the institution. On five occasions this man has appeared in court and was remanded a week each time. On Friday morning he was up again but the court was informed that the authorities at Rockwood hospital had no room for him. Perhaps the new U.F.O. Labor Government may stir things up in behalf of such unfortunate.

KINGSTON POLITICS

Again Under Discussion In the House of Commons.
In the discussion on the G.T.R. bill in the House of Commons on Wednesday night, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition referred to reports that promises made to the people of Kingston in the recent bye-election had resulted in the withdrawal of Sir Henry Drayton's Conservative opponent, Dr. Edwards inquired if this was also the reason why the Liberal candidate had withdrawn. Mr. King said he didn't know, but the promises might have had something to do with his not taking the field. Mr. King read a letter from J. M. Hughes to the Kingston newspapers, saying that since the Minister of Railways had made promises of work being carried out at Kingston if Sir Henry Drayton were elected, he proposed to withdraw and give the Minister of Finance a clear field, doing so in the interests of Kingston's future. Mr. King thought this clause under discussion in the Grand Trunk bill would give the Minister of Railways the right to make Kingston the eastern lakes terminal and to loan money to the board for that purpose. Mr. King said the Minister under this clause might start out to build a lot of new hotels. "There is not much danger of me starting out to build hotels while this prohibition wave is on," replied the Minister. Hon. Dr. Reid was very angry when he replied, charging Mr. King with unfairness. The latter had not referred to the fact that he had already made denial of such a promise, and that the denial was on Hansard. The Minister repeated that no such promise had been made by him. Mr. King said he was glad to accept the Minister's statements.
