

TOOK OUT THE BOILER

THE DONNELLY WRECKING AND SALVAGE CO., DID WORK.

The Hull Likely to Be Towed Over to Garden Island and Sunk There—Cable Placed About the Staff.

On Tuesday afternoon the Donnelly Wrecking and Salvage company was successful in lifting the boiler from the steam barge Robert McDonald which sank in the slip at the foot of Brock street last fall.

boiler was released the hull would rise but the diver found that one of the large planks on the bottom of the hull was torn away leaving a very large hole.

On Tuesday afternoon the diver spent about one hour securing a cable on the staff. As soon as the steamer Cornwall hitches on it will not take long to make the island.

It will be remembered that the schooner owned by George Suddie, foundered last fall. About ten days ago the city endeavored to make the former owner remove the wreck but he said he had no money and would have to abandon the craft.

Harbor Master William McCammon got in touch with Capt. John Donnelly with the result that he agreed to move the wreck for the amount of salvage he would get out of it.

On Sunday the death occurred of a highly respected resident of Brockville in the person of James Venney. He had been ill for some months of an affection of the heart. He was aged sixty-one years.

FRANCE UPHOLDS CANADA.

But Does Not Consider India on Same Basis as Dominions.

Recent speeches by Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. N. W. Rowell emphasizing Canada's determination to retain its membership in the League of Nations despite the attitude of the United States, have been forwarded to the Colonial Office in London and have been read with great attention. The reports of the speeches in the British press have caused some surprise since it has never for a moment been contemplated in England that the Mother Country should sacrifice the rights of Canada or any other self-governing dominion of the Empire to meet the wishes of the United States.

The Colonial Office is very chary of statements in connection with the matter, but this is due to the desire not to create prejudice while the case is still sub judice as far as the United States is concerned, and not because the British Government has anything to conceal as regards its support of Canada's case.

As regards the other Allies, the French attitude is favorable to the Canadian contention. The statement of a French Minister a few days ago was that France thought that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, as self-governing nations were entitled to separate membership, but did not consider the case of India was on the same basis, inasmuch as it was no more self-governing than some of the French native colonies.

France makes no objection to the present voting strength of the British Empire, but if it is proposed to increase the United States' voting power to six she will ask to be placed on the same footing.

Prince of Wales Likes Stamps.

The proposal of the Newfoundland Post Office to issue a special postage stamp in commemoration of the Prince of Wales, Duke of York and Newfoundland will meet with general approbation. Stamp collectors the world over will welcome the opportunity of adding one more vignette to the series of stamp portraits of their fellow philatelist already presented on the postal issues of Britain's oldest colony.

It was in August, 1893, that the likeness of Prince Edward of York, then the tender age of four, first appeared (in company with those of other members of the British Royal Family) on the 1/2-cent stamp of Newfoundland. The prince was next presented in the uniform of a cadet at the Royal Naval College on the three-cent denomination of the Newfoundland "Coronation" postage stamp series of June 14, 1911.

Stamp collecting is, with the Prince of Wales, as with his royal father, a favorite hobby, and when in London he is frequently to be seen in the leading stamp dealers' establishments in search of new acquisitions for his extensive collection. The stamp issues of British North America have long possessed a special fascination for him, and it would not be surprising to learn that his recent tour had brought him some notable specimens of these issues.

Specialized collections of the French colonies and Liberia have likewise been favored by the Prince of Wales, whose philatelic predilections cover a wide range. Early in the present year he consented to become honorary president of the Royal Philatelic Society, an office held for many years by King George prior to his accession.

The Great Britain section of the famous "Worthington" collection, formerly the most important in the United States, has been taken to England by a London firm, by whom it is to be broken up. Among other choice items the collection contains the rare 9d plate 5 in mint condition. The last specimen of this rarity to come on the market was donated by King George to the stamp auction in aid of the British Red Cross, where it was purchased by the same firm for $550.

The new Parliament Buildings cost $6,984,116.15 to February 28 last, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. The contractors are to receive eight per cent. on the total cost of the building, dating from February 1, 1914, up to the amount of $4,000,000, and seven per cent. on the cost in excess up to $1,000,000. It being understood and agreed that they are not to receive commission on the cost in excess of $5,000,000. The architect's fees are and a half per cent. on the total cost of the work of reconstructing the Parliament Buildings, this commission not to apply to an amount not exceeding $5,000,000.

Frequent Treatment.

A negro mammy had four boys who were so polite and well-behaved that they excited the interest of the mammy's mistress. "Mandy," said the mistress one day, "how did you manage to raise your boys so well?" "Ah! tell you, missus," replied Mandy. "Ah, raise dem boys with a barrel stave, and Ah raised 'em frequent."

Echo of Glory.

"Why do they put on so many alps these days?" "They put that way by having a second lieutenant in the family. And despite the fact that he has been mustered out and has resumed his job as shipping clerk in a sardine factory, they can't forget how he looked in his uniform."

Don't Know Amount.

Sir George Foster stated in the House of Commons recently that no amount had been ascertained of what was due to Canada by way of war expenditure from Germany.

Don't Read When Drowsy.

To read or study when tired or drowsy is to strain the eyes to a dangerous degree, writes W. H. Garhart in Public Health. Avoid evening study whenever possible. If you are using your eyes by artificial light, be sure the light does not shine directly into the eyes, and try to have it come from behind and to the left side so as to avoid the harmful glare.

Happily Stopped When He Began To Take "Fruit-a-Lives"

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again."

One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-Lives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

DON'T think that because your stomach can digest food you are proof against indigestion. The most important digestive work is done by the bowels, liver and kidneys. Unless these are active and work in harmony, you are in danger of self-poisoning. BEECHAM'S PILLS help the bowels to functionate properly, and influence the liver and kidneys to act very efficiently.

Experience Saves Money in this Maxwell THE 300,000 Maxwells built to date saves you many a worth while dollar in the new Post-War Maxwell. Those 300,000 saved in many ways. 1. They taught "short cuts" in manufacturing. 2. They eliminated all experimental work—you don't have to pay for a single engineering mistake. 3. They developed quantity production which has reduced "overhead." 4. They enabled quantity purchases; and better materials are bought at lower costs. 5. They taught how to build an almost trouble-proof car; you seldom take a Post-War Maxwell to a repair shop. 6. They taught how to get the most mileage out of a gallon of gasoline, a pint of oil and a set of tires. 7. They taught how to build a car that the less skilled driver would find simple to operate and take care of. 8. They taught that it was better to build more and take less profit per car rather than build less and take more profit per car. 9. They taught how to put more and more value in the car without increasing the cost. This Post-War Maxwell is next year's car. It contains features developed during the war, many of which will find their way into other cars in the summer of 1920. MAXWELL MOTOR CO., OF CANADA, LIMITED, WINDSOR, ONT. M.
