This Is Good Advice

If you've the slightest cause to suspect that your eyes need attention, you should mark that down as the most important thing you have to do.
 Our experience proves that that is good advice. Our experience also proves that people as a rule are too slow to act when their eyes need attention.
 Seemingly they do not realize the influence for harm that eye defects have on the system.
 Come in and let us equip you with a scientifically exact pair of Glasses—or at least tell you the condition your eyes are in.

"THE END OF THE ROAD" INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

THE TRUTH TOLD IN STRIKING PICTURE AT GRIFFIN'S

It Is An Appeal to People To Live Cleanly Particularly For The Sake of Their Children.

In these times of issue-dodging and pleasure-seeking, without thought of the consequences there must be something done to show the world whither its present path leads. Christianity has shed its light on the globe for over 1,900 years and yet, by misinterpretation of its teachings in some cases and by downright neglect in others, the Christian world of the present day is suffering from evils which would be considered terrible among the lowest of aboriginal tribes. They are not generally known and therefore not easy to stamp out, unfortunately for the good of society in general. These evils are the prevailing venereal diseases which are existent to a terrifying degree at the present day. The truth about these scourges, their frequency, the ease with which they may be contracted and the methods of fighting their spread, these and other facts of great educational value are being shown in "The End of the Road," at Griffin's theatre for three days commencing Monday, May 3rd.

This picture is an entertainment, but not one of the ordinary aimless kind. A story is unfolded on the screen which has an interesting plot and interesting characters like any other good story, but at the same time is so instructive that it would be well worth going miles to see. It is a fine appeal to the people of the world to live cleanly, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of their children and their children's children. It gives proof and illustrations of the fact that the sins of the father are visited on his children. The children of tomorrow will suffer un- speakably for the folly of the parents of today. Thus in the story, for the sins of one man, and the consequences of sin transmitted to him by his forefathers, his wife, his child, and the children of others are branded with the curse of a venereal disease. The daughter of a mother who thought only of her child's worldly advancement, a child whose real education had been sadly neglected and the arts of deception and seething wickedness instilled in her mind almost from her birth, starts out in life at the same time as a girl with a wise mother. Their different lives run side by side throughout the picture and into their scheme of things are introduced many different kinds of people of both sexes, rich and poor, good and bad, handsome and ugly. The girl with the sensible mother is the means of redeeming her less fortunate friend on more than one occasion, and in her beautiful character is demonstrated the fact that it is not necessary to be a prude to be good and sensible. The plot is interwoven with a delightful romance which ends up in the right way, of course, and chases away in a burst of sunshine some of the shadows disclosed in the picture.

This is a film which every person from the age of fourteen up should be compelled to see. The facts disclosed and shown on the screen are not to be disputed and drive home the dangers of diseases of the type mentioned above. There may be some parts of the picture with which everyone will not agree, but there are other parts which cannot be disputed. Their portrayal to the public is bound to do a lot of good. It cannot possibly do any serious harm. Every person who thinks anything of himself, of his fellowman, or of posterity, should make an attempt to see this exposure of the truth.

First Congregational Church.
 Prof. J. O. Watts, of Queen's, occupied the pulpit both Sunday morning and evening, in the First Congregational church. In the evening he delivered an address applicable to what he termed "The middle-aged man." He stated that the church seemed to cater chiefly to the young and the old, but it was upon the middle-aged that the brunt of the church's work fell.

At the evening service special music was rendered by the choir, directed by Miss Beattie Rogers, and assisted by Miss M. Thompson, (violinist), and H. Thompson (organist). Soloists in the evening were A. Kerr, bass, who rendered "Open the Gates of the Temple" in excellent style, and Miss W. Woolgar, soprano, who with great feeling and excellent technique rendered "God's Bright Morning"—A. Meale. Ladies quartette: The Misses Woolgar, Fearne, Barnes and Mrs. Coward, rendered "He Slumbers Not," the whole rendering being most finely balanced.

IN MARINE CIRCLES.

The Movement of Vessels Reported in the Harbor.

Clark-Walker Wedding.
 Chalmers Presbyterian church, Toronto, was the scene on Wednesday evening of a wedding, when Marjorie M., youngest daughter of Mrs. J. D. Walker, and Harold J. Clark, son of Mrs. Howard Clark, were married. Rev. M. Scott Fulton officiated, and Mrs. Charles Savage presided at the organ.

The bride, given away by her brother, Howard L. Walker, wore a gown of Chimeral satin, lace and pearls. Her veil of tulle was crowned with orange blossoms, and she carried Ophelia roses. Mrs. B. Follis Scott was matron of honor, wearing pale green organdy, black mohair hat and corsage bouquet of pink and mauve sweet peas. B. Follis Scott was best man. After a reception at the home of the bride's brother, H. L. Walker, Indian Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Clark left for Detroit, the bride wearing tete de negre broadcloth and a mohair hat. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will live in Kingston.

Queen's University.
 Graduates of Queen's University residing in the city, who wish to have invitations for convocation and the conversation, to be held next week, should send in their names to the registrar's office.
