Might Be Very Useful.
Out in the Brookville neighborhood says the Renfrew Mercury, it is proposed to set traps in and around summer cottages with a view not to catch mice or other rodents or to get rid of wild animals, but to stop the depredations of boys and young men who resort to summer cottages for purposes of foot thieving. These traps prove successful, the Renfrew Mercury says. A sub-committee on possible candidates presented its report, which was accepted, and the committee was instructed to continue their work in this direction. Lengthy discussions took place on various matters pertaining to the coming municipal election, and it was freely stated that the veterans' chances of success are very bright.

Married at Bedford Mills.
A happy event occurred on Nov. 11th, at Bedford Mills, when Miss Catherine Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kilpatrick, was united in marriage to Earl Hammett, a returned soldier. While the wedding march was being played, the bride entered the church with her brother, and looked charmingly atired in grey silk. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. G. Osborne Walker, Westport, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. During the signing of the register the wedding hymn "Oh Perfect Love" was heartily sung by the choir and congregation. The happy

Bulls in Parliament.
"Bogorra" some of the best Irish bulls are "English," said an Irish M.P. not long ago, and he was right, says Tit-Bits. When the Gladstone umbrella was all the rage, an opposition candidate was heard to declare: "We, too, have an umbrella, and its voice will soon be heard," and when it speaks, it will speak with no uncertain sound." Quite as good was the assertion of an M.P. who said: "I see a vision before me, rolling along in its majesty, gnashing its teeth at it rolls." A better-known M.P. is credited with the statement that "The British lion, whether it is roaming the forests of Canada, will not draw in its horns, nor retire into its shell." It was a politician, too, who some time ago declared that "The Government keep cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden eggs." Another speaker once stated that the union of England and Ireland would turn barren hills into fertile valleys. But one M.P., speaking on total prohibition, rather overstepped the mark when he said: "The glorious work will never be accomplished, unless the good ship Temperance shall sail from the end of the land to the other, and with a cry of 'Victory' at each step she takes, shall plant her banner in every city, town and village of our country."

Open to All Hunters.

Some of us dote on Auchinleck because he was the place of Miss Blair, that heiress whom Boszy's father wanted him to marry and to whom the volatile young man made love in person and by deputy. Boszy sighed and adored and quailed with his "dear infidel." He dressed in green and gold. He even played his part with "Spanish stateliness." He squeezed and kissed "her fine hand while she looked at him with those beautiful black eyes." Does she have any particular liking for him? No. "I like many people as well as you," I like Jeany Maxwell better than you," says the frank lady. Sir Alexander Gilmour is the lawyer. Boszy laughs off his disappointment, and writes a ballad:

Watch Dogs" of the Sea.
The British Admiralty's notice to mariners that they have put down a number of hydrophones in the Bressay Sands connected by cables to the mainland of the Shetlands may make the landmen wonder what the object of such might be. Inquiries at the Admiralty elicited the fact that this war invention is now being experimented with for commercial purposes, one idea being the greater efficiency of our coast illumination. Hydrophones are really complex microphones on a big scale which were used during the war to detect the presence of German submarines. The first ones used were of a very elementary kind, but ever since the Admiralty experts have been perfecting these ocean sound detectors—that being the principle upon which the enemy vessels were discovered—so that to-day they have evolved an instrument of high nautical value, which can be used in foggy weather or darkness to give the first signs of the approach of unknown vessels carrying contraband, or locating in foggy weather ships in distress. By means of this ocean watchdog the coastguard can sit ashore and tell exactly where any smuggling undersea boat is endeavoring to make a passage.

Dear old Boszy, Boszy ever fresh and young! Most un-Scottish of Scotchmen, one of the most mischievous of men; unconventional conventionalist; a Tory prop of state and church, who loved to picnic on the coast of Bohemia; amoralist, scholar, buffoon; sentimentalist and cynic, generous and sordid; affected and candid, vain and an analyzer of his own vanity; collector of celebrities, sycophant; genius! He wanted a high place at the bar and in politics, and he won immortality by his "gust for London." Most sociable of men, a good fellow, though not without traits of Rousseau. The Mansion House of Auchinleck ought to be a national monument, but money is scarce over on the other side.

Big Kangaroo Nearly Extinct.
G. T. Lloyd, who has written a book of his early days in Australia, says that the big four-toed kangaroo is now nearly extinct. He once measured several successive leaps made by one of these animals in a slight ditch, and found that the average distance was about six feet, although the kangaroo had to rise five or six feet with each jump to clear dead trees and limbs.

Most un-Scottish of Scotchmen, one of the most mischievous of men; unconventional conventionalist; a Tory prop of state and church, who loved to picnic on the coast of Bohemia; amoralist, scholar, buffoon; sentimentalist and cynic, generous and sordid; affected and candid, vain and an analyzer of his own vanity; collector of celebrities, sycophant; genius! He wanted a high place at the bar and in politics, and he won immortality by his "gust for London." Most sociable of men, a good fellow, though not without traits of Rousseau. The Mansion House of Auchinleck ought to be a national monument, but money is scarce over on the other side.
