LONDON COMMENTS ON GERMAN EVENTS

"Beyond Seeing Hohenzollerns Do Not Return, Allies Not Concerned."

London, March 16.—Some extracts from London newspaper editorials on the German situation follow:

Daily Mail—"It looks as if the Germans had again fooled our eminent politicians. The change of Government has been effected with suspicious ease. The Junkers are in power and whatever their purpose, our visionary statesmen do not know what it is."

Morning Post—"We think it certain that a Hohenzollern will be restored to the throne of Prussia, and the Allies should now return to the French policy of supporting the South German states against Prussia."

Daily Express—"The Allies are concerned only over the fulfillment of the treaty, and seeing that neither the ex-Kaiser nor the Crown Prince return to power. Beyond this, Germany's search for a form of Government acceptable to the majority of her people is her own concern."

Daily Graphic—"The Germans will go on having revolutions, till they find the form of Government that suits them. One thing is certain, the world will not tolerate a return of the fugitive of Amerongen to the throne nor the establishment of a purely militarist regime. Hindenburg can best serve his country by continuing his life of retirement."

Aid to the Armenians

- Citizens of Canada, by their deep sympathy and practical assistance, have won for themselves and their country a permanent place in the hearts of the persecuted Armenian people. Messages from the field have been many. They tell of the profound appreciation of the sufferers. They speak of newly-kindled hopes. They record lives saved and orphaned little ones housed and homed. The part which Canadians are playing in this noble work will never be forgotten by the "little nation" whose very existence is at stake. Previously acknowledged $1978.43
