Distilled Water In Batteries.

A good deal of ignorance is broad as to why nothing but distilled water should be used in stor age cells. All water but distilled water contains mineral matter in so lution, and although this may be small in quantity, as the water evaporate the mineral matter is left behind and all that ever enters the cell remains there. It is obvious, therefore, that the amount of mineral matter in so-lution constantly increases. Ships Wrecked by Lightning

The great man dired one evening both struck by lightning, set on fire equator.

Practically all vessels are provided with lightning conductors in one form or another, and while there is never a day in the year in which ships are not sailing or steaming through thunderstorms, there are very few records indeed of vessels being struck or-even if struck-of

Still, the end of both airship and sea-ship is a proof that such things do occur, and there have been several similar cases in the past.

The British ship Moses bound from myrna to Queenstown ran into afurious storm off Malta, Towards midnight lightning struck the main the quite forgave the irreverent treat- hold. "If Matthew Arnold borrowed Philistinism from the Germans, they or somebody else borrowed it from the Bible, and the borrowed the idea from the same source, for the terms are more than once associated there. "The oil for light and sweet incense' (Numbers iv.:16); or the phrase may have been suggested by the familiar words of the Psalm, "Truly the light is sweet."

"Did Burke, who knew his Bible well, get 'light and leading' from 'Send out Thy light and Thy truth; let them lead me'?

"The characters of the Bible have supplied us with a host of words and phrases. 'As old as Methuselah," 'the patience of Job,' 'the love of David and Jonathan,' as a synonym, for friendship, 'the strength of Samson,' and 'the wiles of Delilah' have all passed into the currency of our language and helped to make it forceful and picturesque. When Moon Was Blue. The expression "once in a blue moon," meaning that occurrences are so widely separated by time as to almost never recur, is not a figure of speech. It has a basis of astronomical fact, says Tit-Bits. The phenomenon has been twice observed in both Italy and Austria, and once in England. There is no available record of it having been noticed in

A blue sun has been recorded only once. . That was in August, 1883, in Java. A day or two before there was a very violent eruption of a large volcano about a hundred miles from Batavia. The eruption ended with an explosion, in which a range of mountains was destroyed, a vast cavity being left in its place, more than a thousand feet deep at one point. Billions of tons of rock, mud, and dust were thrown high into the air, and the sun was obscured over a large area. At Batavia the darkness became so deep that street lamps had to be lighted in the middle of the forencon. That condition prevailed until toward sunset. Then the volcanic cloud began to clear away, leav-ing the sun visible. Instead, however, of it being red, as it usually is when viewed through a smoke cloud, it appeared as a magnificent deep blue disc, remaining that color until it sank below the horizon. Spray to Discourage Mites.

The farmer who sprays his chicken roosts thoroughly three times dur-ing the season, beginning in April, will have little cause to worry about mites, say experienced poultrymen ..

The troublesome poultry house mite is almost sure to appear when warm weather comes. The most common means of control is kerosene sprayed upon the perches each week; some farmers give the roosts an occasional coat of whitewash. These nethods, however, are not always effective, unless thoroughly done, for
