Music in the Home

Becoming Big Music Centre. Ever since it was learned that William Mengelberg, the noted Dutch musician, was to be the guest conductor of the National Symphony Society of New York next year, a great deal of interest has been aroused regarding Holland's musical activities.

has not found among the Dutch the same interest which it could always rely on in Germany, France, and Italy. This fact remains although a great many operas have been given, subsidized by the city of The Hague which believes that this form of music is a necessary part of the life and enjoyment of its people, its diplomats and its foreign dignitaries.

in their juggling tricks, but they think that you are the greatest juggler of them all. Every time you shove your trombone in, they think you swallow your instrument, and when you thrust it out, that you pull it up again."

Holland has long been known as the birthplace of many artists. It occupies but an inconspicuous place on the map, yet music has flourished there as brilliantly as in any of the larger countries of Europe. The choral productions of the Netherlands are known throughout Europe, and have very few rivals. This is also the country which Bohemian and Hungarian string quartets call their second fatherland, for here many an artist has achieved the fame and recognition which his own native land has withheld.

Trombone Player Out Juggled Chinese.

Those who had charge of the Chinese coolies in France during the war found them very human. Away from their homes, many of them suffered greatly from loneliness and homesickness. Some were even known to commit suicide, and no other cause but loneliness or homesickness could have been alleged.

Child in Musical Atmosphere. The significant thing about the player piano is that it does not limit its work to cultivating the desire to hear music but is equally effective in stimulating the desire to produce it. The child soon wants to master the technique and create the music himself. It is the instinct to do—the impulse, which once awakened, is the teacher's most potent ally. It means that the child will begin his music lessons voluntarily, not simply under parental compulsion; that he will persevere in them because he has a vision and an aim, that vital motive which no mere sense of duty or plodding industry can replace.

There are a lot of sensible women in the world, but as a matter of fact they don't all seem to make a hit with the average man.

One Great Essential To a Woman's Health Is Her Nerves. Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how can any woman be healthy and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung?

There are a lot of sensible women in the world, but as a matter of fact they don't all seem to make a hit with the average man.

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how can any woman be healthy and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung?

Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N. S., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles. I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep at night and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on my second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and kept on until I had used six boxes when I felt like a different person. I am never without them in the house and recommend them to all who suffer with their nerves."
