TWO SPLENDID LECTURES

BEFORE QUEEN'S ALUMNI CONFERENCE ON WEDNESDAY.

Rev. J. M. Duncan, Toronto, Dealt With "Religious Education" and Professor Morison With "The Case For a New Diplomacy."

The Theological Alumni Conference resumed its meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning with a lecture "Jesus' Conception of His Messiahship" by Rev. D. W. Best, M.A., of Bowmanville. This was followed by the annual business meeting of the association, which was held in the morning instead of in the afternoon as on the programme of events.

These officers were elected: Rev. A. G. McKinnon, B.D., Lachine, president; Rev. W. M. Kannawin, B.A., Toronto, vice-president; and Rev. Taylor Dale, Kingston, secretary-treasurer. The afternoon lecture was given by Rev. J. M. Duncan, B.D., Toronto, and his subject was "Religious Education." Mr. Duncan is the well-known editor of many prominent Presbyterian papers, and this is his first attendance at a theological alumni meeting in Queen's.

It was necessary first of all to see the difference, if there be such, between religious, general or secular education, he said. Religious education is the art of assisting the growth of the soul towards God. The soul is not an entity and unable to understand, but is a growing mental process influenced by heredity and many other things. General education has four great elements: health, truth, beauty and goodness. In religious education health is God's gift, beauty is man's appreciation of God's preference and goodness is the union of two wills towards perfection of soul. Religious education can be put into two great classes, first the scientific study of child life, and the second, the scientific study of the Bible. The latter is the main course of study. The Bible is very adaptable, both to adult and to the child. The religious educationalist is not doing his best who does not try to teach the Bible in its true light. The greatest educator of the child is the parents, but the parents must in their turn be educated to the Bible, and this is the duty of those who preach in the pulpit.

Religious education in the theological colleges of the country is not what it should be. The graduates of these colleges must learn the force of religious education, they must study the child life, the psychological aspect of religious training and the management of the Sunday school, which is the greatest known medium of teaching children the word of God. In conclusion, Mr. Duncan expressed his pleasure that so much was being done in connection with religious education in the colleges, but he said that a great deal might yet be done. The discussion which followed was lively, the main speakers being Rev. Mr. Kannawin, Dean Coleman, Rev. Taylor Dale, Rev. Mr. Curry, Principal Dyde, Rev. Mr. Watts, Dr. R. J. Wilson, Dr. Jordan, and Rev. Mr. Morden.

Prof. Morison's Lecture. A large number of people were present in the evening to hear Prof. J. L. Morison give the third of his excellent lectures on the reflections of a demobilized officer. The subject was "The Case For a New Diplomacy." The church, Prof. Morison said, has very little to say on the League of Nations, whose great problem, and that of all civilization, is how to solve the problems of war and peace. The League of Nations to the soldier was his rifle, and he had no conception of the wonderful work that is being done, and is still to be done by that great union of world statesmen. To sneer at the League of Nations was to sneer at the church, for the work being done by the League was going to help to a great extent the future of the church. The diplomacy of the nations of the world has clearly proved itself to be rotten to the core. We have just emerged from the greatest diplomatic revolution the world has ever known. Many paid the price in France for the diplomacy of pre-war days. Diplomacy is duplicity, and the result of diplomacy in Europe for the past ten centuries has been war after war.

Prof. Morison then described the history of the once famous Bourbonnais of France. Diplomacy was their undoing. Critics claim that nationalism was at the bottom of the undoing and ruin of France, but wrong breeds wrong. They let diplomacy run them and it ruined them. Prof. Morison outlined the history of Germany, of Bismarck, the pioneer of imperialism, the incarnation of ruthless Prussianism, a mathematician rather than a diplomat, and he kept his country from ruin by keeping them from diplomacy. And so it had gone on through all the histories of European powers, big and small. With Great Britain it has and is still their great mistake. When the entente was formed it was in the interests of Britain to maintain a status quo, and she then became a champion of the smaller nations, and the diplomats of the country were in their glory. No one could doubt the honesty and sympathy of British diplomacy. It was all right, but it was the system that was wrong. Up until 1914 Britain was part and parcel of the immoral system in which Europe lived, and which finally plunged her into the greatest horror ever conceived to be possible by the peoples of the world. Great Britain had one man who warned them, Lord Grey, and all his speeches were a foreboding of a war out of which would come something that people knew nothing of. Europe at this time was at the mercy of the arrogance of Berlin, and she was plunged into the war by the action of two fanatics.

Talking of secret diplomacy, Prof. Morison made a startling denunciation of the way that secret diplomacy has run countries and kings for centuries. A cloud of mystery hangs over the doings of what should be made public knowledge. In the obscurity of the Foreign Office things were done that precipitated the Crimean war upon the British Empire, whereas a little careful handling by the right people might have averted it. In 1914 the Foreign Office reaped the results of faults of 1878. Europe has always been the hobby of diplomacy, the hobby of kings. Secret service and all that goes with it is impossible. Secret diplomacy is at the root of all wars, and it is this that has plunged Britain into the present one with Russia.

Criticizes Churchill. Prof. Morison launched into Winston Churchill for his action regarding the present Russian war. What do the people know of it? Were they ever consulted? Was the Parliament ever consulted? No, not once. It is being handled by the Foreign Office with its network of secret diplomacy and intrigue. The wrath of the country will fall on the shoulder of Churchill for this, he declared. These things must be made public, and the Government must be asked for permission to carry on wars.

Prof. Morison then went on and outlined the work that must be taken up by the League of Nations, in order to bring back peace in the world. The reconstruction of nations' affairs depend on present necessities, as war has shattered all previous standards. The league has to reconstruct a shattered and war-torn Europe, and it has a hard task. It must be done quickly, as nations were clamoring for some protection from the possibilities of future wars. Europe must be brought back from a renunciation of God. The League of Nations will be the agent of humanity. The world has not yet learnt its lesson, the attitude of suspicion still lingers, nations are still loathe to disarm their forces. The eyes of the world are on the League of Nations.

In conclusion, Prof. Morison said that if two nations like Britain and America could join and use their wiles as a political patrol for the League of Nations, then the League would be best respected and feared. Prof. Morison was warmly applauded for his address, and a short discussion followed.

SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY HALL May Be Shortly Erected Down at Seely's Bay.

It is expected that in the near future the school children who reside in the vicinity of Seely's Bay will have the opportunity of attending in a new and up-to-date building. Plans are now under way for the erection of a modern building. The suggestion first came from the Woman's Institute who felt that the children were not getting as good accommodation as they would if all were under one roof. Some of the members of the Woman's Institute got in touch with the trustees of some of the schools with the result that Dr. Sinclair, of Toronto, came down and explained the whole scheme. If the school was erected, there seems every probability that it will, it will be necessary to secure a four acre field.

Many of the taxpayers who are interested in the scheme feel that when this subject is under discussion it will be wise to make the building a large enough edifice to have a community hall in connection with it. At the present time the only public building for meetings to be held in is the Masonic Hall. If the people desire an erected school building and community hall under one roof they can get a grant from the government.

From a Child Who is Constipated

According to the best medical authorities, fully three-fourths of the people of the civilized world suffer in some form from costiveness or irregular action of the bowels. There is no doubt that many distressing diseases are caused by constipation. It gives rise to sick and bilious headaches, jaundice, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness and the painful, troublesome piles. Therefore, it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Simple food, fruit, etc., should be used, and rich food and stimulants of all kinds avoided. This, with the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills to regulate and establish healthy action of the bowels cannot fail to give permanent relief in the most obstinate cases.

Mrs. Letitia Wainman, Orillia, Ont., writes:—"From a child I was always very badly constipated, and I can well remember when quite young, my mother giving me senna tea nearly every morning, and I got to dread it. After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a while I am not troubled with constipation any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
