

CHANGE OF SELLING LIQUOR

CASE AGAINST YOUNG MAN REMANDED UNTIL TUESDAY.

It is Alleged That Ross Hartman Was Looking After the Thirsty People—Other Cases in Police Court.

The charge against Ross Hartman, arraigned before Acting Magistrate Kent in the police court on Friday morning, was that of selling liquor. He was not asked to plead to the charge, but was remanded till Tuesday.

Hartman has been wanted by the local police for some weeks, but he managed to keep out of the view of the bluecoats. It is alleged that he had in his possession, at the outer station, about thirty or more bottles of liquor. The police seized the liquor, but the alleged owner of the cargo got away. On Thursday Hartman fell into the police nets, and the old charge was put against him.

James Clancy has been on remand for several days on a charge of being intoxicated, and he was further remanded for trial.

A young woman was charged with securing a coat from a local merchant under false pretences, but after the court had learned the details of the case, ordered that the coat be returned to the owner and the charge against the young woman dismissed. It appears that the coat was secured by the young woman under a contract to pay so much per week on it, and in default of payment, the coat was to be returned to the owner.

The accused said she had not been able to secure the money to meet her payment. She could get the money now, but did not desire to have the coat now, as there had been trouble over it, and was glad to have the merchant take the coat back. The merchant lost in the police court transaction, as he was also called upon to pay $1.85, the costs in the taking out of a warrant for the young woman.

The Gallo English Opera Co.

Once in a long time the land of the chrysanthemum, far-away, mysterious Japan, sends us one of her fair daughters who has achieved more than a passing success in the realm of art. Some years ago we were visited by Sada Yacco, Japan's greatest emotional actress, who thrilled us with her impressive tragic art, and it is but two short years since we heard the golden-voiced butterfly of Miura. Never before, however, if memory serves us right, have we seen an English-speaking Japanese prima donna with a modern comic opera company, which makes the coming appearance here as Yum-Yum in "The Mikado" with the Gallo English Opera Company, of Hana Shimozumi, the 20-year-old leading soprano with this fine organization, particularly noteworthy. It is unquestionably the first time a Japanese artist has attempted to assist in English, and from all accounts this slant-eyed daughter of the Daimos has been particularly successful. Coming to this country as a child, the parents of Hana Shimozumi settled in California. In her early childhood she was adopted by an American family and brought up with the same freedom which characterizes the training of the modern American girl. While she was very young, through a legal tangle, the courts took her away from the family which had originally adopted her, and awarded her to still another family, in whose keeping she grew to young womanhood; hence she became pretty thoroughly imbued with American ideas.

Her musical education was secured in San Francisco, where are some very fine vocal teachers. She was brought to the attention of Mr. Gallo while he was in that city last spring. She sang for him, and he was so impressed with her personality and possibilities for future development that he had her brought to New York, where she has passed the past six months coaching with the finest technical instructors obtainable for the roles of Yum-Yum in "The Mikado" and O Mimosia in "The Geisha." Hana Shimozumi will be seen here for the first time during the coming engagement of the Gallo English Opera Company at the Grand Opera House, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee, Dec. 12th and 13th, and the company will sing "The Mikado" Friday evening, "The Chimes of Normandy" Saturday matinee, and "H.M.S. Pinafore" Saturday evening.—Adv.

At Griffin's.

Playing three distinct roles in her latest Arriant picture, "The Avalanche," beautiful Elsie Ferguson was seen to excellent advantage in this picturesque photoplay, which attracted a very large audience to Griffin's last evening who thoroughly enjoyed every scene of the picture. The theme of "The Avalanche" treats of the hereditary taste for gambling which the heroine has inherited. Aside from the inherent interest of the picture as a story of human passions and emotions, it has been produced on a most lavish scale. "The Avalanche" is unquestionably one of the best pictures displayed at this theatre this season, don't miss it.

The balance of our programme is also of superior merit, and consists of a beautiful scenic classic, "Day Dreams," representing some of the most picturesque spots in America, also the Vod-a-Vil pictures are out of the ordinary, and an exceptionally funny Sunshine comedy, completes the bill, which should be seen by all.—Adv.

Decorations Were Torn Down. The merchants on Princess street, between Wellington and Baggot street, are on the trail of the parties who deliberately pulled down some of the decorations which were placed on the street for the Christmas season. The merchants are annoyed as it has taken considerable money to make the street look attractive for the Christmas shoppers.

Oysters, Vegetables, Fruits. $1.00 allowed for American dollar bills at Carnovsky's.

OBITUARY

The Late Peter Teck. Peter Teck, a Russian who formerly lived in Toronto before going overseas died in the Moscow hospital on Thursday. The deceased had been ailing for some time. The remains will be sent by R. J. Reid to Toronto for burial.

The Late Mrs. R. Simons. The remains of the late Mrs. Robert Simons arrived from Toronto and were met at the train by James Reid, and conveyed to Cataract cemetery for burial.

Late James McShane. On Tuesday, Dec. 2nd, death claimed James McShane, one of Stanleyville's most highly esteemed residents at the age of forty-years. Although ill for some time, he never complained, and his passing away was a great shock to his wife and young family. He had lived in Kingston for thirteen years and made many lasting friends. Then he moved his family to Stanleyville about a year and a half ago to be with his aged father. The family mourns the loss of a kind and loving husband and father. Deceased was married in 1904 to Miss M. K. Egan, of Westport, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Egan, who with three sons and one daughter, survive. They are: Leo, Charles and Francis and Kathleen all at home. The funeral took place Thursday morning to St. Bridget's church, Stanleyville, and was largely attended. The pall bearers were Thos. Egan, James McNamee, Alphonsus Egan, Thomas Powers, Phillip White and Frank Egan.

TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY. Rogers Broke Down After Leaving Court Room on Thursday. Joseph Rogers, who was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for abducting a fifteen-year-old girl, was removed there on Friday morning. Joseph Hawkey, the new governor of the jail, took Rogers out.

Although during the whole trial, and even when Judge Lavell pronounced sentence, Rogers appeared to be brave, after he left the court room he broke down and started to cry. On Friday morning, when being taken to the prison, he felt his unfortunate position very much.

Enters Penitentiary on Monday. Mrs. Lovica Thompson, who was sentenced to be hanged, and whose sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in Portsmouth penitentiary, will be taken to that institution on Monday morning. She had been detained at the jail so as to give evidence in one of the county court cases.

21st Defeated 14th. There was a large number of citizens in attendance at the indoor baseball games held in the armory on Thursday evening between the 21st and the 14th. It was rather a coincidence that the score should be 21 to 14 in favor of the 21st. After the game the players and officials of the league were served with refreshments by the military "Y." This feature will be continued throughout the winter months. The line-up was: 21st—Murray, Hughes, Twigg, Bowen, Nicholson, Thompson, Fowler, Chaurotte, Metcalfe, Brightman. 14th—Sands, Cornelius, Stagg, Clark, Payne, Reid, Holland, Merritt, Thornburn.

Referee, George Sullivan.
