ENTERTAIN AT LUNCHEON GOING AFTER THE SPEEDERS

KINGSTON P.W.O. REGIMENT OFFICERS ARE HOSTS.

After the Color Ceremony on Thursday—War Reminiscences Are Recounted by Several of the Commanders.

After the reception of the colors, the 21st color party and escort, other local and visiting ex-members of the battalion and members of the active battalion of the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment were served with refreshments at the armories and greetings and reminiscences were exchanged by officers and men of both corps.

At 12.30 o'clock the officer commanding the P.W.O.R. and his officers entertained the commandant of the Royal Military College, General Sir Archibald Macdonell, General Hughes, Colonel Hill (representing Major-General J. H. Emsley, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., G.O.C., Military District No. 3), Lieut.-Col. Browne, Col. F. Etherington, C.M.G., Lieut.-Col. W. H. Craig, Major P. de L. Greenwood, Major W. E. Kidd, M.C., Mayor Nickle, J. M. Farrell, Warden Ponsford, and several visiting ex-officers of the 21st Battalion at luncheon at the Frontenac club.

Before calling upon the distinguished commander of the 1st Canadian Division the commanding officer of the P.W.O.R. remarked that, though the 21st had been fortunate to serve in the 2nd Canadian Division, they had always realized that there were other good divisions in the field and that there had been no doubt that the "Old Red Patch" was one of them.

General Sir Archibald Macdonell, acknowledged the welcome extended to him, and prefaced his remarks with some humorous comment on the fine feeling which had existed between the 1st and 2nd Divisions in France. He went on to say that the time of service was not over with the war, and that the spirit of sacrifice and service was required in Canada to-day. There were many signs of a reaction to extreme individualism and self-seeking.

The commandant of the R.M.C. pointed out that the hard work of militia officers and men was necessary to maintain the reputation of the C.E.F. overseas and to perpetuate the ideal of service for one's country before personal prosperity. The Princess of Wales' Own Regiment had on this memorable day made history by being the first unit of the Active Militia of Canada to complete its re-organization and to consummate that re-organization by absorbing the traditions of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F., as symbolized by its Colors.

General Hughes was next called on, and spoke of his fond feeling for the old 14th Regiment (P.W.O.R.) in which he had served for so long, and expressed his joy at being present on this occasion. He felt that the Colors of the 21st Battalion, which had been honored by over four years of war service, would be worthy of a splendid reputation in the militia of Canada in peace and war.

Colonel Hill, representing the G.O.C. of the district, expressed the regrets of that general officer at being unable to be present on account of his absence on duty. He referred to his friendship with Sir Archibald Macdonell, and felicitously expressed his surprise at the commandant's references to the 1st and 2nd Divisions alone. He emphasized that the whole Canadian Corps, without distinction of divisions, became one of the finest fighting forces the world had known, and that the best method of perpetuating their work and glorious traditions was by the carrying on their spirit in the active militia of Canada.

Lieut.-Col. R. E. Kent, who is retiring from the command of the 7th Infantry Brigade, in favor of Lieut.-Col. H. J. Dawson, C.M.G., D.S.O., spoke of his regret at the loss of the old name of the unit, but he did not doubt that much had been gained by the perpetuation of the 21st Battalion and its traditions in the new Princess of Wales' Own Regiment.

Colonel Etherington, who commanded No. 7 (Queen's) General Hospital, one of the units which crossed the Atlantic with the 21st in 1915, spoke of his pleasure at being present, and wished great success to the militia unit entering upon this new period of its history.

Mayor Nickle was called upon and remarked that he would always have a warm feeling for the 21st Battalion, the first unit to enter the war raised in this city. He expressed his desire to co-operate in anything which would serve to perpetuate their traditions and glorious history in the Princess of Wales' Own Regiment, and would lend to promote the ideals of service for the community and the state.

During the luncheon an excellent programme was rendered by Salisbury's orchestra, the regimental band having an engagement at the fair ground, Piper Nelson and Corporal Drummer Murray entertained the local officers and their guests. Chief Tierney had prepared and served a splendid menu.

The Gypsies Moved. On Friday morning Justice of the Peace George Hunter received a complaint about some gypsies who were camping on the Barrisfield commons. He sent over a constable who advised them to move on but there was no response so he immediately got in communication with the local police with the result that the troublers were advised to be on the move in one hour or they would be behind the bars. The order was obeyed in quick style.

POLICE DETERMINED THEY WILL PUT A STOP TO PRACTICE

Two Offenders Were Fined in the Police Court on Friday Morning.—Other Cases Before the Magistrate.

The Police are determined that owners of automobiles must cease driving at a rate faster than twenty miles per hour in the city. As a result of the good work of Police Constables Campbell and Fred Clark, two men were found guilty in police court on Friday morning of exceeding the limit and each gave the city treasurer $5 and costs, the option being ten days.

The men were caught on Princess street, between Division and University avenue, on Friday afternoon. One man denied he drove the car up Princess street on that day, but the constables said that the car, which was driven by a man employed at a garage, where the car had been left for repairs, went up Princess street on Friday afternoon at 5.15 p.m. travelling at the rate of twenty-seven miles an hour. The court made it clear that the owner of the car was responsible.

The case of the second man was settled out of court. He came across with $5 and costs. The third case will likely be heard tomorrow.

Capt. James Ferguson, owner of the schooner Abbie L. Andrews, which near Soward's wharf, was before the court, on the charge of disobeying a summons. He explained that he was at Oswego, N.Y., with the steamer here in time when asked by the court if he was going to give the sunken vessel to the city, he stated that he had made every effort to remove the wreck. He had taken off the masts which were an obstruction to navigation, and believed if the hull was left in the present location, it would be a help to navigation, as it kept the steamers which came in at the wharf, from running on the rock. He told the court that he intended to pump out the hull and remove it up the bay, so the case was enlarged for one week.

Two young men, who were gathered in on the charge of drunkenness, were before the court. One man said he got a bottle some time last spring, and left it under a sidewalk on Union street. He was taxed $10 and costs.

The second man, who was caught by Constable Leslie Clarke, while attending the circus on Thursday night, told the names of his chums, so the case was enlarged for a day.

Are Given Credit. H. W. Newman, secretary of the Electrical Merchants' Association, and Edward Beecher, president of the Electrical Workers' Union, are voicing the sentiments of both the merchants and the union, when they state that credit is due the members of the board of arbitration, namely, Ald. C. J. Graham, Ald. T. B. Angrove and ex-Ald. Charles Anglin, for the satisfactory adjustment of the differences between the merchants and the union, the board's terms of the agreement being carried out to the letter.

KICKED A MAN

And Had to Pay for His Act in Court.
Although Thursday was a holiday, it did not prevent Justice of the Peace George Hunter from presiding at his court.

The case of John Johnston vs. David Smith, who resides near Elginburg, required the attention of the court. After considerable evidence was heard, Smith was found guilty of assaulting Johnston and taxed $4 and costs, and bound over to keep the peace. C. M. Smith defended Smith, while T. J. Bigney conducted the prosecution.
It appears the trouble arose over a horse. Johnston found a stray horse on his property, and was taking it to the pound when Smith saw him and took the horse away from him, and at the same time, kicked
