C. A. Beal, of Ottawa, the Organizer, Pays a Visit to Kingston—Important Matters Now Being Considered.

C. A. Beal, of Ottawa, organizer for the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association, when interviewed by the Whig Friday morning, told of the practical results obtained by the association during the past year.

Among the other important matters now being considered by the Dominion government are: Fixing the weight of cereal packages; amendments to the adulteration act and false advertising act; removal of the war stamp from patent medicines; to make Thanksgiving Day permanent on Peace Day; a law compelling all merchants to keep books from the opening of their business.

Many of the matters referred to by Mr. Beal were of very great importance to merchants in every part of the Dominion, and the legislative committee has accomplished wonders.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Is This Justice?

Kingston, Feb. 25.—(To the Editor): I am a returned soldier, and some time ago I applied for the position of guard in Kingston penitentiary and was told that I was over the age limit, the age being fixed at thirty-five years. Now, what I want to know is, has that age limit been changed since or does it fluctuate to suit the occasion or the parties interested? We were led to believe that we were entitled to first consideration in regards to getting government jobs, and were assured from time to time that our claims would be recognized. Why break faith with us now that the battles of Flanders Fields have been fought and won and the war a matter of history? I have served over three years in the army, twenty months of it in France. Am I not worthy of some little consideration? Now, when I was turned down for the age limit at the Kingston pen. I was satisfied, because I thought as that was the rule it could not be broken just to please me, even if I was a returned man; but to my surprise I was told shortly after that a shoe instructor, who had left not overseas, but was in business during the war. Now comes surprise number two in the person of an ex-guard, who played one of the leading parts in the investigation that took place at the pen before the war. He finally resigned, received his gratuity and succeeded in landing a military job. He has held two different military jobs during the war. He passed the age limit years ago, but nevertheless he is back on the strength at the Kingston pen. The Kingston pen. being under the head of the Justice Department, one would naturally look for justice. What I want to know is, is this justice from the Justice Department? —ROY BARKER.

Costs Eat Up Tomatoes. The judgment of the county court of Hastings for $243, in favor of Mrs. Emma Oliver, Brighton, against the Frankford Canning Company, and the Presqui Isle Canning Company, has been reduced to $184 by the Appellate Division. She sued for $500, alleging that she had a contract with the defendants to take the tomatoes grown on eight acres by her. She alleged rejection of her produce. As no costs were allowed, the probability is that she will get little or nothing for the 1,218 bushels she says were rejected.
