OFF FOR NEXT FIVE DAYS INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE CADETS TO DO MANOEUVRES

Two Different Parties Go to Kingston Mills and to Cataragui—Had Fine Time at a Dinner.

The visiting board to the Royal Military College concluded its inspection this morning and the members left for their homes. The last thing they saw at the college was the departure of the cadets in full field equipment upon a five days manoeuvre. They paraded at an early hour and left by transport some going to Kingston Mills and some to a point beyond Cataragui. They will have actual experience in bivouacking and living in the open and upon the completion of the tactical problem on Saturday they will return to the college by way of Division and Princess streets.

The programme previously announced was carried out on Monday and at a dinner given in the Staff Mess, in the evening, several very inspiring addresses were heard. Sir Robert Falconer in an eloquent address said that every educated individual should think for himself and be bold and honest in the expression of his opinions. Major General McBrien, who has been absent from Canada for some years, declared that the experiences of the last seven years have had a great moulding influence upon the empire uniting the different parts under war conditions. The war had made him more intensely imperialistic, but he was no less a Canadian.

Sir John Hendrie was the other speaker.

No observations upon the work of the college have been made for publication. The course was, last year, extended from three to four years and provision made for the enlargement and equipment of the college for a more thorough scientific education. Much progress has been made upon the new building and next year will see the larger scheme in operation, and, probably a larger number of cadets in residence. The physical standard of cadets, in the opinion of some observers is not as high as it has been in former years, suggesting the exercise of greater care in the selection of candidates for admission to the college.

LIQUOR CASE DISMISSED

YOUNG MAN DECLARED "NOT GUILTY" OF TRAFFICKING.

Got in Touch With "Bootlegger" for Benefit of Young Fellow Who Was Sick and Wanted Liquor.

After hearing evidence in a case at the police court, on Tuesday morning, in which a young man was charged with "trafficking in liquor," the charge was dismissed. A. B. Cunningham appeared on behalf of the accused.

One bottle of whiskey figured in the case. It appears that a certain young man, who had been working pretty hard, felt under the weather and longed for a bottle of the precious stuff which is so hard to get at times. He met the young man who was accused in court and asked him if he knew where he could get a bottle. This young man played the part of the Good Samaritan, and put the thirty one in connection with a fellow who handles "wet goods," with the result that the much-desired bottle was secured after the payment of $6. The accused, who acted as the "middle man" in the transaction, did not get any money for the part he played in the deal, according to his evidence. He merely got into touch with the "bootlegger" for the man who desired the liquor. The magistrate could not find him guilty of trafficking in liquor, and so dismissed the case.

PASSED VOTE OF THANKS TO SIR HENRY DRAYTON

For Securing Grant to Build Up the Road at Portsmouth.

At a meeting of the Portsmouth council on Monday night, the members passed a vote of thanks to Sir Henry Drayton, for his influence in securing a grant of $1,500 from the government, to build up the Mowat road in the village.

The business before the council was chiefly of a routine nature. The assessor, John Payne, handed in his roll to the council.

Reeve James Halliday presided, and all the members were present with the exception of Councillor Atkins, who has left on a trip to the west.

WAS SEVERELY LECTURED

If He Does Not Buck Up He Will Be Sent Away

On Tuesday morning a sixteen year old lad, employed by a farmer near Kingston Mills, was brought before Justice of the Peace George Hunter. The farmer claimed no matter what he did for the boy, he could not control him. After the lad got explained to the justice the lad got one of the severest lectures he will ever receive. He was told that if he did not "buck up," he would be sent to an industrial school. The lad caused trouble on a previous occasion and was only allowed out on suspended sentence. When the lad was brought to the city he was locked up in the cells at the police station where he remained until the farmer took him back home.

A brother of the lad who has been missing since 1917 has turned up. He had been working for a farmer near Brockville but left there unexpectedly in 1917 and nothing had been heard of him since that time. On Tuesday the local agent of the Children's Aid Society was notified by a lawyer in Brockville that the missing boy had turned up and wanted the $72 which had been deposited in a local bank in his name. It appears that the lad is twenty-one years of age today.
