Theatrical

At the Grand.
"Two-Gun Betty" is the title of the Robertson-Cole five-reel feature that is showing at the Grand to-night and Friday, and it has for its star the popular motion picture actress, Besie Barriscale. The plot of this picture is a delightful one, dealing with a bet made by an Eastern girl that she can pass as a boy on her chum's cattle ranch. The fun starts when she arrives at the ranch, and the cowboys, knowing who she is, make life miserable for her and very amusing for the spectator. There is another big feature, "Burnt Wings," starring Frank Mayo. This picture is taken from the novel by Bayard Veiller, "The Primrose Path." It is the story of the testing of a young American girl, of the familiar saying that there is always money in Paris for a pretty woman. There are reels of comedy and other subjects and a splendid musical programme by the Grand's augmented orchestra.—Adv.

"Keeping Up With the Joneses."
The hit of the season may be aptly applied to the latest Gus Hill triumph, "Keeping Up With the Joneses" which is to be the next attraction at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, May 15th, with a special matinee.

This new play is based on the popular cartoons of Pop Momand whose screamingly funny creations first appeared in the pages of the New York Globe. It was Mr. Hill who first saw the possibilities of bringing cartoon to life, as attested by the success of "Mutt and Jeff" and "Bringing up Father." Those who have seen this latest landslide of laughter claim that in point of popularity it will surely eclipse the success of any musical comedy of its kind offered hereabouts in seasons. If millions have enjoyed the cartoons it is easy to predict that millions more will enjoy the play. Startling surprises, plenty of singing, dancing and novelties, pretty women, glittering costumes, a large and capable cast, jingling and effervescent music, fantasy and sensational features, comprise this contribution. It is a show built on unusual lines and calculated to set a new departure in productions which will be difficult for other managers to emulate.—Adv.

Coming to the Grand.
At the Grand Opera House next week, commencing Monday evening, Lindsay E. Ferrin presents Miss Arlie Marks and her associated players in a number of latest comedies, including "The Golden Rule," "The Brat," "The Girl From Out Yonder" and other successful plays. The play will be changed nightly, every play having special scenery, with interesting vaudeville between acts. Miss Marks has been surrounded by the best acting company that could be procured, and the plays are all late New York successes, especially "The Brat," in which Arlie Marks excels. This was the biggest hit made in New York city, and has been famous in the movies. The company will open their engagement with "The Brat" next Monday evening.—Adv.

At Griffin's.
To-day will see the opening chapters of "The Lost City" at Griffin's, the stupendous production which was secured at the highest figure ever offered for any production heretofore shown. Introducing scenes never before enacted on any screen. Words cannot describe its breathless, suspense, filled with unbelievable deeds of daring and beasts of the jungle slain before the very camera's eye. Deep into the jungle went the daring company of players to enact the scenes of this thrilling story, braving the very jaws of death in their determination to picture the terrifying dangers of these strange lands, uncivilized people and ferocious beasts. Nothing like it will be shown again. Each episode is more spectacular than the other. Remember the first chapters begin to-day. In addition to this great subject, the popular Thomas H. Ince star, Charles Ray, will be shown in his newest and best photoplay, "Crooked Straight." It's about a small town youth who goes to the city to make his fortune, falls into temptation and becomes the accomplice of crooks, then returns to the little village and makes good with a vengeance. The youthful star has a splendid opportunity to display his athletic prowess, and also shines in the brand new side-line cracking. Be sure and see this programme, as its equal has not been seen in Kingston in some time.—Adv.

At the Strand.
The popular idea of a show girl in a life of ease, of lobster palaces and midnight frolics, but this is all dispelled in actual realities as shown by Constance Talmadge in "Two Weeks," a First National picture adapted from Anthony Wharton's play, "At the Barn." It will be shown at the Strand Theatre to-night, Friday and Saturday. Constance Talmadge and her two chums are of the chump and half the time out of work. It is dull and drab existence, the three often counting the change to find if they have enough to buy the next morning's breakfast. Then there suddenly comes a great change in fortunes in this story of a little chorus girl who is elevated to stardom by a wealthy young man-about-town, who falls in love with her. Fleeting from the too ardent wooer, the little show girl takes refuge in the house of three crusty old bachelors, where she spends two delightful weeks shocking them and vamping them until all are in love with her.—Adv.

JAMES BREBNER, L.L.D.

Toronto University Registrar, a Man Who Merits Recognition.
Toronto Globe.
James Brebner, Registrar of the University of Toronto, who received from Queen's University the degree of L.L.D. ad honoris causa, is a man who truly merits the recognition. He comes of a teaching ancestry. His father, Donald MacGillivray, born in Banffshire, in the north of Scotland, was a teacher, and for many years inspector of Schools in the county of Lambton, a position he held at the time of his death, and his mother, a Border woman, was a teacher, and taught in the schools of Middlesex. James Brebner was born in London, going as a small boy to Sarnia. Between 1878 and 1880 he taught in various country schools, going to Brantford Collegiate in 1881, where he remained for three years, gaining, under Dr. Donald MacGillivray, a taste for the classics that he has never lost. During this time Mr. Brebner took his first year at the University—a common practice in those days. In the fall of 1884 he taught in the Model School at Forest, and in January, 1885, became classical and English master at the high school in Petrolia. The autumn of 1886 found him at Varsity, but illness interfered and he did not get his year.

The needs of the college library loomed large about this time, and young Brebner, who was known to have developed into the all-round type of scholar, was selected as the man to be made student-assistant to the librarian. In 1890 came the fire at the University, and as a result of the disaster Mr. Brebner was forced to give his whole time to the reconstruction of the library, and so was unable to go up for his degree, till 1891. In January, 1892, he was made assistant registrar; in the January following registrar; since which time he has presided over the destinies of many hundreds of students, winning not only their respect, but their affectionate regard, and adding unto himself, little by little, a depth and a breadth of scholarship that has made a sister university desire to honor herself in honoring him.

FARMER PUT TOWNSHIP TO EXPENSE OF $800

Because He Thought He Was Charged Seventy-one Cents Too Much Taxes.

Meaford, May 13.—A case that probably is without precedent in the annals of Canadian law courts, has just been disposed of by Judge Sutherland in the Division court here. R. J. Orr, a farmer residing at Fairmount, about eight miles from Meaford, sued the township of Euphrasia for the recovery of 71 cents, which he claimed to have overpaid the township collector in the way of taxes. The plaintiff, in his testimony, stated that he had been at a loss of $58.67 in trying to have the alleged error rectified. In the meantime Orr had a petition circulated alleging that the township treasurer was behind in his accounts, and asking that his books be audited by a chartered accountant. This was done, and the result was that the books were found to be correct, with the exception of a few cents. The audit cost the township $800. The judge dismissed the action with costs to the plaintiff. It is said the township council will bring action against Orr for the recovery of the amount paid for the audit.

CURRIE APPOINTMENT A NOTABLE EXAMPLE

The London Times Says Boldness and Optimism Expected of Dominion.

London, May 13.—The London Times in an article on the speech by Sir Lomer Gouin on the bright prospects of Quebec, says: "The outlook of the province of Quebec is highly optimistic, but boldness and optimism are qualities we expect from our Dominion. They are as indigenous to the soil as the originality and breadth of conception which Canada herself has given us a notable example of in the proposed selection of the great military commander, Sir Arthur Currie, to direct the fortunes of McGill University."
