SHOOTING AND ROBBERIES THROUGHOUT IRELAND

(Canadian Press Despatch.) London, May 13.—An extraordinary number of reports came in this morning from all parts of Ireland recording shootings, robberies, destruction of public property and other similar activities. Whether these events have been the result of concerted action has not yet been learned. It is believed here, however, that they could hardly have been coincidences.

PREMIER BORDEN ASSUMES OFFICE

He Has No Intention of Retiring For Some Months At Least.

TO MEET HIS SUPPORTERS

TOWARDS END OF MONTH TO TALK MATTERS OVER.

This Meeting May Result in the Promulgation of a Platform for the Unionist Party.

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Ottawa, May 13.—Sir Robert Borden to-day presided over the meeting of the Cabinet. The details of the budget which Sir Henry Drayton is to present in the House on Tuesday next, it is understood, were under consideration.

The premier's return has revived rumors in political circles of his impending retirement from political life. It is learned on high authority that the prime minister has no intention of retiring, for some months yet at any rate. A caucus of Unionist supporters will be called at an early date to discuss the situation.

The most recent prediction, with respect to the budget, propounds is that they will include provision for the continuation in some form of the business profits war tax. The legislation under which that tax was levied, expires this year, and it was understood that it would not be re-enacted. The belief was that instead business profits would be taxed under the Income Tax Act. The practice has been to collect from companies that one of the two taxes which will yield to the Government the larger revenue.

The prime minister will meet his parliamentary supporters in caucus towards the end of the month. The caucus cannot well be held earlier because the Senate does not re-assemble until May 23rd. It is the earnest hopes of Unionist members, that this coming meeting may result in progress toward the promulgation of a platform for their party. They feel that an early declaration of policy and in addition provision of an organization are necessary that the party may be prepared for a general election when it comes.

The tablet was erected in recognition of their bequeathing a spirit of patriotism which inspired two score of their descendants to volunteer for active service in the late war.

GERMAN ZEPPELIN FACTORY FOR U.S.

Uncle Sam's Land May Be Made the Home of These Air Monsters.

TRANSFER OF THE WORKS

IS TO BE NEGOTIATED IN NEW YORK

This Is Being Done Because the Allies May Insist That Germany Build No More Aerial Fleets.

Berlin, May 13.—Allied pressure to forbid Germany to construct any aerial craft whatsoever, together with Germany's fear that the Government may be forced to obey such a permanent injunction, may make America the home of the Zeppelins and Schuette-Lans air cruisers.

The director-general of the Zeppelin works is now on his way to New York, and Prof. John Schuette, head of the Schuette-Lans Airship Building Works, leaves for New York next week, both with the view to negotiating the transfer of their respective works to the United States.

The German insist that the Versailles Treaty does not prohibit Germany from having a commercial air fleet. On the other hand, they realize the Allies may interpret the treaty provisions to that effect, and that Germany, in that case, will be able to do little more than protest.

For that reason, preparations are already being made to transfer the big airship and air cruiser building yards to America in the event the forthcoming negotiations result in a mutually satisfactory deal.

CLAIMS AUTHORSHIP OF "TIPPERARY"

Mrs. Jay, of Washington, Declares Music Is Her's and Sues for Profits.

New York, May 13.—"It's a long, long way to Tipperary," which inspired hundreds of thousands of British Tommies as they went into battle singing the well-known song flowed from the pen—at least the music of it did—of Mrs. Alice Smyth B. Jay, of Yakima, Wash., and was first sung February 26th, 1909, in that city by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church, according to testimony given today by Mrs. Jay in the supreme court here.

Mrs. Jay is suing the Chappell Co., Ltd., a British publishing house, demanding an accounting of all profits from the war song.

The feature of the suit to-day was testimony given by a violinist, O. A. Asch, after wearing his fiddle would play the truth, that the whole truth and nothing but the truth, sat in the witness chair and played the "Booster Chorus," written by Mrs. Jay for her home city in 1909. Then he rendered the Tipperary battle song, repeating each twice over, and many who listened declared they detected no difference in the music of the war song and the "Booster Chorus."

ADVISED VETERANS TO USE MODERATION

Col. A. O. Pratt Declares They Must Not Expect Too Much.

Toronto, May 13.—Plenty of advice to the veterans to use moderation, with persistence and unanimity, in pressing their demands, was given at a meeting of the Parkdale Great War Veterans, when Lieut.-Col. Arthur C. Pratt mentioned a number of the facilities which veterans are sure to encounter. One who never got nearer the front than a suite of rooms at the Savoy hotel in London, or who spent their time back of the lines driving about in high-powered motors and delivering speeches to the fighters. He also wanted to make it plain to the veterans that they would never get far as fault-finders or as agitators, and he advised them to use a considerable amount of philosophy in pressing their cases.

WOODHUCK ON MENU IN JEFFERSON HOME

Cost of Meat.

Watertown, N. Y., May 13.—The woodchuck, also known as the ground hog, is paying the price of the high cost of living. For years, chucks have been unmolested, save as an occasional land owner rid his premises of them, on the ground that they dig up the field and eat his grass, or a young marksman proved his nerve by quest-for live game. But these happy days, for the woodchuck are past, and with the mounting price of meat he has become an article of generally accepted food.

COMMONS GREET BORDEN

The Members Gave the Premier a Splendid Welcome.

Ottawa, May 13.—Sir Robert Borden made a triumphal entry to the Commons yesterday afternoon—his first appearance of the session. The premier's room was banked with palms, and a great floral basket was set on his table. The galleries were well filled and on the floor the attendance of members was conspicuously large.

Sir Robert made his entry at 3.50 o'clock. He did it modestly, instead of walking down the main aisle, he came in by a side door near his seat, but his appearance was the occasion for a prolonged deaf pandering from all sections of the House.

D. D. McKenzie, who had taken the floor to discuss the Supreme Court Act, expressed pleasure that "the Opposition had the good luck to be the first to welcome back the premier."

Sir Robert is as brown as a berry, and as far as appearance indicates is in fine shape. He took no part in the proceedings this afternoon.

The latest British statistics show that the birth rate has been trebled since last year.

DEMANDS ACTION AGAINST U.F.O.

For Harassing of Members of Legislature by Its Requests.

"MAN BEHIND THE THRONE"

IS WHAT MEMBERS CALLED U.F.O. SECRETARY MORRISON

"The Rasputin of the Government" —Is the Government In Or Is It Out?—Civil Servant Superannuation.

Toronto, May 13.—Government action to end the bombarding and harassing of members of the Legislature by requests from the U.F.O. was demanded by R. E. Hall, Liberal member for Parry Sound, in the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hall read a letter he had received from J. Morrison, urging him to vote against the superannuation bill.

"I have no desire to defeat that bill," Mr. Hall affirmed. "I have spoken in favor of it, and I am not inclined to retract, but there is something more behind this. It is a question of Government in or Government out. Here's a man who has been behind the throne—the Capuchin of the Government—"

"The what?" gaped Premier Drury, amid laughter from both sides of the House.

"The 'Rasputin,'" Mr. Hall began. "That's it—Rasputin," Mr. Hall nodded. "This is a very serious matter for the Government and the Province at large. To defeat this bill would mean a vote of want of confidence, the defeat of the Government and the expense and turmoil of another election. It is up to the Government to do something to suppress this sort of thing. It is worse than newspaper talk."

That which, apparently, Mr. Hall could conceive of as more scathing condemnation.

John O'Neill, Liberal member for Southeast Toronto, has given notice of the following motion:

"That in the opinion of this House these civil servants who have spent fifty years of their lives in devoted service to the best interests of the Province of Ontario shall be entitled to honorariums of $5,000 upon their retirement in addition to any other money they may be entitled to under the Superannuation Act."

The motion was carried by a vote of 17 to 10.

Abolish Native Wines. Windsor, May 13.—Members of the Essex County Temperance association, meeting at Essex, discussed at length the question of memorializing the government to abolish the manufacture of native wine, and a resolution to this effect was put through by a small majority vote. It was also urged that increased salaries for license inspectors be authorized, and this request, too, will be made.

(Canadian Press Despatch.) WOMAN KILLS HER HUSBAND

SHE WAS DYING OF DISEASE AND WAS JEALOUS

Did Not Want Him to Marry Another Woman—Put Seven Bullets Into Him As He Entered Room.

Elgin, Ill., May 13.—Despite the ravages of tuberculosis, which has progressed so far that her life is a nightmare that may end at any moment, Mrs. Henry C. Fredericks, continues to smile as she lies on her bed in the city jail here.

The woman deliberately pumped seven bullets into the body of her wealthy husband, the body of her home after she had spent a month practicing with her revolver to make sure that her aim would be true.

Knowing that the disease which has claimed her would end her life within a few weeks, she would not wait for her to die, she told the police, and had planned to marry another woman.

"I have had my revenge, and now I can die in peace," she said last night. "I do not give him up for any woman. If he would not wait for me to die, as he knew I would within a month or two, I made up my mind to take him with me. The thought that he has gone before me, and that maybe the other woman he had chosen to succeed me is now suffering as I have suffered, makes me tranquil and contented."

Physicians say that Mrs. Fredericks will never be brought to trial. She was held in the grand jury without bail, and between the coughs that rack her body on the slightest exertion, she laughed at the inquest jury's decision.

"It has come too late," she said. "They will never try me. I know I am dying, and I am glad."

"I did not feel any emotion when I raised my revolver and fired the first shot as my husband entered the house. I was only interested in knowing that my aim was good. I bought the revolver a month ago, when I found out about the other woman, and every day I have practiced in the basement of my home, using an old cap of my husband's as a target. At first I could not hit it. Then my aim grew better. I was very pleased."

"At last I was sure my aim was good enough and that the time had come."

"My husband did not know I knew about the other woman. He would come home and kiss me and each time he did it made me more certain that I would kill him. The judge said that I would kill him. The judge said that I would kill him. The judge said that I would kill him."

"I am coming home for dinner, dearie," he said.

"All right, sweetheart, I answered. I measured off the distance from the front door and walked back forty feet, which was my target practice distance in the basement, and waited."

"As he entered I shot. My aim was perfect. I shot the rest of the clip. He never made another sound. Just one funny little laugh as he fell. It was such a relief."

"Then I sent a telegram of greeting to this other woman and told the neighbors."

The woman went into a violent hemorrhage, and the physicians forbade her to talk more.

But she continued to smile.
