Throat Sore?
Take Peps at Once!

Peps will safeguard you against more serious ailments of which "sore throat" is usually just the beginning. By keeping a box of Peps on hand, therefore, you can avoid much unnecessary suffering and needless expense.

Peps Pastilles, dissolved on the tongue, throw off a medicinal Pine vapor, which is such a powerful disinfectant that it destroys all germs and prevents the soreness spreading. At the same time the healing quality of the vapor soothes the inflamed membranes and soon brings relief.

Peps are equally beneficial for laryngitis, asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds. All dealers sell Peps Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

Some Experiences in My Life.

Three years ago, when I was seven years old, I lived in Montreal. I had quite a distance to go to school, and my brother often called for me with our horse and rig. The horse was very nervous and easily frightened. One day, on our way home, my brother stopped to call at the blacksmith's. While he was inside a big dog came along, barking loudly and frightened the horse. It at once ran off, with me in the rig. I was terribly frightened and was going to try to jump out when I saw my brother running very quickly after us. He succeeded in catching up, all out of breath, just in time to jump in behind and catch the reins before they slipped down. He managed to stop the horse and we reached home safely.

Some time after this my father and mother and I were going home. We had to pass a canal, where we saw two little girls playing. My mother noticed one of the girls falling into the water. My father hurried to the place where she fell in, and the little girl was struggling with her hands to pull herself out. My father held out his cane to her, and she caught hold of it and he pulled her out to safety. Not long after this we moved to Kingston, where I have lived ever since.—Edith Bailey, aged 12 years.

The Tramp.

A tramp was once invited to a banquet in the hall of a big palace. He had never been a guest in so fine a place before, for people do not usually invite tramps to their homes. This tramp had slept in hay-lofts and in sheds more often than in comfortable rooms. He looked at the fine dresses of the servants, and then at his own shabby clothes, and expected to be ordered out. But when the servants bowed before him as if he were a prince and said, "Permit me, sir, to take you to your room." The tramp took courage and answered, "Very well."

When he reached the room he stood admiring the grandeur of it. After he had bathed he cried himself with a soft towel, and took clean clothes from the drawers and clothes closets and put them on. After he was well dressed he stood in front of a mirror and admired himself. Then he said, "I do not think I am any happier now than when I was poorly dressed and wandering through the cold."—Fred Thornton, aged 11 yrs.

The Squirrel and Little Rabbit.

A little black squirrel and a little rabbit once lived in the same wood. When the nuts were ripe the little squirrel was very busy running up and down his tree with all kinds of nuts, hickory, beech, butternuts and acorns. He had several places in which to hide his winter supply, one in the old oak tree, and another among some rocks. All day long and for days he was busy filling these hiding places, always taking care that no boys saw where he put them, I guess squirrels do not care much about boys, for they always run up a tree when they see them coming.

All this time little rabbit was running and jumping and frisking about and eating all the dandelions, cabbage, beets lettuce and parsnips. He was having a very good time indeed, and was not thinking of the coming winter like the little squirrel. The fall came and then the snow, and there was no more nice juicy green stuff for him to eat, and he had to be content to eat the bark off of the little saplings. He soon grew very thin. But what about the little squirrel? He was overjoyed to see the food to keep him until the spring came and he could get more.—Stanley Richards, aged 12 years.

Stenciling Your Curtains

BY CAROLYN SHEERWIN BAILEY.

Your own room, dainty and beautiful with the furniture you decorated, may have stenciled curtains to match. The same stencil design of flowers or fruits that you used for the chairs and table will be attractive for the curtains. Use heavy, unbleached cotton, cheesecloth or scrim. These materials stencil well and make good wearing curtains.

First Step

Lay a large piece of blotting paper on a board, and over this the edge of the corner of the curtain that you are going to stencil. The stencil pattern should then be pinned to these about half an inch from the hem. Then test your oil colors on an old piece of cloth. The paint should be as thin as possible to give the right color, so you may need to mix turpentine with it. An old cup may hold each color, and you should have short, bristle brushes, one for each color.

Putting on the Colors

Once you learn the process of stenciling, you can do it very well. Use a little paint on the brush as possible, and dab the brush on the cloth that shows through the holes of the pattern, working from the edges of the design toward the center. As you remove the stencil pin it farther along, hold the curtain up to the light to see if the color is right. Wipe off the pins before using them again, and be very sure that the edges of the stencil are clean of paint before you fasten it on for the next strip of the design.

Finishing Touches

Be sure not to fold the curtains until the stenciling is perfectly dry. If your colors are not too thick, the curtains may be washed with the care given to ordinary colored ones. The hems may be done in hemstitching, and a stenciled valance at the top of the window will add ever so much to them.

If you did your furniture in yellow, the curtains may be decorated with stenciled nasturtiums in yellows and orange. A blue room needs roses on the curtains, and green painted furniture is attractive with a design of violets that is repeated in the hangings.

Doesn't this sound like your best-of-all craft work? And the nicest part about it is that stenciling is so easy.

Orphans' Home School

Dear Editor,

On the last day of school before Christmas we had our closing and we all got lovely dolls and books and some other things from Miss Bates' School. I got a nice paper doll. We all got mittens from the lady teachers of the other city schools. My mittens are red. They had two chocolate bars in them, and some others had money in them. I am in the senior first class and am nine years old.—Violet McKee.

A Rainy Day In December.

This is a rainy day and it is not very pleasant. Everything around shows that it is raining. The women are clad in raincoats and rubbers, and are carrying umbrellas. Men go sloshing by with rubbers in the soft snow and wet lovely dolls and books and some other things from Miss Bates' School. I got a nice paper doll. We all got mittens from the lady teachers of the other city schools. My mittens are red. They had two chocolate bars in them, and some others had money in them. I am in the senior first class and am nine years old.—Violet McKee.

Constipation or Costiveness

Constipation, although generally described as a disease, can never exist unless some of the organs are deranged, which is generally found to be the liver.

There is nothing more productive of general ill health than constipation of the bowels, and a regular action is absolutely essential to general health. One of the most common and troublesome troubles is caused by constipation in piles and unless the bowels are kept open by the use of a good laxative such as Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills the whole system will be poisoned and many different complications of diseases arise, so if you would be well, keep your bowels regular.

Mr. A. Roder, Hastings St. E., Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"I desire to express my thanks for what Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have done for me. I had been suffering from constipation for two years, and also had a bad cough and headache. I tried all sorts of cures and remedies, but got no relief until I was advised to try your pills. I got great relief after the first few doses."

Get Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills when you ask for them or send 25c. mail by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Eastman is "Mr. Smith."

Donor of $11,000.00 Kept Secret Seven Years.

Boston, Jan. 13.—George Eastman, of Rochester, N.Y., is the "mysterious Mr. Smith," who has given or pledged $11,000.00 to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The secret of more than seven years' standing was revealed by President Richard C. MacClaurin, of the institution, in a statement made prior to a luncheon dinner of the alumni. The dinner celebrated the raising of $4,000,000 for the endowment fund of the institute to match a pledge of $4,000,000 from Mr. Eastman.

After a protracted illness, Mrs. Samuel Cameron sank quietly to rest on Dec. 23rd, at the home of her son, Donald Cameron, Flower Station. Mrs. Cameron was a sufferer from a complication of diseases, being confined to bed for over nine months. She was born in Dalhousie township, near McDonald's Corners, on Feb. 14th, 1849, and her maiden name was Christina Avery.

THERMOGENE CURATIVE WADDINGS

From Your Druggist 50c

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2. and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and save easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the raspy throat tickle and soothes the inflamed membranes so promptly and easily that it is really Asthma-banisher.

Day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations by those who have tried it.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly returned. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Description is the principle working of this remedy.

The main words in writing may return to either you.

GOOMBECK AND BOBBY VISIT NEW GUINEA.

Bobby flattened his nose against the window pane and looked out over the snow-covered ground and sighed. He was tired of his toys. His trains, his cars and his fire engines, even his sled had no charms for Bobby. Bobby didn't like the cold wind that whizzed

GOOMBECK RAPS.

"They look like so many bird houses don't they?" he laughed.

"So they do!" replied Goombeck.

"How do you think you'd like to live in a tree-top?"

"Well, if I were a bird I might like it, but I'm not a bird, so I don't believe I'd like to very much," replied Bobby. "Do they all live like this?"

"Not exactly!" laughed Goombeck. "The fellow we're going to call upon lives on the edge of the water."

He gripped Bobby's hand tighter and they sailed toward a queer-looking, old, bent tree that overhung the water. There in its topmost branches was built a queer-looking house of sticks and straws, with heavy boards for a floor.

Goombeck rapped on a pole that started from the root of the tree and ran up to the tree house, and a brown woolly head popped out from the rude doorway and a happy voice bade them welcome.

Goombeck helped Bobby up the long pole to the entrance of the house. There sat the family eating yams,

COCONUTS AND BANANAS, and sharing them with their pet pig and a pet parrot.

Bobby wanted to laugh at the sight, but he knew that would be dreadfully impolite. So he rubbed his hand over his mouth and bowed politely.

There was not a picture, not a stick of furniture, not even a bed, a chair nor even a mat on the floor. Not a toy nor a plaything of any sort could Bobby see, and he remembered all the toys he had in his own home, and wondered what the little brown boy would say if he saw them.

"My children!" said the Daddy Brown Man. "They must fish and hunt like your daddy does. Goombeck tells me you'd like to live with us."

Bobby laughed a queer little laugh and shook his head.

As quick as a wink the tree house with its brown people, Goombeck and all faded like a dream, and Bobby found himself once more with his nose flattened against the window pane watching the snow fall.

"Guess I'd better be satisfied with what I have," he sighed, and he climbed down from his chair and went to play with his engine.

ACTION OF CHURCH.

Bar From Memorials Figures of Christ.

London, Jan. 13.—By a decision of the learned dignitaries sitting in the Council of the Church of England, it is forbidden to erect a figure of Christ on the cross on the walls of a church as a memorial to those killed in the great war. The reason given is that "However artistic and architectural a decoration it may be, it will be treated with superstitious reverence and therefore be undesirable."
