THE WHIG'S THIRD VICTORY

DEFEAT THE LINDSAY PIANO TEAM BY 9 TO 7.

A Five-Innings Game Was Played on Wednesday Evening—M. S. Grace Proved a Great Base Runner.

The Whig baseball team registered its third victory of the season, defeating the team representing the C. W. Lindsay piano company at the cricket field on Wednesday evening by a score of 9 to 7, in a five-innings game.

The Whig team scored eight runs and then the Lindsay team stopped the newspaper men. Judging by the musicians' work in the last two innings the victory might have been theirs had the game lasted nine innings. But it didn't. The regular Whig pitcher, Holland, played on second base and although Davidson showed signs of distress no change was made. It was a lively game with some spectacular fielding. Derry, of the Whig, on first base, had the Lindsay men guessing, but M. S. Grace must have had a horse-shoe around his neck, or else in the excitement of seeing Manager Grace rushing wildly towards him, the Whig third baseman got nervous and failed to connect with the ball. George Pound umpired the game to everyone's satisfaction.

The teams: Lindsay Co.—Harrison, p.; Turnbull, c.; Jerome, 1b.; Driscoll, 2b.; M. S. Grace, 3b.; H. Grace, s.s.; Treaner, l.f.; Newton, c.f.; Flynn, r.f.

Whig—Davidson, p.; Knight, c.; Derry, 1b.; Holland, 2b.; McIlwray, 3b.; Shipman, s.s.; Cliff, l.f.; Pense, Beardsall, c.f.; Potter, r.f.

The score by innings:
Lindsay 1 2 3 4 5 R
Whig 8 1 0 0 0-9

CLAIM SITE IS WRONG ONE

ON WHICH TO BUILD METHODIST UPTOWN CHURCH

Leading Methodists Say the Church Should Be Erected Further Away From Princess Street.

A number of leading Methodists oppose the building of the new Methodist church in the up-town section of the city on the site adjoining the Princess street Methodist church. They claim that the recommendation of the committee, composed of two members from the four Methodist churches of the city, that the new edifice be built on the site at the corner of Princess and Albert streets, is not binding. When this committee was appointed its duty was to bring a recommendation to his board, and in a recommendation and when they did that their work was accomplished and they passed out of existence.

On Sunday last, when Rev. W. T. G. Brown, pastor of Sydenham street Methodist church read the report of this committee to his board, he explained that their decision was not final, on account of the committee of three clergymen and three laymen, which was recently appointed by the Kingston Methodist district to deal with the matter of selecting new sites for new churches to be built, taking precedence.

The Methodist churches of the city have been asked to appoint another committee composed of four men from each church to form an advisory committee which will work in conjunction with the district committee.

Several Methodist claim that it would be very unwise to build on the Princess street site for reason that no matter how large a church is built it will not serve the needs of the people as they do not live in that section of the city, but further to the southwest.

When this church is built they claim that the needs of the former members of Brock street church should be taken into consideration as the boards of Brock street church decided to give all the money which was received from the sale of their church to help rebuild or build a new church in the uptown section of the city.

A WAR VETERAN WEDS.

The Williamson-Elliott Nuptials on Wednesday Morning.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Elliott, 398 Queen street, on Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, when their daughter, Cora Valda, was united in marriage to George N. Williamson, son of Mrs. Robert Williamson, of Sharbot Lake. Rev. J. D. Ellis, pastor of Queen street Methodist church, performed the ceremony, which took place under an arch of flowers. The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father. Miss Evelyn Dennell played the wedding march. The couple were unattended. Little Miss Muriel Elliott, of Brockville, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl, and carried a basket of pink sweet peas.

The bride looked very charming in a beautiful gown of pussy willow satin with georgette and pearl trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet. She wore a handsome veil. The groom served in France with the 18th Battery, 2nd Canadian division, having enlisted with the 32nd Battery in 1915, and went over with a draft. He returned to Canada in 1919 with the rank of battery quartermaster-sergeant.

Many beautiful gifts were received, showing the high esteem in which the couple are held by many friends. Among them was an electric lamp from the staff of the Gedy's millinery, of which the bride was a former member, and a beautiful clock and address book from Mr. Williamson's friends at his boarding house.

The happy couple left on the fast train for western points, and will return by way of Sharbot Lake, where they will visit Mr. Williamson's mother. The bride's going away suit was of brown silk, with hat to match. Upon their return they will reside at 24 Division street.

First Canadian Divorce Granted

IN the middle of an aged volume, bound in legal brown, among the archives of the Law Society of Upper Canada, lies hidden, the story, and if you will, the romance, of the first divorce ever granted in Canada. In an age when divorce is common enough to disconcert conservative people, it is interesting to consider the act of the bearded members of the Legislature of Upper Canada who set the fashion at Toronto in 1840.

It all began with the Rebellion of 1837, although it is perhaps unfair to attribute this "reform" to the spirit of William Lyon Mackenzie. But after the rebellion a paternal Government despatched to the province, among others, the 32nd Regiment of Foot, to pacify the disgruntled settlers of an excited colony. Among the officers of the regiment was Lieut. Grogan, as he would now be called, but then, neither "let" nor "loo-tenant," because an officer junior to captain was "Mister Grogan."

The regiment was first stationed at London in which town lived John Stuart, a barrister, and his wife. After some months it was moved to Toronto, and, probably, to show their hospitality, the Bench of the Law Society surrendered their quarters at Osgoode Hall to the officers of the regiment, and took their offices to the Parliament Buildings.

Strange to relate, Mrs. Stuart, who was a granddaughter of Chief Justice Powell, of Upper Canada, also came to Toronto—to visit her mother. She is even said to have paid a visit to Osgoode Hall, no doubt to pay her respects to the memory of her grandfather, but with the result that either she eloped with Mister Grogan, or Mister Grogan eloped with her—tradition and rumor throwing some doubt upon this part of the legal proceedings.

At any rate, there was a bona fide elopement, and John Stuart, barrister, came from London, but bearing no be-ribboned brief to Osgoode Hall. Instead he carried his trusty pistol against the honor of his name. Justice Riddell has related in one of his accounts of early duels, the manner in which Stuart and Grogan met upon the island. Neither of the principals nor any of the spectators was injured and contrary to the laws of duelling, Grogan fired into the air.

An action for damages was brought and Stuart recovered $3,264 to save his honor, but unsatisfied, an application was made to the Legislature for a divorce, whereupon, after due consideration, they passed an "Act for the Relief of John Stuart"—the first Canadian divorce—of which the following is a fair and true copy:

"Third Victoria, Chapter 72. An Act for the Relief of John Stuart, Royal Assent Promulgated on the 18th of June, 1841. Forasmuch as John Stuart of the Town of London, Esquire, hath, by his petition humbly set forth, that he and Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Stuart, formerly the Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Powell, are both natives of the said Province of Upper Canada; that a marriage was in due form of law had and solemnized between them at the City of Toronto, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and thirty-four; that he has had three children, daughters, born to him by his said wife, all of whom are living, and are between the ages of two and five years; that he continued to enjoy the comfort and assistance of his wife, from the time of such marriage until on or about the twenty-fifth of June, now last past, when on a visit to her mother in the City of Toronto, aforesaid, having eloped with one John Grogan, then a Lieutenant in Her Majesty's Thirty-Second Regiment of Foot, and at that time stationed in the said City of Toronto, and immediately before stationed at the Town of London, aforesaid; she, the said Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Stuart eloped from him, the said John Stuart, and has continued ever since to live apart from the said John Stuart; and the said John Stuart commenced an action in Her Majesty's Court of the Queen's Bench against the said John Grogan, for the seduction of his said wife, in which such proceedings were had, and judgment was therein rendered for him, the said John Stuart against the said John Grogan, for the sum of £671 14s. 3d. damages and costs, as by the record of the said judgment, reference being thereunto as will more fully appear, and hath humbly prayed that he might be divorced a vinculo matrimonii from his said wife.

"And whereas the said John Stuart hath made proof of the facts above recited, and it is expedient that the prayer of the said petitioner should be granted: Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled under the authority of an Act passed by the Parliament of Great Britain: That the said marriage between the said John Stuart and the said Elizabeth Van Rensselaer Stuart, his wife, shall, from henceforth, be null and void, and the same is hereby declared, adjudged and enacted, to be null and void to all intents and purposes, whatsoever."

Three short paragraphs that follow declare that either party may remarry and protect the rights of the three children, Mary Sophia, Caroline Elizabeth and Agnes Grant Stuart, and any children that there might be from further marriages.

Thus it began.

CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE
Has Opened Up a New Branch at 288 Princess Street.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce to-day opened an up-town branch at 288 Princess street. This is a temporary location only, as the bank expects to build soon on the recently acquired property at the corner of Princess and Clergy streets. The new branch will be under the management of E. M. Davidson, a former popular Kingstonian, who was at one time connected with the Northern Crown Bank here. During the past few years he has been with the Bank of Commerce in Toronto.
