"The Virgin of Stamboul."
It required six months to make the wonderful screen production, "The Virgin of Stamboul," which is the feature at the Grand Opera House to-night. In reproducing great desert scenes—and in bringing to life the characters in their Oriental costumes—a very heavy expenditure was entailed, running, it is said, close to $500,000. There are thousands of players in the mighty cast. Whole streets and mosques in old Stamboul have been reproduced with unflinching fidelity. Far-flung scenes of the Arabian desert, camel caravans and Turkish cavalry, and wild riding Black Horse Troopers, these give but the faintest idea as to the magnitude of this master production. "The Virgin of Stamboul" has for its star the vivacious beauty, Priscilla Dean, and it is a drama that will fill the mind, eye and the heart of everyone who sees it.—Advt.

"Enlighten Thy Daughter."
Rev. Thomas B. Gregory, New York, has the following to say regarding the wonderful feature, "Enlighten Thy Daughter," which comes to the Grand Opera House, June 3rd, 4th and 5th. Let us put up with the other things, mothers, to enable you to have these all-essential talks with your daughters, because if you don't you may be mighty sorry for it later on. Your daughter, mother, so sweet and innocent and beautiful, is no more sacred to the human wolf, than any other girl, and if you give him the chance he will destroy that darling of yours, just as another sort of wolf destroys the lamb. Now this great photoplay gets after the human wolf in a terrible fashion and handles him just as he deserves to be handled. Let mothers see Lillian the "unenlightened girl," and they will swear that God helping them, their dear daughters shall not meet with Lillian's terrible fate. The picture is immense, to say it all in a word—immense, immense, immense; and may it meet with the full measure of success that it so richly deserves.—Advt.

"Mademoiselle of Bully Grenay."
"The P. B. I." is an utterly iconoclastic in its outlook on the war, but in place of the images of clay which it destroys it tries to create gods of truer metal. The most popular conception is that all French girls are frivolous and free from the restraint of all convention. "Mademoiselle of Bully Grenay" shows them in truer colors. Similarly, our troops are generally supposed to have spent half their time in England on leave and the other half in slaughtering Germans in sanguinary bayonet charges. "The Poor Devils" infers that these former offerings, "Aladdin," "Robinson Crusoe" and "Cinderella." This has been made possible by the coming of peace and the release of many of the foremost pantomime artists who were either in the army or tied up with war work. The again, more Parisian costumers are back on the job, and many examples of their dainty artistry are to be seen among the gorgeous gowns worn by the cast and chorus.—Advt.

"Red Riding Hood."
F. Stuart-Whyte's brilliant English pantomime "Little Red Riding Hood" will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House for a two days return, commencing Tuesday, June 8. This is Mr. Whyte's fourth annual importation from England and it is said to surpass in every way his three former offerings, "Aladdin," "Robinson Crusoe" and "Cinderella." This has been made possible by the coming of peace and the release of many of the foremost pantomime artists who were either in the army or tied up with war work. The again, more Parisian costumers are back on the job, and many examples of their dainty artistry are to be seen among the gorgeous gowns worn by the cast and chorus.—Advt.

At Griffin's.
To-night will be the last chance to see Thomas H. Ince's wonder picture, "Dangerous Hours," which has proven so popular with Griffin audiences during the past two days. The picture is in no respect a preacher, but a spectacular, thrilling story developed along the large scale lines for which Ince productions are famous. The central figure is a young visionary who feels called upon to help the working classes, and through the machinations of a female seductress and her associates is led to become the leader of a band of Bolshevik sympathizers. He is in love with a beautiful and innocent girl, and not until the violent programme of his Communist companions threaten to engulf her does he realize the true significance of their aims. He thereupon deserts them, and in a gripping scene is able to foil their purposes and vindicate himself as well. This mighty picture has called forth endorsements from the governors and several states and leading civil and educational authorities. It is one which no person should miss seeing, and a last opportunity will be given this evening.—Advt.

At The Strand.
This is to remind you that we will show Nastimova, the incomparable, in a tremendous screen drama, "Stronger Than Death," at the Strand Theatre for three days beginning Thursday. It is to remind you that this will be one of the motion picture red-letter events of the season, as the pre-eminent Russian star, mistress of a thousand moods, has one of the greatest dramatic vehicles that has ever set off her amazing art. Nastimova plays Sigrid, the dancer. The scene of the story is romantic India, the land of shadows and mystery, which Rudyard Kipling has made famous in fiction. The novel was written by I. A. R. Wylie, an Australian writer of extraordinary brilliancy, whose stories of India have ranked her with Kipling himself. It is an absorbing love story, tense with the undercurrents of momentous events, and colorful in its magnificent backgrounds. In adapting this great dramatic narrative to the screen, Charles Bryant has even enhanced its absorbing human qualities. The production is lavish. It will give you a glimpse of the land where the dark-skinned natives are ever restive, and where the whites must constantly be on their guard. Nastimova, as the London and Paris dan-cor, again reveals her expertness as an interpreter of the human emotions, and displays the skill in terpsichore that is one of her outstanding gifts. You cannot afford to miss this superlative attraction. An afternoon or evening spent with us, we are sure, will be one of the greatest pleasure and profit.—Advt.

JAPAN WILL RENEW BRITISH ALLIANCE

Considers Pact Desirable as a Negative Instrument for Peace.
Tokio, June 2.—The Cabinet has decided to open negotiations for a renewal and revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which Great Britain is said to be willing to maintain with modifications, according to the Yomi-Uri Shimbun. Though some of the conditions will be changed to harmonize with the league of nations the newspaper says it is believed there will be no alteration of the principle with regard to safeguarding the peace of Eastern Asia and the integrity of China, and maintenance of the rights and special interests of Japan and Great Britain in the far east.

Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, former premier, has issued a statement saying that although the downfall of Russia and Germany has removed the original points of tension for the alliance, the uncertain conditions in China and Siberia and the agitation on the part of the Mohammedans of Southern Asia make a renewal of the pact desirable as a negative instrument of peace.

British Prices Start Dropping.
London, June 2.—The continued rise in prices received its first setback yesterday when Selfridge's store announced a general cut of ten per cent on all articles except groceries, the reduction in which will be five per cent. The announcement has been hailed by a general chorus of satisfaction and the hope is expressed that other large shops will follow the example.

Is a Rhodes Scholar.
(Canadian Press Despatch)
Edmonton, June 2.—Walker Dunham, B.A., Lethbridge, was awarded the Rhodes Scholarship for 1920 by the Alberta committee of selection for Rhodes scholarships at a recent meeting of the committee. He will enter upon a three year course of study at Oxford in January, 1921.

To Turn Denmark Into Republic.
Copenhagen, June 2.—The Socialists, the second largest party in the Danish Rigsdag have decided to put forward amendments to the constitution of Denmark. These provide for a republic instead of a kingdom, and Government by a State Council, the chairman of which will also be president of the republic.

Something

We Have Never Done

Before

AND PROBABLY

Will Never Do Again

From October last year until March of this year, we urged our customers to purchase White Cotton by the web, and thus take advantage of the prices then offering, as we felt confident of the advance that would come owing to the great shortage of raw cotton and other factors that made for higher prices.

Many took advantage and bought. Some may have bought too much.

We will now buy back from these same customers

Any uncut webbs of White Cotton they may have and give them not only the cash but allow them a profit of from 10c. a yard to 15c. a yard on the fine makes and a proportionate profit on the medium makes.

Cotton Dress Materials

Goods ordered in Europe and the States long enough ago, to secure reasonable prices, are now here, and in no case can we repeat them at anything like the prices we are now asking.

Voiles

of many kinds, rainbow tinted, and a maze of the daintiest patterns. These will fashion into delightful frocks for garden parties, evening wear and for street wear75c. yard to $2.50.

Ginghams

Still holding their own and long may they flourish! The makers have vied with each other in producing most effective and striking patterns. For service and appearance there is nothing better for the money — 35c., 45c., 50c., 60c. and 75c. yard.
