PEMBROKE HUNTER BELIEVED VICTIM OF STRAY BULLET

Pembroke, Nov. 13.—Albert Maves, a fire ranger, who lives in Pembroke and has a wife and a number of children, was found dead in the wood with a bullet in his head up the Indian river about twenty miles from here yesterday. He was hunting at the time, and it is thought that the bullet was from the gun of some other person, unknown to him, who was hunting also and mistook his movements for those of a deer. Maves was well and favorably known here and his death is much regretted. An inquest will be held.
