GOLDEN RULE BEST SOLUTION

high ideals, but the people of Canada knew that the United States Senate, and not the President, who drafted the covenant of the League of Nations, was supreme in peace and war, and the President could not sign any peace agreement without the sanction of a two-thirds vote of the Senate. He regretted that Canada's delegates were not accorded the right to represent the Empire with those of the other dominions. Those who shouted about Canada being a nation, but they were not at all ready to accept national responsibility. This was shown in the fact that we had not adequate military or naval defence. We have not changed our status by the war, unless it be that we are wider apart than before.

Taking up the social side, the speaker said that many regarded the year 1919 as more dangerous to Canada than any year during the war, because everything that we valued most dear was then in the balance. It has not been fully known just how dangerous the situation was. The unrest throughout the country, and the difference between capital and labor call for the most careful consideration. Bold and absurd suggestions that are really dangerous catch the attention now more than anything else. This is not giving things the importance that they deserve. We must not fan the flames that separate contending classes, but endeavor to bind them together. This is a business man's problem, and boards of trade should be able to do good. First of all, "that everyone should do to others as he would be done by" is the best doctrine now, as it always has been, and the Golden Rule contains all that is necessary to solve our troubles. If we will put it into practice. To the employer it says, "Give unto your servant that which is just and equal"; and to labor, "if he render his service by doing the will of God from the heart."

A Good Solution.

One of the best solutions to bring about cordial relations is "everyone in his proper station, and rewarded according to the duty he has to perform." This will bring capital and labor together which is the greatest work to be done. We must consider the other man's standpoint in order to find out whether we have been doing our full duty or we should be doing it. Speaking of the high cost of living, Mr. Cockshutt said that Canada was really better off in this respect than other countries. The increase in the United States had been eighty-one per cent., in Canada eighty per cent., but in Europe the increase in the increase was all the way from 100 to 300 per cent.

In the House of Commons fifty members classed as farmers, but labor was not represented as it should be. Labor has a right to be there for it possesses men who are just as eligible as any in any community. I would be glad to vote for a labor man because I think I have no more right to ask him to vote for me than he has to ask for mine. Women will compose fifty per cent. of the voters in the next election and we should endeavor to study all national questions and be prepared to form their opinions on them rather than upon social questions alone, as they are inclined to do.

Canada is in a superior position by reason of her vast natural resources. This was shown during the war, when we could not have done what we did had not a sound industrial basis been laid during the past forty years. More was done by the factory than by the field. Canada's finances stood every strain and we loaned more than two billions of dollars. Canada has gone beyond the stage of one kind of work. Our resources are diversified and with the development that is taking place, and will continue to grow, offers every opportunity for the highest ambitions of her young men.

Mayor H. C. Nickle moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Cockshutt and in expressing deep appreciation of his very excellent address, voiced the feelings of all present. Mr. Cockshutt was followed with intense interest and was constantly applauded.

In Memory of Dr. Hanley.
An impressive ceremony took place at St. Mary's Cathedral in connection with the Feast of the Ascension. To mark this event a beautifully carved cabinet was placed beside the statue of the Sacred Heart. This cabinet is mounted on a richly carved pedestal. The cabinet contains the Promises of Our Lord to the blessed Margaret Mary in favor of those devoted to His Sacred Heart. Embodied in the carving are the invocations, in Latin, "Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on us" and "St. Margaret Mary pray for us." In the centre is a brass tablet bearing the inscription: "In memory of Dr. Robert Hanley."

The first reading was given to a bill at Ottawa to bring the control of electrical roads under the jurisdiction of the provincial governments. Over one thousand members of the Electrical, Painters and Carpenters' Union returned to work at Ottawa pending a settlement.

FIVE-YEAR WATER CONTRACT

IS SOUGHT BY THE C.P.R. FROM KINGSTON.

But it is Not Likely to be Made—Difficulty in Getting Electrodes For Street Arc Lamps.

The Utilities Commission Monday afternoon considered an application from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for a five-year agreement for water supply at $90 a year. Manager Folger advised against giving a five-year agreement, suggesting two. The matter was deferred till it is seen what extensions the railway company is undertaking.

Manager Folger reported as to the difficulty in getting electrodes for the street arc lamps. A chance offered of purchasing five thousand, and the commission authorized the manager to secure them.

Chairman Elliott reported as to what had been done at the municipal hydro-electric meetings held at Peterboro and Smith's Falls. What chiefly interested Kingston was the arrangement made at Peterboro with the provincial hydro-electric commission engineers to give Kingston 500 additional horse-power of electrical energy from the Trent. This power is needed for manufacturing purposes here.

The purchase of a new compound meter for a local institution whose water supply is not being fully registered was authorized. This meter will register everything that passes through it.

Auditor Muir reported as to a number of entries required to be made in order to close the commission's books for 1919, and it was decided to accede to the auditor's request.

In attendance at the meeting were R. Elliott, Mayor Nickle and Thomas Hewitt.

"DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE."

John Barrymore's Great Triumph—Attraction at Strand Theatre.

A wonderful play, well acted. This is the offering of the Strand theatre for the first three nights of this week in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," in which the celebrated actor, John Barrymore takes the title roles. It is without doubt one of the greatest things ever shown on the screen at this popular theatre, and was witnessed by a big audience on Monday night. The film version of this well-known drama is a great success and the audience on the opening night had warm words of praise for it. In it John Barrymore scores his greatest triumph, and his work in the characters of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, is a great contribution to the screen. His acting throughout is most convincing and gives a true portrait of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story.

Barrymore is surrounded by an all-star cast and the entire production is given with a finished touch that is most pleasing. Two outstanding characters are Martha Mansfield, as the sweetheart of Dr. Jekyll, and Nita Naldi, a music hall dancer, who falls a victim to Mr. Hyde, and these parts are presented in an able manner.

The story, which has attracted much attention from both the pulpit and the press, is one that gives much food for thought. It is a wonderful performance, and one that should be witnessed by all theatregoers. No pains have been spared in the staging of it, the various details being complete in every respect. First you have Dr. Jekyll as the gentleman, and then as Mr. Hyde, the brute, and in these two roles Mr. Barrymore is given an opportunity for one of the greatest pieces of character acting ever presented, and he carried out this difficult work with marked ability. The consensus of opinion is that the screen production far surpasses that of the stage offering given of it by Richard Mansfield.

The latter had theatrical effects to aid him in his gruesome transitions, but Mr. Barrymore's role is different. In his work there is a shrewd merging of personalities, which not only thrill but convince as well. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" will be given at the Strand to-night and again Wednesday night. The well selected music rendered by the Strand orchestra adds to the special offering.

The schooner Eccles arrived from Oswego, with a cargo of coal for Anglin's.

The schooner St. Louis, loaded with coal, from Oswego, is discharging for Robert Crawford.

The steamer Imperial, of the Imperial Oil Company, is unloading a cargo of oil here.

The steamer Holcomb is at Richardson's elevator, loading corn for Cardinal.

The steamer Jeeka is in the Collingwood Shipbuilding company's dock for repairs.

The keel of the new ship, similar to the Canadian Beaver, built at the Kingston branch of the Collingwood shipyards, has been laid. This ship will be fitted with the same kind of engines, boilers and equipment as the Beaver. Although the shipyard is working at full force, there is some difficulty being experienced in securing materials.
