LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

by the noted author
Idah McGione Gibson

A NEW IDEA
Before I wrote John I received a telegram from him saying he was coming down on the afternoon train. Evidently someone had telegraphed him I was ill again, for his wire said: "I am very much worried about you. Be sure and take care of yourself until I can come and take care of you."
I didn't want John to come. I was a coward. I knew if he came and took me in his arms and said the nice things to me that only he can say I should love him again with all my heart. Strange, isn't it, that a coming child weaves a magnetic chord between a man and a woman when they have nothing else in common. Before we were married the glamour of love was over us both. We talked of nothing except ourselves and each other. In that whirlwind of three weeks of John's courtship every one of my brain faculties was lulled to sleep by the magnetism of his presence.

One of the Reasons
It seems to me that this is one of the reasons why the modern marriage is so often unsuccessful; neither really knows the other, even though the courtship lasts much longer than mine.

Love is one thing and married life is quite another.
I have come to feel that Alice is right. She has many interests besides marriage which take up her time. She has become interested in the affairs of the modern woman and her husband is perfectly willing that she should be. They are good pals and friends, but I do not think they have ever been lovers. I am quite sure that the modern novel, the modern drama, and above all, the modern movie, exercise a bad influence upon modern young men and women. They are always preaching--Love is all.

You see, we Americans are such emotional people. In no other country in the world is delicious and romantic love deemed the only thing that is necessary to a successful marriage. In fact, delicious and romantic love is not deemed necessary at all to a successful marriage anywhere except in America. The French sharply define love as one thing and marriage another.

During my stay abroad it seemed to me that I had never known a happier and more contented home life than in the houses of my friends, most of whose marriages had been made in French fashion by the fathers and mothers for the sake of financial or family reasons.

A Love Heretic
But if one should speak of a mar-

KINGSTON TEAM ENTERED

TO PLAY BALL WITH YARKER, VERONA AND SYDENHAM

Newly-formed Baseball League Promises to be a Great Success--News Budget From Yarker.
Yarker, May 6.--A meeting of the managers and ball players was held in Sydenham, Saturday night, and all arrangements were completed for the opening of the ball season. The first game will be played in Yarker on May 32nd, with the Lake Views, of Kingston, as the visiting team. The league is composed of four teams, Yarker, Sydenham, Lake Views and Yarker.

C. Peters and family accompanied by Mrs. M. Warner and family, motored to Yarker from Kingston Sunday last, and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of Odessa, were in the village Sunday last, calling on relatives. A large number of the Oddfellows from here attended the Oddfellows service in Odessa Sunday last.

Mr. Delaney has purchased a Ford car. S. Winter spent last week in Harrowsmith. S. Vanderwater, and family, of Echo Lake, spent the week end with friends here. Mr. McLeod, of Echo Lake, visited at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. Holden, for a week. W. D. Wilson and D. Smith have added additions to their houses by building new kitchens. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. Connolly, a son. Measles are prevalent in the village and school has been ordered closed for two weeks by the health officer.

Mrs. A. A. Connolly is home again from Kingston somewhat improved in health. Wm. Storms, of Oshawa, spent a few days at home recently with his wife and family. Miss Lillian Babcock left for Port Hope, where she will visit friends for a few weeks. Miss Elsie Hamilton, of Kingston, visited at the home of Miss Elida Wartman, for a few days. T. Warner, of the Toronto Dental College, is home for his vacation. Mr. and Mrs. E. Holden motored to Echo Lake, Sunday last, and spent the day with friends.

Stewart Connolly, of Montreal, spent a few days under the parental roof. Hiram Walker spent a day recently at W. Orser's, Kepler. Farmers are busy sowing and getting the land ready for seeding, but report a cold backward spring so far.

Why Budget is Delayed.

Montreal, May 6.--It is not intended to bring down in the budget at Ottawa legislation to put a tax on fire insurance premiums paid to non-registered companies, according to information gathered in regard to the proposal which has created a stir in business circles here. This is the information given a delegation from this city by Sir Henry Drayton. Something will, however, be done by means of an amendment to the insurance act. The delegation also reported that the delay in bringing down the budget is caused by the business profits tax, and doubts as to how to replace it.

TO-DAYS FASHION

By MME. FRANCES

This Smart Spring suit is of Smoke-Gray Tricotine.

Smoke Gray tricotine is an exceedingly popular fabric for the spring suit. Cut in severely tailored lines this model of gray tricotine is given that "touch unusual" by long revers and a single button fastening that accents the cutaway line of the front. The skirt is pleated. Pleated skirts are so popular that they might almost be said to be universal. The sewed-in sleeves flare at the slightly abbreviated wristline and are finished with a turn-back cuff. Worn with a black hat, a white linen blouse and a tiny black tie this suit completes a charming ensemble.
