SERBIA'S AWFUL PLIGHT CALLS FOR OUR HELP

Every Adult Person in Kingston Should Give Something to the Fund.

William Goode, British Director of Relief in Europe, who has just returned from a visit to Serbia, stated that he found that a million of the poorest children in Serbia suffering from malnutrition and that 25 per cent of the population had tuberculosis. Others by the thousand are suffering with other fatal diseases.

When we remember the awful suffering and privation through the years of war which has bred in these children these diseases. When we realize they are suffering for clothing and are neglected through want of care and medical attention. Can we deny them the help each one of us could send? Every adult person in Kingston could do something to help them.

The committee will be glad if you will send some help through I. F. Rowland, Standard Bank, local treasurer.

Steamer Damage Case Settled Out of Court

Ogdensburg, N. Y., June 12.—The libel action brought against the owners of the steamer Samuel Marshall of Montreal by the George Hall Coal Company of Ogdensburg to recover for damages caused by the ramming of the steamer Liberty of the Hall fleet in the lower harbor several weeks ago has been settled out of court. The amount paid was in the neighborhood of $10,000.

The steamer Liberty was lying at the Hall derrick unloading when the Marshall, bound west light, came into the harbor for fuel. The captain gave the signal to reverse but either through a mistake in orders or failure of the engine to respond the Marshall rammed the Liberty amidships, cutting her down below the water line. The Liberty is still in dry dock receiving repairs.

For the Sinn Feiners—Orange Lodge at Calgary.

Calgary, June 12.—Representatives from every Orange jurisdiction in Canada are attending the ninety-first annual Orange convention in session here.

Grand Master H. C. Hocken, M.P., in his annual address, spoke of progress the order had made during the past year. He dealt chiefly with the plans for the future, as regards the Forward Movement and other reforms. The world-wide unrest following the war was also a subject discussed. Anti-British propaganda in the United States was severely criticized by the Grand Master. He regretted that certain United States Senators and Congressmen have seen fit to lend a willing ear to the Irish agitators, but he was of the opinion that following the presidential campaign, Americans would return to the same viewpoint.

At the concluding session of the Grand Orange Lodge last evening, H. C. Hocken, M.P., of Toronto, was chosen Grand Master, with Toronto as the meeting place for next convention.

BOARD OF COMMERCE MAY BE DISCONTINUED

There are Rumors That Mr. O'Connor Will Retire as Member.

Ottawa, June 12.—While Parliament has not yet had time to digest the report of the Board of Commerce, the Government, so far as can be learned, has not yet reached a decision in regard to the board's request for a continuance with a view to deciding how the board shall operate in the future, if at all, early developments are expected.

In semi-official circles the prevalent view appears to be that the board will in all probability be discontinued, and some other form of machinery substituted. This view is largely based upon the fact that the Government has never appointed a successor to Judge Robson, and that the board, rightly or wrongly, is extremely unpopular with Parliament. While Mr. O'Connor, who was expected to succeed to the chairmanship when Judge Robson retired, declines to be interviewed, there are rumors that he is dissatisfied with several other things not disclosed in his report unless the board and the board enabled to resume its work with three members as at first constituted.

A decision by the Government is expected shortly, and, in any event, the matter is likely to get considerable of an airing in Parliament.

Among the MOVIE STARS. Large advertisement featuring portraits of movie stars with captions: Dorothy Gish as a Bride, Gladys Brockwell, Louise Huff, Hope Hampton, wearing Czechoslovak costume, Ethel Clayton wears Champagne, Pat O'Malley, and HINT TO THE EVICTED. Text includes: 'Don't Hurt Him Jack' Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight, dropped in at the West Coast studio of Famous Players-Lasky the other day just in time to see the big fight scene in Ethel Clayton's current picture, "All in a Night." The little champ, who's a picture star himself now, decided to give Jack Holt, leading man and one of the participants in the scrap, some pointers. Miss Clayton is shown saving the champion from punishment. "Don't hurt him, Jack!" was the warning she gave Holt. Dorothy Gish enjoyed the filming of her latest Paramount Aircraft comedy, "Remodeling a Husband." The reason for her happiness was that her sister Lillian, star of the major pictures herself, acted as Dorothy's director. Another reason was that Miss Gish had successfully kidnapped one of the most popular leading men of the Broadway stage to play opposite her. He is James Rennie, who during the war served with the Royal Air Force as a pilot, and who makes his debut in the new picture. Hope Hampton, wearing Czechoslovak costume, which she wore at the Beauty and Costume Ball given on board the Imperator, on one of its recent return trips to New York, for the benefit of the Seaman's Fund. Miss Hampton is seen carrying a little toy tiger, which is the latest fad in Paris. Pat O'Malley. Besides being leading man of recognized ability on the screen for a number of years, Pat O'Malley has become distinguished for his daring in performing spectacular thrills before the camera. He began thrilling audiences when he was nine years old, with wire walking stunts between acts of a road show he was traveling with. O'Malley first played in pictures for the old Kalem company, and later toured Europe with the Sidney Crockett Company. He is now with Marshall Neilan. He has appeared as leading man to Pauline Frederick, Dorothy Phillips, Madge Kennedy and other popular stars. He is shown trying to find out if he will lick the villain in his next picture.

Star Owns Ranch—Dorothy Gish As a Bride—The Washburn Children—A Studio Fight—Does Thrilling Stunts. SHOULD there be a panic on the star market there is one very popular star who would not have to wonder where her livelihood was coming from and she is Gladys Brockwell, of the Fox constellation of stars. She has a ranch near Los Angeles, which is one of the show places of the West. Her live stock is the envy of many a farmer for every one of the animals on her place is the proud possessor of one or more blue ribbons, and she has so many of them that she could easily hold a county fair right on her own spacious grounds needing no other entries than her own full-blooded live stock. Miss Brockwell finds time to supervise the running of her ranch despite her work at the studios where she has just completed her latest feature, "White Lies," adapted from the novel by Charles Reade. Bryant Washburn, Paramount Aircraft star, finds his greatest happiness in his two young sons, Bryant IV, universally known in the Hollywood, Cal., film colony as "Sonny," and Dwight Gish colony as "Sonny," and Dwight Gish colony as "Tom Sawyer," and others.
