COUNCIL GIVES THE MONEY DEFENCE. CHARGES FRAUD

NECESSARY TO ERECT A NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL ON PART OF A COMPANY SELLING STOCK.

The Aldermen Discuss the Matter Briefly—The Vote to Make the Grant of $142,000 Was 14 to 3.

At last the erection of a new public school in the vacant ward is to proceed. The city council on Monday evening, by a vote of 14 to 3, decided to accede to the request of the Board of Education and vote the required amount, $142,000, without submitting the question to the ratepayers. The school building is to cost over $5,000 more than the by-law had passed the summer, and the aldermen did not wish to take a chance of another "costly miss."

Ald. Chown presented the by-law to raise by way of debenture loan the sum of $142,000 for the school, the twenty yearly payments being $10,342. Ald. Graham was in the chair while the council went into committee of the whole to consider the by-law. Ald. Couper said he was not opposing the building of a new school, but he thought that when as large a sum as $142,000 was to be expended the matter should be put to the vote of the people. He would vote for the school if the question was put to the people but he would not support putting the by-law through by the council without the people's sanction.

Ald. Graham remarked that the building of the proposed school would mean the addition of two mills to the taxes next year and succeeding years. "Let's pass the by-law without further bumbling and hawking," said Ald. Anglin, "The school is needed, according to the Board of Education, which is elected to take charge of the city's school matters, and which is responsible to the people. The building of the school will give a great deal of work to mechanics and laborers."

Ald. Kent reminded the members that council was pledged to pass the by-law at this time. He could see no reason for refusing to pass the by-law, since the Board of Education was again presenting a new school and had no doubt considered the question very carefully. The Board was responsible to the people for its acts, and when it asked the council for money for a school, the council should acquiesce and let the Board take the responsibility.

Ald. Stroud did not think the matter required any more consideration. The by-law had been shelved last summer in the hope of getting a lower price, but now that new tenders had shown this to be impossible, the council had just as well get down to hard tasks and vote the money.

"The ratepayers have a right to be consulted in this matter," said Ald. Litton, who said he would not vote for the by-law unless the vote of the people was taken.

Mayor Newman pointed out that the council had passed a resolution for the purchase of the site. He was going to vote for the by-law so that work on the new school could be started at once. The school was shown to be urgently needed, and the Board of Education should not be hampered.

"I think this council is absolutely pledged by a motion passed last July to pass the by-law," said Ald. Chown who declared there was no need submitting the question to the people who would certainly vote for the new school.

Ald. Smith held that the by-law should be passed. The council was pledged to do this and should keep faith with the Board of Education. "We have no other choice in the matter," said Ald. Mills. "We pledged ourselves to pass the by-law and we should now do it. The council is not responsible for the money expended by the Board of Education, but is required by the statute to give the Board what it reasonably asks."

The objection I take to the by-law is that the Board of Education did not play a fair game," remarked Ald. Armstrong, who pointed out that only stone and brick were specified, whereas a cement block building could be erected for one-third the cost of brick or stone. The Board, he claimed should have asked for tenders on this type of structure.

Ald. Jones asked that members of the Board of Education be heard regarding the question of materials. Trustee Thomas Mills addressed council and stated that Architect Powers had told him that a cement block building would cost as much or more than a stone building. Ald. Graham said he would sooner pay a few thousand dollars more for a stone school, for two reasons. First the stone cutting would give all the labor to Kingston men, and secondly, a stone building would last longer than a brick one.

The vote was taken on the by-law, and resulted as follows: Yeas—Mayor Newman and Alds. Anglin, Chown, Graham, Jones, Kent Mills, Norris, Patterson, Robertson, Rodger, Smith, Stroud, White—14; Nays—Ald. Armstrong, Couper and Litton—3. In attendance were Mayor Newman and Alds. Armstrong, Anglin, Couper, Chown, Graham, Jones, Keat, Litton, Mills, Norris, Patterson, Robertson, Smith, Stroud, Rodger, and White.

RECEPTION AT ST. LUKE'S

To The Returned Men of That Congregation. The Young People's Association of St. Luke's Church gave a reception to the returned men of the church on Monday evening. The Sunday school hall was filled and it was very tastefully decorated. A large number of overseas men were present and a very enjoyable time was spent.

The chairman was the president of the Y. P. A., A. Farabee, and he introduced Lt.-Col. Alexander Gordon, C. M. G., chaplain for the district. Colonel Gordon made a very fine address, dwelling on the work of the boys at the front, and the great work done by the home churches of these men. They had not forgotten them whilst at war, and now they were home they tried to show in their own small way, their appreciation of the work they did "over there." Colonel Gordon was warmly applauded. Refreshments were then served.

Do not be foolish enough to blame others for your own regret.

Case Against Estate of Late George T. Richardson Heard Before Justice Ross in the Supreme Court.

The non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court opened on Monday afternoon, with Justice Ross presiding.

There were three cases on the docket, and the first one taken up was that of the Montreal Trust Company vs. James Richardson, executor of the estate of the late George T. Richardson, deceased.

J. L. Whiting and J. B. Walkem are counsel for the plaintiffs, and A. B. Cunningham for the defence. The statement of claim of the plaintiff shows that the defendant is a trust and banking company doing business in Montreal, the defendant being the executor of the last will and testament of George T. Richardson, deceased. The deceased by an agreement in writing agreed to purchase from J. A. Mackay & Company, Ltd., one hundred preferred shares of the capital stock of Canadian Jewellers, Ltd., of the par value of $100 a share at 95 per cent. with 50 per cent. of the par value in bonus common stock of the company, the purchase money to be paid on the 15th day of January, 1913, it being understood that the defendant might be pledged or hypothecated with any banking institution for advances to be made on the security of said subscription.

It was further claimed that J. A. Mackay & Co., Ltd., duly accepted the said subscription, and by an agreement in writing, dated the 30th October, 1914, transferred or pledged the same to the plaintiffs as collateral security for advances made by them, the amount at present due in respect thereof being the sum of $13,324.42. That in accordance with the custom and usage in regard to subscriptions for underwriting it was understood and agreed at the time the subscription was given that interest would run, thereon from the date the payment of the said subscription was to be made to wit, on the 15th day of January, 1913, down to the date of payment.

That several statements of account were furnished said deceased in his lifetime and demands for payment made of the amount due by him in respect of said stock subscription and interest thereon, but he had not at the time of his death paid any part of his said subscription or the interest due thereon.

That a copy of the agreement, dated 30th October, 1914, referred to in paragraph 3, was signed on the 23rd day of December, 1914. That on or about the 30th day of April, 1917, the original contract signed by George T. Richardson and the original agreement between the plaintiff and the said J. A. Mackay & Co., Ltd., were shown to the defendant, but he refused to sign the same and tendered him a demand made for payment of the amount claimed to be due by the deceased to the plaintiffs, but he declined to accept said certificates or pay the amount of said claim.

Payment of the sum of $5,000, with interest thereon at 7 per cent. from the 15th day of January, 1913, and the costs of this action.

In the statement of defence the defendant denies the allegations set out in the statement of claim save as expressly admitted, and puts the plaintiff to the strict proof thereof. On or about the 8th day of September 11th, 1911, one Henry Timmis, the agent and associate of J. A. Mackay & Company, Ltd., solicited George T. Richardson to sign an agreement set out for the purpose of taking part in an undertaking of $150,000 of the stock of the Canadian Jewellers, Ltd., a company being promoted by the said Timmis and the said J. A. Mackay & Company, Ltd., and which stock to the amount of $150,000, J. A. Mackay & Co., Ltd., had undertaken to sell.

The defence further claims that the execution of such document by George T. Richardson was secured by the fraudulent misrepresentation of J. A. Mackay & Company, Ltd., and their agent, Henry Timmis, and consequently there is no liability on the part of the defendant.

The defence also contends that it was the duty of Henry Timmis and J. A. Mackay to reveal to George T. Richardson the fact that Timmis and J. A. Mackay & Company were making a large profit out of the transaction, and they were themselves the owners of the business being sold to the Canadian Jewellers, Ltd., and that they were the owners of the stock for which they were asking George T. Richardson to subscribe, but they failed to make any such disclosure, and consequently there is no liability on the part of the defendant.

William Morrison died on Friday in Thurlow as a result of a stroke of apoplexy, which he suffered two hours before his death. He was born in Sidney eighty-two years ago, and was a retired farmer.

At a congregational meeting of Westminister Presbyterian church, Smith's Falls, it was decided to build a new church on the corner of Beckwith and Church streets at an estimated cost of $115,000.
