BARN WAS DESTROYED IN FIRE ON SUNDAY

Leroy Theriault Lost a Barn in an Early Morning Blaze.

Fire of an unknown origin, which broke out at six o'clock on Sunday morning, completely destroyed a barn on Division street, belonging to Leroy Theriault, Concession street.

The firemen were called, but were unable to render any service, as the building was gutted before their arrival. The barn is located in Kingston township, and the fire had made great headway before a call was sent to the fire department.

and thus the firefighters were not given a chance. The barn was vacant, and no reason can be assigned for the cause of the fire. There was another barn close by, but luckily it escaped.

An investigation was made, and no footprints were located near the barn. The loss will amount to about $600, and it is covered by insurance.

DRAMATIC MOMENTS FROM FOUR GREAT STORIES IN DECEMBER COSMOPOLITAN

Suddenly, round the corner whirled a shabby, old depot hack; it was plainly empty, but the well-known negro driver seemed to be in a desperate hurry. He lashed the horses to a run. "Wonder who's going to miss his train tonight," laughed Mr. Ludlum.

"That's cheap and noisy melodrama," he scoffed, albeit a bit worriedly. "What do you mean?" "I mean just this," she said: "Life is not worth the living without you. I came here to claim my rights. If you refuse me those rights, I'm not going on living. And I shall end things here and now. I've thought it all out. And I've come ready," she finished, with a slight gesture toward the hand-bag she carried on her wrist. "I am not bluffing, Bolt. You have deserted me. You have wronged me, you'll take me back or there will be a human sacrifice here to adorn your wedding-night. Make your own choice."

Rupert Hughes in "The Father of Waters" December Cosmopolitan
Somers suddenly came to action. He jerked a revolver from his pocket, and there was a spurt of flame, the bullet striking by my ear. The frightened mare swerved and reared perilously near the edge of the road. Choked with rage, I tugged at the reins, keeping my eyes on Somers. There seemed no escape, and I couldn't even curse. I opened my mouth to shout, but the sudden rush of blood to my head caused a warm trickle in the very center of my forehead.

When Jim walked out of the barn he walked into a determined young set and some very unpleasant, choking language. But the return blow, though Sanford got ready for it as quickly as he could manage, didn't follow. Jim didn't go down; he only staggered a little, clenched his fists, and stood still. "What do you mean, you—you?" Sanford spluttered. "You've got your weight on the wrong foot, Sanford," said Jim. "If I got in quick with my left, where would you be? You want to think about those things, you know, when you go round punching people."

TO ERECT A CREAMERY

In Village of Sydenham—Bones Company, Toronto, Owners. The Bones Company Limited of Toronto has awarded the contract for the erection of the new creamery in Sydenham. The contract price is about one hundred thousand dollars.

The building will be a concrete structure and will be equipped with the latest machinery. It is expected that the work will commence in the very near future as the owners are looking forward to handling the milk, commencing April 15th. The creamery will be capable of handling from 50,000 to 80,000 pounds of milk daily.

It will be remembered that the Bones produce company of Toronto recently purchased the Lacey estate in the village of Sydenham. It is an ideal location as it is situated on the edge of a river and also very close to the main line of the Canadian Government railroad.

This new industry in the village of Sydenham will certainly help the village.

The whole book said Dr. Watson, was characterized by pessimism, and presented a view of life that was inconsistent with Christianity. King Solomon was a believer in the value of the Book in the growth of religion it was important to know when it was written and the background that gave rise to the views of the writer. Martin Luther believed it impossible that King Solomon wrote the Book. It was one of the last of the Old Testament Books, probably written about 180 B.C. during the breaking up of the Jewish nation. The writer was a wealthy official or physician, whose ideas developed into the scepticism of the Pharisees. Up to this period all the writings of the prophets and psalmists showed the faith of the Hebrew in beautiful visions of a glorious future, but this author differed completely. We were not to take our hopes and imaginings for realities. The truth is that every generation has much the same experience.

Dr. Watson pointed out the strong contrasts between the earlier writers with the pessimism of Ecclesiastes, the later period of Jeremiah and the optimism of our Lord, which was followed by the mediæval period of self-renunciation. To-day we have the positive side of Christianity, the note of modern life. With the disappearance of the Hebrew national conception of God, with its national exclusiveness and national privileges came the doctrine of individual responsibility, which made the problem all the more difficult for the suffering of the poor and weak does not end with any reversal of their fortunes here on earth.

From Ecclesiastes to the teachings of Jesus we seem to have passed to a purer air, a world that is full of brilliance. Here God was revealed in every phase of nature. Jesus saw spiritual life everywhere revealing the love of God which suffused and permeated all nature. The speaker showed how religion was influenced by the national ideas of Greece and Rome and the ascetic practices of the feudal period, which left the poor to struggle helplessly. Renunciation required that men should withdraw from worldly things, and it taught the world a lesson, and that danger at the present time was not from renunciation, but from the value set upon personal rights. Dealing with this modern view of life, Dr. Watson said that its importance demanded that Christianity must be a spiritual force infusing all with whom it is associated. This called for the positive side of religion. It was time it came to its goal. It was emerging, but there still remained much to be done.

Speaking of present conditions, Dr. Watson saw in Christ's teachings the hope of all men, and reminded his hearers that "He who saves his life will lose it, but he that loses his life will save it."
