

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaks, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy, Relief For Acid Indigestion

So called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full oppressive burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make a bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, could be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity.

A few moments and it is a perfectly pleasant and inexpensive remedy to take.

An antacid, such as bisulphated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only bisulphated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

JOSEPH ROGERS FOUND GUILTY

"Yes, he told me that I should not stay in such a God-forsaken place as Cataraqui."

Witness then told of staying for a time at a boarding house on Brock street and also being employed as a maid in a Kingston house. All the time, the accused had been keeping company with her.

Asked by Counsel for the prisoner if the punishment her father gave her, witness smiled, and said she had been punished for going out when her father had told her to stay at home. Witness liked picture shows, and admitted that on the night Rogers drove her into the city Thom. Cataraqui she attended the "movies." Rogers also attended the "movies" but did not sit with her.

This closed the evidence for the prosecution.

Story of Prisoner.

Joseph Rogers, the prisoner, was called and told of having hired Eva Cameron to paste paper for him in his work. One of the Cameron boys had been working for the prisoner, but he did not do the work well. The prisoner asked to have Eva to help him in his work, and her father gave his consent. The prisoner said he paid her at the rate of $1 an hour. Eva complained to the prisoner that her brother had abused her, and that her father had also punished her. He had seen marks on her arm. Prisoner wanted Eva to work for him, and this was the reason for his bringing her in from Iverary. He told her that her father was sick so that he could get her to work for him.

The prisoner declared that he had never encouraged the girl to leave her home. He had asked her to stay at home. Prisoner said he had a wife and ten children, one married, and the youngest five years of age.

The prisoner, cross-questioned by Mr. Whiting, told about the girl securing employment with a Kingston family. The girl, while in this home, went under an assumed name, and was visited by the accused several times. The prisoner also admitted getting a room in the same boarding house with the girl, and being much in her company. He also paid for her board at the Brock street house.

The evidence of the prisoner closed the case, and after addresses of counsel and the judge, the case was given over to the jury at 11.45 a.m. Counsel for the accused claimed that there had been no evidence to connect Rogers with the girl's leaving home. The evidence given showed that the girl's home life had not been what it should have been, and that the girl went away of her own accord.

Counsel for the prosecution held that the prisoner was responsible for the girl leaving home. She claimed that Rogers had induced her to leave, and his conduct all the way showed that he had induced her to leave home.

LAUNCHING OF STEAMER INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

THE CANADIAN BEAVER SLIDES INTO THE WATER

Mrs. J. B. Foote of Toronto Christens Her—Splendid Vessel Built By the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company.

The new government steamer "Canadian Beaver" took the water at 11 a.m. Wednesday and appropriate ceremony was observed by those in charge of the launching. The event was a notable one and attracted hundreds of citizens of every class because it was generally known that the Canadian Beaver was the largest vessel ever laid down in Kingston.

A platform was erected at the bow of the ship to accommodate the officials of the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company, their friends and guests, and was covered with bunting. Mrs. Foote, wife of Captain J. B. Foote, Toronto, performed the christening by breaking the bottle of champagne against the bow as the ship started down the ways. Every detail was carried out to schedule.

The launching was following by the blowing of whistles at the nearby plants, and applause from the hundreds of spectators who lined the wharves.

Mrs. Foote was presented with a magnificent bouquet by J. F. McMillan, secretary-treasurer of the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company.

The successful launching of this vessel reflects great credit upon the Company and the efficient staff of employees. Kingston is justly proud of the achievement and the hope is earnestly expressed that another keel will be laid soon. Upon enquiry at the office, however, no information was obtainable respecting the early prospect of another contract.

The Canadian Beaver will proceed down the river as the sea as soon as another deck is finished. Her upper works have been completed. She will go to England and then enter the West Indian sugar trade.

The Educational Value of the Phonograph

In The Schoolroom

WITHIN the last few years the Phonograph has been introduced into the school room with excellent results. For class singing it fills the long-felt need of a true voice for the lead and serves as a great help to the young untrained voices to sing in pitch. To teach patriotic songs to a class of children, it has no equal: children learn very quickly by ear and imitation. As music for class drills and marches the phonograph is the thing; it keeps perfect time and never gets tired. Now, if the phonograph can be used to such good advantage, in the school, isn't it logical to claim that it could be made to be just as great a help to the mother at home? That portion of her tasks which have to do with the development of such talents as singing, elocution, English, can be lightened with the Phonograph.

To say nothing of the entertainment which is in the Phonograph for both young and old, the strict educational side is well worth considering. Come in and let us demonstrate the educational possibilities in the Phonograph.

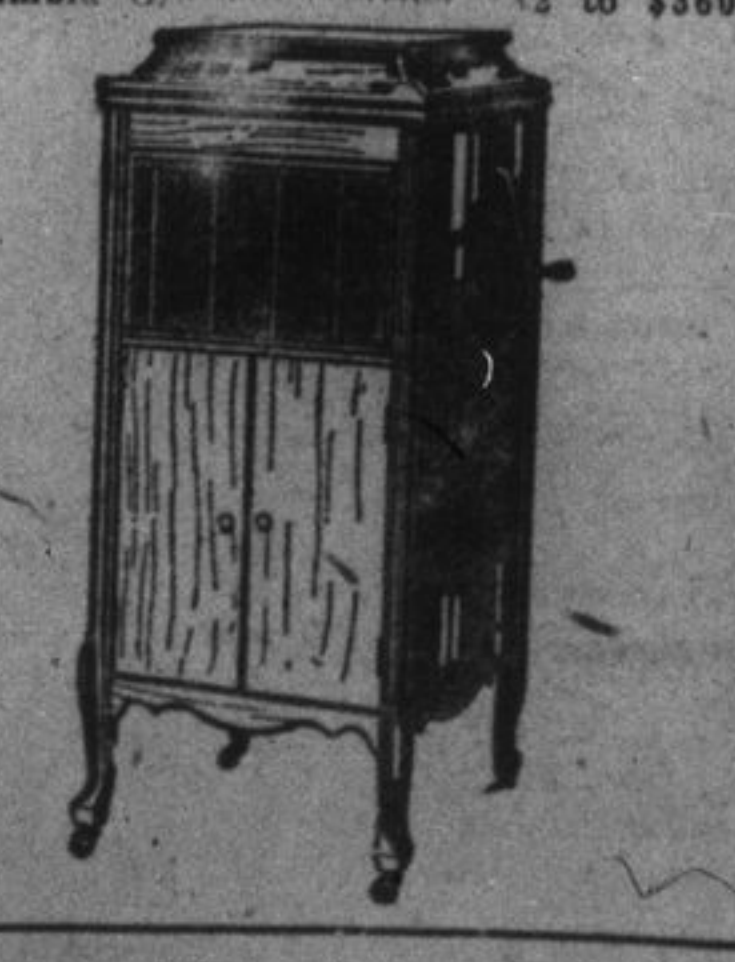

Lindsay's also sell Columbia Records and Bubble Books.

The Choice of the Phonograph

In choosing the educational Phonograph great care must be taken that it's reproduction be perfect, true and musically correct. No mistake is possible if the
