THE ALUMNI CONFERENCE

OPENED AT QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Opening Lecture by Prof. A. S. Ferguson—The Evening Lectures Are by Prof. J. L. Morison.

The twenty-eighth annual conference of Queen's Theological Alumni Association opened on Monday afternoon. Principal Dyde of the Theological Faculty opened the conference with an address and introduced the first speaker, Prof. A. S. Ferguson, of Queen's, who gave the opening lecture of the convention.

A large number of people were gathered to hear the lecture which was on "The Dardanelles in History." The lecturer stated that the Dardanelles had always been from earliest history the key from the east to the west of Europe and Asia, the point that has kept back chaos from entering Europe. There are five points that are literally keys to the supremacy of the world, the Dardanelles, Panama, Suez, Singapore and Gibraltar, and of all these said Prof. Ferguson, the Dardanelles is the greatest key of all.

The Dardanelles have figured in history from earliest times, have been the scene of some of the world's greatest battles and wars. The great city of Troy was founded with the Dardanelles as an outlet for its fighting and commercial enterprises, and Troy was perhaps the greatest example of the enormous strength of the Dardanelles. Right up to the glorious defeat of three years ago the Dardanelles have featured in world history and doubtless will until the millennium.

Prof. Ferguson then traced in detail, aided by some excellent lantern slides, the history of the Dardanelles up to the present war, and he gave a thrilling resume of the situation of the fight staged there in 1915 and 1916. Now he said Turkey in Europe, is no more, but some great power will doubtless control the Dardanelles and history will soon start again. From the year 1000 B.C. until 1918 A.D., the Dardanelles have known no peace from wars and rumors of wars, and now there is peace.

At the evening session Prof. J. L. Morison, of Queen's delivered a lecture entitled "Reflections of a Demobilized Officer," being based upon his own experiences while serving in the Imperial in Asia and in France. Dr. Dyde, principal of the theological college, presided, and in introducing Prof. Morison stated that he had been appointed to the Chancellor's lectureship for the period of two years and congratulated the Association upon his choice.

At the outset Prof. Morison stated that the present was a time when a man should be permitted to speak what he thinks, for intellectual cowardice was a great fault. Religious reconstruction was the most important thing today in his mind and he hoped that his conclusions might be followed by discussion. He was a student-soldier, and he discussed the motives that prompted him at the outbreak of the war to volunteer his services. As a Liberal he hated militarism, and the gospel of Jesus Christ was antagonistic to war, but when the day came he never had a doubt about his duty and he could not understand how any man could do otherwise than he did. The average man knew that the thing to do was to fight a glaring wrong. He dealt minutely with German doctrines and the arguments of the pacifist intellectuals—persons, who, lived in an atmosphere from which ugly facts were excluded. In dealing with the arguments for war, he declared the aesthetic disdain of war a contemptible thing, for "if you must fight, fight it out." He was a conscriptionist, too, for this was the only policy possible, in the light of experience. The tail end of the voluntary system was mere rubbish. After all the talk of the nation was the choice of individuals like himself.

The speaker gave a most interesting account of army routine in a great campaign, and the means employed for the enforcement of discipline, a system that in time had a ruinous effect upon individual initiative and resource. There were few joy-of-battle men in an army, the novelist and historian to the contrary notwithstanding. It was not the joy-of-battle that won, but the will and conscience of the ordinary man. Prof. Morison told of the vices produced by war, but declared that there were compensating virtues such as social-ability, fellow-feeling, the abandonment of lying and the development of a strong sentiment of army loyalty which could not be equalled in society. The comradeship of war could not be found anywhere in peace. He did not think Christ would have criticized the men he was with. The war was the final school of the humanities.

Prof. Morison concluded with a graphic description of life in the open, of the desolate wastes in France and Belgium and touching scenes in Scotland. Referring to the use of liquor, he said there were a dozen worse things than drinking.

Principal Dyde and Rev. Mr. Dale commented on some points in the lecture and in reply to a question as to how Christ viewed conscription of human life, Prof. Morison said he believed that Christ regarded the mere physical heart-beat of man as of little account when weighed with a great cause and he told of a Pte. McLean who enabled a life that was of little value by sacrifices for others. Lt.-Col. Gordon moved a warm vote of thanks to Prof. Morison for his admirable address.

A large number of out of town guests are in town for the conference among them included the following: Rev. A. V. Brown, Ph.D., Pictou; Rev. J. K. McDonald, B.D., Galt; Rev. G. A. Brown, B.D., Barrie; Rev. J. H. Turnbull, M.A., Toronto; N. M. Leckie, M.A., B.D., Galt; D. W. Best, M.A., Bowmanville; J. M. Duncan, B.D., Toronto; W. M. Kannawin, B.A., B.D., Toronto; A. J. Black, Burritts; D. M. McLeod, Lyn; F. W. Currie, Sudbury; H. G. Birt, White Lake; G. C. Salisbury, Cardinal; P. L. Jull, Lakeside; and W. A. Dobson, Carleton Place.

It is very much regretted that Major A. P. Menzies, B.D., of Ottawa, who was to have lectured on "Some Lessons and Experiences of the War" was unable to attend. Major Menzies is in hospital in Toronto and his lecture which was being looked forward to by many, will be greatly missed. Professor Watts of the Physics Department of Queen's, a returned officer, has kindly consented to lecture in his place.

Conclusion Alumni Conference. Tuesday's programme consisted of the following: 10.00-11.30 a.m.—"The Beginnings of History," Rev. A. V. Brown, Ph.D., Pictou.

11.30-1.00—"Robertson of Brighston," Rev. R. J. Wilson, D.D., Kingston. Discussion led by Revs. K. J. McDonald, B.D., Galt, and G. A. At 8 p.m., the Chancellor's lectureship is to be continued. Religious Reconstruction is to be Prof. J. L. Morison's subject, Queen's University.

CRITICIZE HOTELS

Saskatchewan Grain Growers Think Some Changes Desirable.

Moose Jaw, Sask., Nov. 4.—Grain Growers at a district convention here, discussing the Saskatchewan Temperance Act, found fault with accommodation in small town hotels, saying that the Government might give a monopoly of sixty rooms and the sale of tobacco to actual hotel-keepers. While no sentiment was expressed for a return to the open bar, considerable was said against doctors for liquor prescriptions, and druggists for extortionate prices to have them filled. Some considered that liquor sales should be handled through Government channels.
