Peterboro Led Too Humptious.
Lieut.-Col. Gillespie, O.C., cadet corps, when interviewed regarding the trouble at Peterboro, when the officers of the battalion resigned in a body, stated that the matter was satisfactorily settled. The action of the officers arose over the humptiousness of the lad appointed commander. He endeavored to impose observance of his rank at all times, demanding that his officers salute him. This was too much, and a mutiny was the result. A proper understanding was reached, and the officers are back at their posts.

Looking After Children.
At the I.O.D.E. meeting in London, Ont., Miss Gordon, provincial education secretary, reported that a survey of Canadian schools was being made to see how many soldier's children were ready for universities. The more money came in for the War Memorial Fund the more soldier's children could be looked after. Thus until the full sum required is raised the plan will necessarily be limited. As for the overseas post-graduate scholarships, which are not necessarily limited to soldiers' children, they will be deferred this year.

DOMINIONS' STATUS.
Empire Conferences Suggested Before League Meetings.
London, May 1.—Professor Keith of Edinburgh University, writes to the Times apropos of the League of Nations. He says that "the Canadian reception of Viscount Grey's suggestion of voting power in the League of Nations is clear proof how deeply felt is the necessity of insisting on the new position of the dominions, a view which is further embodied in the decision of Ottawa to secure Canadian diplomatic representation at Washington." The professor opines that a consultation between all members of the league within the Empire before making representations to that body would diminish, even if it did not eliminate, the possibility of acute divergence between the various governments. No dominion could object to acting on a principle which applied equally to the United Kingdom.
