

FINDS HIM WEDDED TO AN ALMONTE GIRL

English Bride Arrives at Almonte—Alleged Husband Goes Away With Her.

Almonte, May 21.—An interesting situation has developed here. A young lady, accompanied by a child, disembarked from the Ottawa train upon its arrival and, as nobody appeared to meet her, she made inquiries from the station master regarding Percy Oldroyd, who, she stated, had married her while he was serving with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. According to the story told by her to the station master, she had requested Mr. Oldroyd to meet her at the station at Almonte.

The station master, who knew a man of that name who had recently married a young lady of that town, did not give the newcomer any information and, as the hotels were all closed at the hour of her arrival, she was compelled to wait in the station.

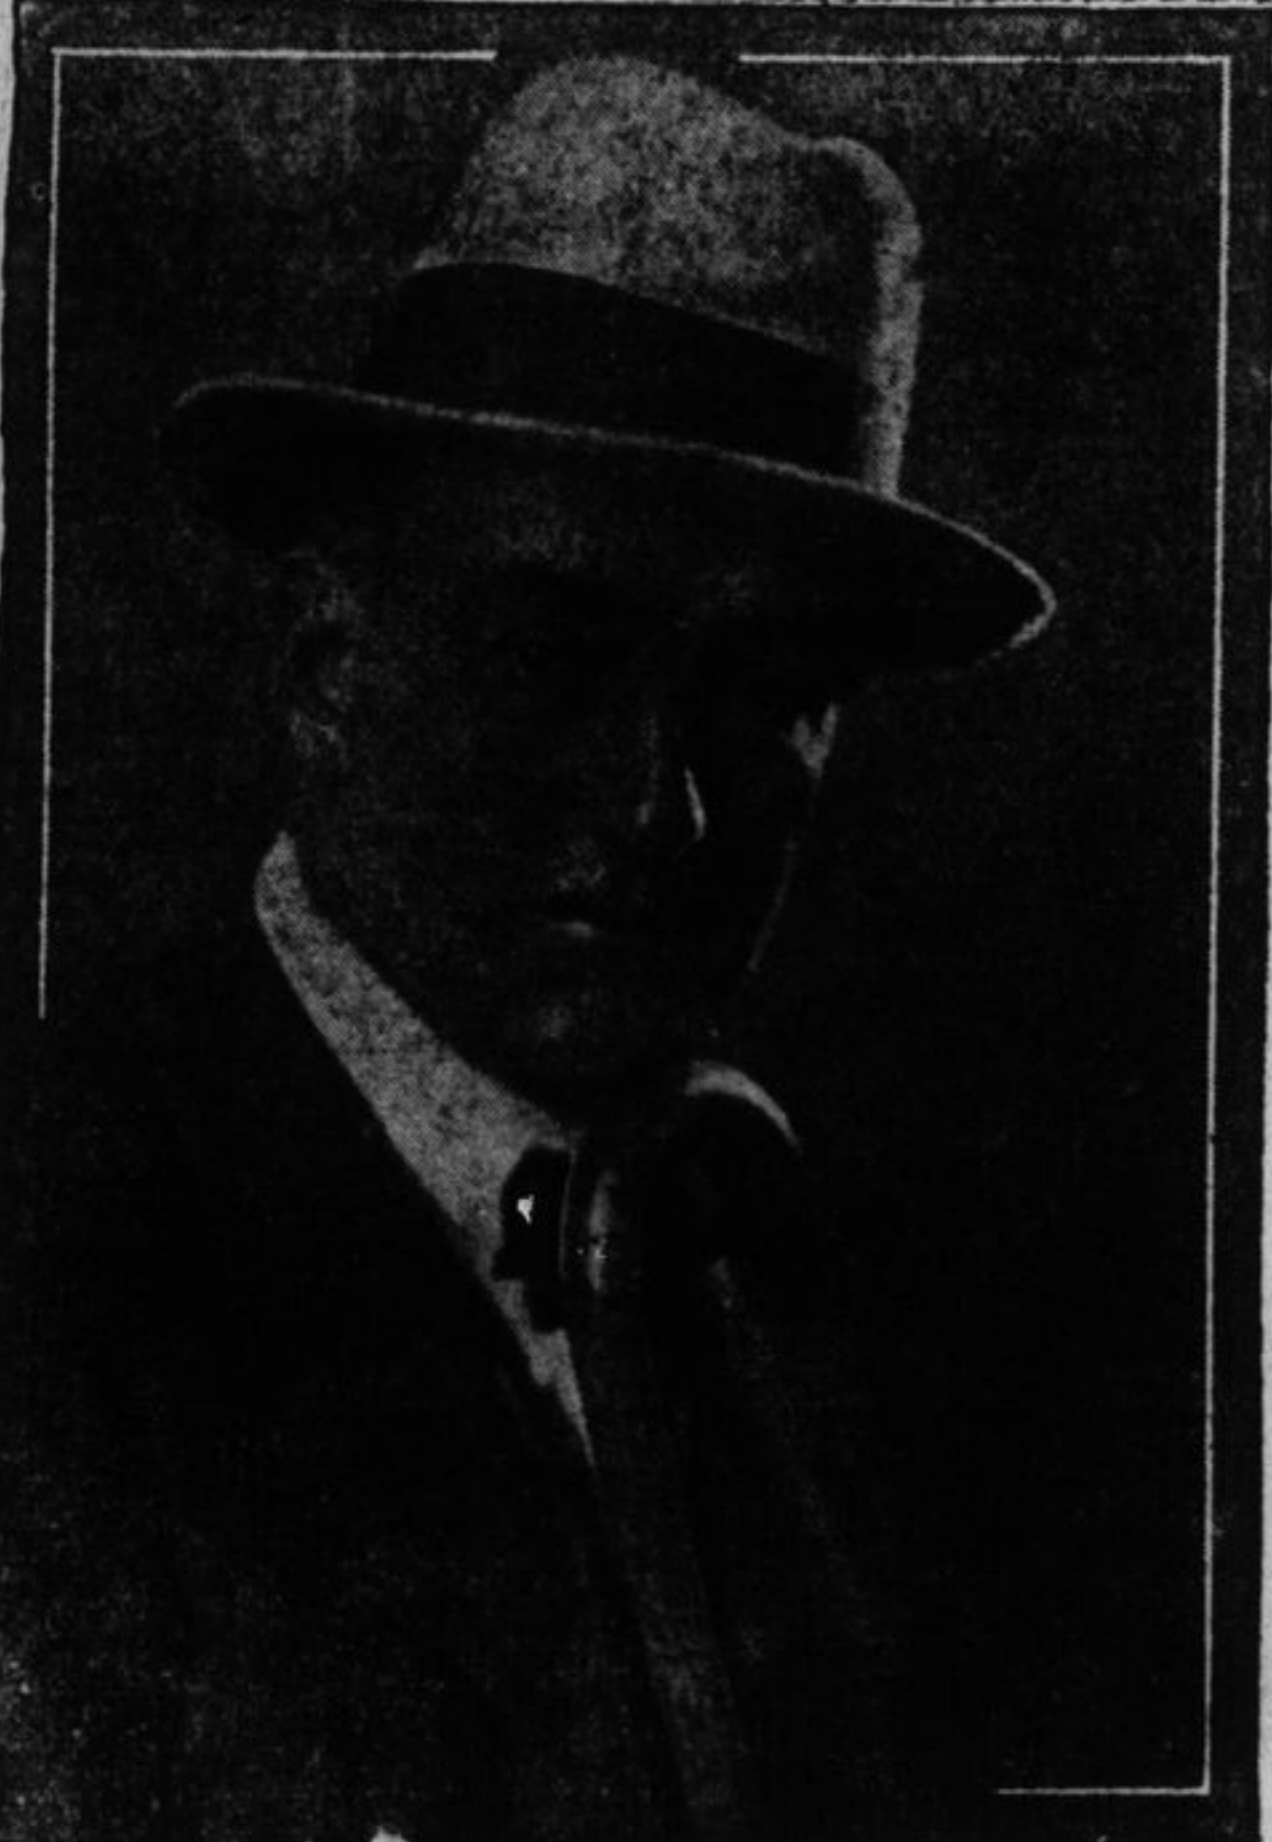

About four o'clock Mr. Oldroyd came to the station and the young lady apparently recognized him as her pseudo husband. He, however, claimed that he did not know her and an argument ensued which was finally terminated by the station agent ordering them to keep quiet. Together they took the first train for Ottawa.

Oldroyd, who is well-known in Almonte, worked as an employee in a cheese factory near that town before the war. On his return after demobilization he accepted a vocational training course and, at the time of the arrival of the English girl, he was employed as a barber by Ryerson Miller. Neither Oldroyd nor the English girl have been seen in Almonte since.

I Did Not Follow Wanamaker!

I never wait until forced to follow others. I think for myself. I act for the public good, on my own initiative.

M. B. Robinson

What Really Happened

To break the back-bone of high prices I launched my Sale on May 1st—preceded by weeks of planning and preparation. Without previous intimation, John Wanamaker started his sale May 3rd. I started the battle in Canada—TWO DAYS—before John Wanamaker did in the United States.

When all authorities point out the probability of higher prices—I feel it is my duty to try and lower high prices, to help the Public bear the excessive burdens of the day. Keep in mind:

- 1—My regular prices have always been the lowest in Canada.
- 2—I have never marked up over values on my price tickets in order to mark them down.
- 3—My regular price tickets, as well as the sale price tickets, are on all garments.
- 4—New goods coming in are included as well as present stock—Nothing reserved.

The Reason for my Sale

Because exhaustive investigation revealed to me the hardship the public was undergoing through high prices, because I realized that if relief was to come it must be through the efforts of the nation's largest business institutions—I decided to attempt to break high prices, by offering my entire One Million Dollar stock of clothing—as well as all new garments coming from my factories at reductions that STARTLED THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Having the complete confidence of the public, which I have always regarded as a priceless possession—my sale from its inception has met with great success.

Whether complete victory is to be mine, whether I can break high prices—I do not know—but while my sale is on I urge everyone to take advantage of it.

I assure you—my values cannot be equalled in all Canada—and may not be again.
