METHODISTS ARE CERTAIN INTEREST ROUSED OVER LIBRARY

THAT KINGSTON DISTRICT WILL SUBSCRIBE $41,000.

To the Great Forward Movement—District Meeting Hears Vigorous Addresses in Sydenham Street Church.

The Kingston Methodist district members were in session in Sydenham street Methodist Bible school hall on Monday afternoon and evening. Rev. J. D. Ellis, chairman of the district, had charge of the service. At the afternoon session, Rev. G. I. Campbell, organizer for the Montreal conference, spoke for a considerable time. He assured any who might doubt the success of the Forward Movement that he was absolutely certain that it would "go over the top" not only financially, but the spiritual awakening would be felt as never in the history of the church.

Mr. Campbell told the gathering that the Kingston district was fully organized. Although only a few citizens had reported, up to date the report was as follows: Intercessors, 403; personal workers, 323; Christian stewards, 55; new Sunday school scholars, 108; new Epworth League members, 27; life service, 5. Of the five, who signified their desire to give themselves for life service, four were from Gananoque. Forty young men and women from the Montreal conference had offered for life service. It was certainly gratifying to the church to know that so many young men and women were answering the call.

Mr. Campbell explained that the Montreal conference was called upon to raise $475,000, and he did not doubt for a minute but what this amount would be obtained. He said that in one district three subscriptions already received were enough to put that district over the top in its objective.

The financial campaign, of which J. M. Hughes is the chairman, will commence February 8th and last until February 15th. The amount will be realized if all work together, said Mr. Campbell.

A number of the appointed delegates and ministers from the district were unable to attend the afternoon session, due to being snow bound.

When it was announced that the two lay delegates from Seely's Bay had successfully made the trip, the gathering applauded. They drove to Gananoque, a distance of thirteen miles, and then came by train.

The Evening Service. At the evening service, Rev. Richard Whiting of Dominion church, Montreal, Rev. A. B. Ransom of Union church, Portsmouth, and J. M. Hughes financial organizer, for the Kingston District, presented strong arguments in favor of the Forward Movement.

Rev. Mr. Ransom, who recently returned from the Students' Volunteer Convention at Des Moines, Iowa, gave one of the most interesting reports heard for years.

At this great convention there were 7,800 students representing one thousand universities of the world. Forty nations were represented. Mr. Ransom said that the outstanding thought of the great gathering was the great need of men and women to save the heathen world. He spoke of how man after man told of how thousands were being lost to God for the lack of Christian workers. Mr. Ransom told of an old Japanese preacher who was present at the gathering and when making his address told of preaching the same sermon eight hundred times, and during three years he had been able to obtain 84,000 converts.

J. M. Hughes, the organizer for the district said that the district was asked to contribute $41,000 which could be paid in five subscriptions. He said that if he did not believe that the Forward Movement would be a benefit he would not have gone into it. The interest on the money subscribed in victory bonds etc., only came due at certain periods, whereas the money subscribed in the work of the church is coming due every day. People had made all kinds of money while the boys were fighting overseas and were now called upon to do their duty to God. He said, it was a shame the way the church paid its preachers.

"If every man and woman in Kingston who claims to be a Methodist would do half what they are able to do, there would be no doubt that the $41,000 would be raised," remarked Mr. Hughes in closing.

Rev. Mr. Whiting said that some held the present was not the opportune time to launch this movement but there were always those who were ready to try and stop any new venture. There was a great revulsion, and the pendulum was gradually moving towards the other extreme. For instance the great craze for pleasure—women smoking cigarettes, women and men out all hours of the early morning. What we need is to make the pendulum go the other way, and to accomplish this the church must move forward in a mighty effort to reach these people.

Some may say that the returned men are disloyal to the church, but the speaker said that he had met thousands of them and he had never met one who said an unworthy word against the church. The need of the church was to make these men realize that the church was progressive. In closing his remarks he urged the necessity of consolidating its forces and with prayer there would be no doubt of the success of the forward movement.

Mayor Nickle followed Mr. Carson, and pointed out that the city had many large accounts to meet this year, and he was not prepared to commit himself so soon. It meant an increase of the present annual grant of $3,000 to $7,000.

J. M. Campbell asked Mr. Carson whether the Carnegie library fund was yet available, and could a grant under the conditions attached to it not be secured? Mr. Carson stated that the Carnegie people were not making grants for libraries at present because of the high cost of building. They were waiting to see if the costs went down. He could not say whether a Carnegie grant would be better than the Chown proposal. Mr. Campbell thought it would cost from $15,000 to $20,000 to fit up the building on Bagot street. Col. Hunter said that the Carnegie suggestion might be eliminated, as no money from that source was available now.

All speakers who followed favored asking the city council to take up Mr. Chown's gift and establish a civic free library, and the above resolution was moved by J. G. Elliott and carried unanimously.

The funeral of Mrs. Michael Melville took place on Friday morning from the residence of her son-in-law, James Brown, and proceeded to the Sacred Heart church. The cortege was a large one. A high requiem mass was sung for the repose of her soul. Rev. The local hockey team went to Sydenham on Saturday to play a friendly game with Verona team. Both teams were evenly matched, judging from the score, 1-1. Mrs. William Henderson is in a precarious condition at her home.

The funeral of Mrs. Robert Bullis was held on Friday afternoon at Trinity church. A large congregation was present, showing the high esteem in which she was held. Rev. Mr. Leach preached the funeral sermon, and praised the deceased very highly for the services she had rendered in church affairs during her lifetime.

The Cape Vincent stage abandoned her trip to Kingston on Saturday on account of the storm and condition of the roads. Mrs. James Knapp has gone to New York to visit her sister. Orval McDermitt's many friends are pleased to learn that he is progressing most favorably since his confinement to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The A.O.U.W. held its twenty-eighth annual ball in the C.M.B.A. hall on Thursday evening. Seventy-five couples were on the floor, and danced to the sweet strains of Russell's four-piece orchestra.
