"If Off Your Route It Pays To Walk"

Theatrical

At The Grand.
To-night will be the last showing of the splendid feature picture programme that is now running at the Grand. "Poor Relations" is the title of one of the features, and this picture has for its stars such well known motion picture artists as Florence Vidor, Zasu Pitts, and a cast of many other noteworthy people. The story is one that will appeal to everyone, showing as it does different experiences of two sisters living in a small country town. One married into high society yet does not find contentment, and the other finds happiness with a man of her own class. The picture draws a sharp contrast between sham good breeding and the real thing. The other feature picture "Parn in the Road" is directed by Brentwood Spence and has a splendid cast with Helen Jerome Eddy in the lead. The picture is one of the social life of to-day, and is an exceptionally strong one, and contains some wonderful photography. There is also a splendid feature picture comedy, "Fatty the Home Breaker," and a reel of the popular Pictorial Life. This bill is showing for the last time to-night.—Adv.

"Servant in the House" Coming.
Trans-Canada Theatres Limited, the new all-Canadian organization controlling a chain of theatres across the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, announce their first production—a revival of "The Servant in the House," with the famous English actor, Tyrone Power, in the great role of "The Drainman," first made famous by him in 1908 at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 18th and 19th. Charles Rann Kennedy's significant morality play, when first performed ten years ago, created a veritable sensation, and Mr. Power's remarkable portrayal of the central character, The Drainman, was heralded by both metropolitan and other dramatic critics as one of the most impressive in a decade. Since then the play has run for a long period in New York and has been accorded an enthusiastic welcome in the principal centres of population throughout the United States and Canada. Its revival at the present time is thoroughly in keeping with the announced policy of Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., to present in the theatres under their control none but the most prominent artists and the best available plays. It is a matter of record that no actor of our day has held his profession in higher regard or taken a firmer stand against anything that savored of suggestiveness or immorality upon the stage than has Tyrone Power, and that distinguished actor's reputation, which ranks with the highest on the English-speaking stage, is synonymous with all that is most uplifting and most inspiring in modern drama.—Adv.

monia. The deceased was the second daughter of Charles Clarke, bailiff, who resides at 158 Bagot street. She was thirty years of age and a member of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends in which organization she took a great interest, and her death is a shock to many friends. She is survived by her husband. The funeral will take place at Cataract cemetery at 2.30 p.m. Wednesday, Rev. J. D. Ellis, pastor of Queen street Methodist church, officiating.

GAVE LECTURE AT QUEEN'S

PROF. HENRI DE MAN SPOKE ON "THE RECOVERY OF BELGIUM"

In Order to Appreciate Problems of Belgium One Has to Realize Conditions Growing Out of Enforced Idleness of Three-fourths of Population.

Henri de Man, professor of the Brussels University, lectured in Convocation Hall, Queen's University, on Monday afternoon, on "The Recovery of Belgium."

In order to appreciate the problems of Belgium, the speaker stated, one had but to realize conditions growing out of the enforced idleness of three-fourths of the population that had previously been probably the most highly organized, industrially, in Europe, with the possible exception of Saxony. This condition lasted during the four years of German occupation, beginning with the advance of the German armies, for the people refused to work for the conquerors. Some few accepted highly tempting offers, but the rest were heroes, facing starvation in their refusal to work. But this, while highly patriotic on the part of these people, produced evil effects upon themselves, the worst of which was inertia. The worst thing that had befallen the people was the morality of the war. Scrambling and stealing were considered perfectly fair during war conditions, but grew to become a habit.

The relaxation of social ethics was a consequence of the general misery of the occupation and continued for a considerable time after the armistice. Robbery was of very common occurrence.

Cut off from the outside world, throughout the period of four years, the people merely existed, without living. Many developed narrow national views, for they knew absolutely nothing of occurrences in the outside world, and after they were relieved of their German oppressors they were bitterly disappointed that reconstruction was not immediately carried out.

The speaker dealt with labor and capital, and showed that labor unions were responding to the pressing needs. In pre-war days, Belgium labor was very strongly organized, but was utterly disrupted by the war.

On Tuesday afternoon, Prof. de Man lectured on "Post-War Mind of Europe."
