THE VALEDICTORY SERVICE
FOR THE CADETS OF THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE

Held in St. George's Cathedral on Sunday Morning—Dean Starr Spoke About Young Men's Best Trophies.

The valedictory service for the Royal Military College cadets was held in St. George's Cathedral, on Sunday morning, at the conclusion of which holy communion was celebrated. The chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers and the pulpit was draped with the college colors and arms. Special music was rendered by the choir under the direction of R. R. F. Harvey, organist and choir director. The hymns were selected by the cadets themselves and the solo "Hosanna" was beautifully sung by the boy soprano, Peter Fair.

Dean Starr preached a most inspiring sermon from 1 Samuel XXI: 9, where David, in the midst of tribulation is found seeking of the priest in the temple something to sustain him. The only trophy is the sword of Goliath, the Philistine, and when it is placed in his hand he is inspired by the memory of his early achievements. The speaker drew a powerful lesson from this and emphasized the supreme importance of placing the best trophies in the citadel of manhood. "What are the trophies that we can win in youth that will sustain us in the years to come?" he asked. For this purpose the first twenty years might be considered the best for then the physical foundation must be laid in order that the whole personality might respond to the noblest impulses. The body is the temple of God and it cannot be defiled without severe penalties. The speaker referred to the large number of the physically unfit revealed by the late war. Moreover, men with high mental endowments have been found incompetent by reason of physical weakness.

Next to the physical trophy comes the intellectual, with the power to investigate and assimilate what is best. To-day more than at any other time mental discipline is urgently required. Then in the moral and spiritual sphere are to be found the things that go deep into life and hold a man if he is to make good, by the practise of good habits. "Whatever things are good, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are of good report, think on these things." We form habits, but habits soon form us, therefore make what you deem worth while a habit. Reverence, too must be a trophy for the temple of manhood. Reverence is the treating of the best as best, and in determining the relation of values, education and culture come in.

The preacher referred to the college motto: "Truth, Duty, Valor," and showed how these words carried out in the practical affairs of daily life brought honor and strength to the individual. The older we grow the more we find the need of these trophies and the imminence of God. As young men facing life the Bible will be a light to your feet. By all means get these trophies in your temple and make the strong things of youth the safeguards of life.

Corporate communion was administered as the cadets expressly requested it.

The service was attended by Major General Sir A. C. Macdonell, C.M.G., K.C.M.G., D.S.O., commandant of the Royal Military College, his staff and representatives of the district headquarters staff. The general took the salute in front of the cathedral on King street as the cadets marched off.

The occasion was marked by a full attendance of St. George's congregation and a very large body of citizens. The members of the grandstand class were the guests of Dean Starr at dinner on Sunday.

CHILDREN'S FLOWER SUNDAY
OBSERVED IN SYDENHAM ST. METHODIST CHURCH.

The Programme Was Most Entertaining—"Our School Needs You," Was a Motto in White Flowers.

Flower Sunday or children's day, was fittingly observed at Sydenham Street Methodist church, yesterday morning. The programme was given by the Sunday school children who occupied the central part of the church which was delightfully decorated. E. P. Jenkins, the superintendent, acted as chairman and Rev. W. T. G. Brown gave a short interesting talk to the children. A large congregation of their parents and friends attended the service.

The Sunday school orchestra played a professional march as the members, headed by the tiny tots of the primary department, took their seats. E. P. Jenkins opened the service with a few remarks and called upon R. F. Greenlees, an associate superintendent, to lead in prayer. A. H. Ward, head of the Chinese department, read the lesson, Psalm XXI. Mary Wheeler and George Scott gave a short dialogue, followed with recitations by Audrey Hughes, Tom Tweedell, Abey Richmond and Thelma Angrove. Choruses were sung by the primary department and the Chinese department. Exercises were given by the Edith Cavell girls, by eight young ladies from the intermediate department and by three boys, Stewart Wilder, Lawrence Day and Sam Montier.

Mrs. W. M. Campbell, B.A., pianist of the Sunday school, arranged the splendid musical programme. Miss Goldie Bartels who assisted the orchestra, gave a delightful piano solo. Rev. W. T. G. Brown spoke to the children and pointed out by several illustrations the value of politeness and kind words. His short informal talk delighted the children.

The beautiful floral decorations which were so much admired, were the work of Miss Garbutt and her many assistants. Above the pulpit which was surrounded by an embankment of green foliage and flowers, was a large arch of green upon which was the following motto in white flowers: "Our School Needs You."

At First Baptist Church. Sunday was observed as children's day and flower Sunday at the First Baptist church, and the services were of a most interesting and inspiring nature. Brigadier-General A. E.

Ross was to have given an address at the morning service but was unavoidably absent. The children rendered a splendid programme of songs and recitations. The church was very beautifully decorated with flowers and presented a very pretty appearance. Mr. Hiltman, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Rev. J. S. Lafleur, delivered short addresses. Mr. Osborne, president of the adult bible class, read the scripture lesson.

Chalmers Sunday School Event.
Chalmers Sunday school held its annual service on Sunday morning with a large attendance of pupils, parents and friends. A choir of young people led in the services, with Mrs. Dobbs at the organ and Miss Leslie Taylor as violin soloist. Rev. Dr. Wilson gave an address, telling the parents of the work of the school.

Letters to the Editor

More Interest Desired.
Kingston, June 19.—(To the Editor): Referring to my report of the Ontario Poultry convention, I wish to draw your attention to a few suggestions regarding same.

Much attention was given to the use of the trap nest, and the idea emphasized most was to get the school children, farmers, and others than members of the Association interested in pure bred (not thoroughbred) poultry.

To reach the farmer, a method suggested was for associations to hold picnics and give culling demonstrations. The school children were to be reached by lectures given by competent men or women at the schools.

Owing to H. C. L. judges' fees for associations were increased from $5 to $8 a day, while judging and $2 a day paid them travelling to and from shows.

Yours,
J. C. K. MUNSIE.

Judge Uncertain as to Disposal of a Child.

The following is taken from the Toronto Star, and has reference to a former well-known Kingston family: "John Tuttle's application for the custody of his daughter, Ruth, has been adjourned by Justice Lennox until some date in July."

"I find it impossible to feel sure as to the proper disposal of the custody of this child," says Justice Lennox in to-day's judgment, "on the material placed before me. I think it would be desirable for me to know what Mr. Keise (Children's Aid) has to say as to certain happenings with which he was more or less familiar. I will recognize a statement or an affidavit from Dr. Ross of Kingston, if it can be obtained, as to circumstances surrounding the death of the other child."
