Grey Didn't Boom Hoover.
New York, Jan. 28.—The British consul in New York yesterday made public the following cable message from the British government:
"It is entirely untrue that Lord Grey, while in America, ever took any action in support of any candidate for the presidency, or ever expressed any preference for any one candidate over another."

Vote for Quebec Women.
Quebec, Jan. 28.—A. Ashby, member of the legislature for Jacques Cartier, yesterday gave notice of a bill to give all women in Quebec a right to vote, as it is done in other provinces.

Women and Quebec Courts.
Quebec, Jan. 28.—The admission of women to the practise of law in Quebec province comes up in the legislature this week. Three times the legislature refused to admit women to the bar.

WHEN IT STRUCK HOME.
Miss Very Dainty—Oh, I'm so glad! If that law against the use of alcohol doesn't prohibit its use in my favorite perfume, I don't mind. But I just couldn't give that up!

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

by the noted author
Idah McGione Gibson

A Visit to the Club.
John's exclamation of "silly ass," which I was almost sure that Karl Shepard overheard, embarrassed me greatly.

I would not have blushed because Karl kissed my hands, because I felt that he was enthusiastically trying to tell me that he was glad that I had recovered enough to be among friends. But John's exclamation put an entirely different aspect upon the act, and I felt waver after wave of hot blood rush to my face.

I grew more and more embarrassed as it seemed to me the entire company who had gathered around me, and who, of course, had seen the salutation, was trying to read the motive behind his somewhat unconventional method of expressing his joy in my recovery.

Karl seemed to realize that he had embarrassed me, for as soon as possible he withdrew to the outer edge of the little circle and it was with gratitude on my part that I realized he was paying me the greatest deference in effecting himself.

Complimented by Eddie.
But even John smiled when Eddie Milton edged his way through the group and said: "For the first time since I can remember, Mrs. Gordon, I wish I were younger than I am, and your kid brother!"

"You can play you're my kid brother, Eddie, if you want to," I said, and with that Eddie gave me a true schoolboy hug and a kiss that resounded through the piazza.

I looked at John in apprehension, but this did not seem to worry him at all. He knew as I did, that Eddie Milton's kiss was just a bit of boyish bravado in the way of showing his affection for me.

"Are you as old as that?" said a soft, insinuating voice in my ear.

"As old as what?" I asked quickly, for at first I did not recognize the voice, but turned to face Elizabeth Moreland.

"I think I'll begin to call you Aunt Katherine," she said, as though that were the answer to my question.

"Oh," I said with sudden understanding, "you recognize that Eddie kissed me as he would his mother."

"No, I didn't either," was Eddie's earnestly boyish remonstrance.

"Well, at least you kissed me as some one very near and dear to you," I said, "and I want you to know that I shall be very proud to be the mother of a boy like you, some day."

"She's All Right," said John.

"But she isn't so much older than you, boy, that I want you to make a practice of giving her filial kisses."

I gave John a grateful look. He had risen to the occasion beautifully, but I just couldn't understand why he took Karl Shepard so seriously. Karl was his best friend until John married me but since then I could see that they had been growing steadily apart.

I had been standing quite a long while and I must have grown pale for very unostentatiously a big easy chair was moved up behind me and as I sank into its depths I did not have to turn my head to know that it was Karl who had paid me the little attention.

"Some one had mentioned dinner," John said. "Why, of course we will stay to dinner."

"I don't," I said, "I can, John," I whispered to him.

"Oh, yes you can, it will do you good."

I did not answer him but I felt that I could not sit another moment among the merry throng.

The reaction had been overpowering and I just felt that I must get away from it all now.

As Well as Ever.
"Here, let me take you to the dressing room," he said. "With a little dolling up you will be as well as ever."

"I couldn't walk to the dressing room to save my life, John," I insisted. "Won't you please take me home?"

"If I had known you were still an invalid I should not have brought you out here," I felt that I must say.

I closed my eyes to shut back the tears and Alice saved the day by coming up to say:

"I am sure that we are all tiring Katherine. John, we'll leave you while you help her into the car and take her home. Be sure, dear girl, that we'll all call upon you as soon as you will let us."

As Elizabeth Moreland left with the others I heard her say, and I am sure that John did, too:

"To think of John Gordon, of all men, being tied to an invalid!"

Disease That Works Overtime

Dyspepsia once started never quits till Stopped — Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the One Way to help it.

Some diseases have peculiar seasons in which to do their deadly work, but there is one that works all the time, and overtime at that. It is almost needless to say that disease is indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Once started Dyspepsia never quits till it is stopped, and there is only one way to help it, and that is by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is abundant proof that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always help Dyspepsia, hundreds of Canadians who speak as does Jos. Zeph. Cote, St. Cyrille de Wendover, Que.: "I have been cured of Dyspepsia, from which I suffered for years, by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I can now eat whatever I like without any bad effects."

HOW TO CLIP YOUR HAIR TO MAKE IT GROW

By LUCREZIA BORI
Famous Spanish Prima Donna

There is an old-fashioned superstition that the ends of a woman's hair should be clipped on the increase of the moon to insure its luxuriant growth. There are many lovely "heads of hair" attributable to this custom, because, leaving the moon out of the story, this practice insured regular clipping of the ends, which stimulates the growth of the hair and prevents it from splitting.

Split hairs used to be overcome by singeing, but clipping is now thought to be a better method of overcoming this condition than the singeing that closes the hair tightly on the ends, for a time at least.

The natural food of the hair is the oil obtained through the roots, and the hair to be glossy and healthy must have a certain amount of this oil. Split hairs tend to waste the oil and to sap the nourishment of the roots. It is difficult to have beautiful hair if the ends are split, because the wasting of the oil makes your hair brittle causes it to break, and destroys the lustre.

Split hairs are sometimes due to

GRANTED A DIVORCE.

Captain F. C. Badgley, R.A.F., Sued—Movie Star.

New York, Jan. 28.—Captain Francis F. C. Badgley, Canadian war hero, who married June Elvidge, the actress, in November, 1918, when he was attached to the British mission here, was granted an absolute divorce yesterday. Justice Peniston signed an interlocutory decree to be made final in three months.

All the papers were sealed. The case was heard by John L. O'Brien, as referee, and his report in favor of the husband was confirmed by the court.

Mrs. Badgley's last stage work was in the movies. She was starred in the screen production of "The Whip" and other successes. She was cast for many vampire parts.

Captain Badgley went overseas as an aviator in the Canadian expeditionary force. When he had recovered from a slight wound, he was assigned to the British mission in this country. In New York he fell in love with June Elvidge on the screen, as he often said. He sought a meeting and his courtship was rapid.

carelessness in not having the ends of your hair clipped regularly, to ill health, under nourishment of your body, or to the presence of dandruff. The ends of your hair should be clipped once a month.

Clipping the split ends of your hair is accomplished more thoroughly after a shampoo, because your hair is more fluffy when newly washed, and the ends will stand out more freely. After your hair has been thoroughly brushed and freed from every tangle have some one clip the ends. To do this efficiently your hair should be divided in sections parting it across your head from ear to ear. Brush the front part forward, letting it fall over your face. Next divide your hair into quarter sections, running so as to take care of the irregular lengths.

The lower ends should be kept as nearly even as possible, although hair is frequently shorter toward the front due to careless curling with hot irons or "rattling" that invariably breaks the hair.

In clipping your hair divide it in half, the second partings from front to back. Take three of the quarters and roll them separately into balls and pin them securely, then divide the remaining loose quarter in half. Leave one-half free and roll the other out of the way.

You will then be working on one-eighth of your hair at a time. You can readily see how you will be able to judge the uneven ends more correctly than if you brushed your hair straight back and clipped only the ends that appeared irregular. Each eighth of your hair should be treated in this way. Clip only enough to even the ends.

To prevent future splitting you should thoroughly massage your scalp once a week. When hair is inclined to split it is frequently the result of an overly dry scalp. A little pure vaseline rubbed into your scalp once or twice a month will help to keep your hair from splitting.

If this grease is objectionable to you, apply it the night before you shampoo your hair.

Summing your hair at least once a week will stimulate the roots, help prevent splitting, and make it grow better than almost any other treatment. In warm weather sit outdoors in the sun with your hair hanging over your shoulders and your back to the sun. After a while part it from ear to ear so that the sun may penetrate every part of your scalp.

TODAYS FASHION

By MME. FRANCES

Up-to-the-Minute Tailored Suit of Oxford Gray.

After all a plainly tailored suit with good lines is the most precious possession in a woman's wardrobe. This model of Oxford gray, bound with black silk braid portrays the type of suit that is always good style and invariably becoming.

The long rever with the notched collar and the single button fastening is very good and the slight cutaway front is also a smart detail. The shoulders are narrowed in smoothly fitting lines and the "pinched" waist runs into the flared skirt of the coat. All the edges, including the sleeves, are bound with black silk braid.

The skirt is plain and is attached to a narrow belt bound with braid. Two slashed pockets, braid bound and embroidered with black silk arrow heads complete this distinctive suit.

What would you do with it?

A conservative man doesn't carry a lighted bomb around with him, searching for water to put out the fuse. He gets rid of it as quickly and gently as possible, then goes away from there.

Not all of us know that we are packing around with us every day a perpetual source of trouble that may produce disease or even death. Ninety per cent. of human illness is caused or aggravated by a clogging of waste in your bowels.

By an entirely new principle Nujol will keep the poisonous waste moving out of the body. Every other form of treatment either irritates or forces the system. Nujol works on the waste matter instead of on the system.

Nujol prevents constipation by keeping the food waste soft, thus helping Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take—try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only bearing Nujol trade-mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 50 Broadway, New York, for booklet, "Thirty Feet of Danger."
