Rinso
Saves Your Clothes
from being 'Rubbed Out'

NO need for the wash board any more. Use Rinso. It is so rich in cleansing power that all the dirt in the clothes is loosened while they are soaking in the bubbly Rinso suds. Think of it—no work for you—no wear for the clothes.

At Night—
put the clothes to soak with Rinso.

Morning—
rinse them, that's all.
The clothes are sweet, spotless, clean.

Rinso does the work yet it's so pure that the clothes are as safe as in pure water itself.
Don't wash even once more the old-fashioned, hard way. Get Rinso—one package does the week's wash.

DEDICATION OF PULPIT
TIDINGS FOR OUR READERS

IN ST. JAMES CHURCH ON SUN-DAY MORNING

In Memory of the Late Harold J. Farrer Who Served with the Canadians in France.

The dedication of the new pulpit donated to St. James' Church by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrer, Toronto, formerly of Kingston, in memory of their son, the late Harold J. Farrer, took place on Sunday morning. The service was largely attended by members of the congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Farrer, Miss Phyllis Farrer, the Girl Guides and cadets of the Kingston Collegiate Institute of which the deceased had been commander, Principal E. O. Sliter, the teaching staff, Lt.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, of the Cadet Corps, Lt.-Col. Dunbar, R.C.E., representing the military headquarters' staff and a number of returned soldiers were also present. Archdeacon C. G. Dobbs, bishop's commissary, conducted the service, assisted by Lt.
Col. the Rev. Alexander Gordon, senior chaplain M. D. No. 3, and Rev. T.
W. Savary, rector of the parish. Special music was rendered by the choir under the direction of Mrs. A. R. B.
Williamson, organist and choir director, the anthem being "Who are these arrayed in white robes."

In his address Archdeacon Dobbs congratulated the parents on the spirit of their son's life and death and the character of the memorial. Lt.- Col. Gordon referred to the lesson of service, of the things that make life worth while, and the continuance of life in the world to come.

The late Harold Farrer was born in the United States and came to Kingston with his parents in 1912 and attended St. James' church, of which his father, Joseph Farrer, was warden for two years. It was there he was confirmed, and took an active part in the Sunday school, becoming a teacher. He was a member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. He attended the Kingston Collegiate Institute and won the McLeod scholarship at the matriculation examinations. He set up a wireless station while there and was commander of the cadets. Upon entering Queen's University he studied with the object of entering the ministry. Although under military age when the war broke out, he volunteered for service and entered the O.
T.C. at Queen's and later went overseas with Queen's battery, of which he was a signaller. He was gassed in France. After the armistice he contracted pleurisy which terminated fatally on May 30th 1919. The pulpit bears the text "To be with Christ which is far better" and a brass tablet with the following inscription:
"Dedicated to the Glory of God in loving memory of Harold John Farrer, who died May 30th, 1919, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrer."

St. James church is to have a memorial window dedicated in the fall.
It will bear the names of all members of the congregation who lost their lives in the late war. Near the window will also be dedicated at the same time, a tablet bearing the names of those who served their country in the war.

Notes At The Baseball Game.

"Punch" Derry had a vision of home and something to eat in the ninth, and therefore pulled the one-two-three stuff. We don't blame him.
Would have done the same thing in his place—perhaps.

When George Sullivan takes another chew and studies the beautiful flowers on the court house lawn, one might just as well argue with the pyramids of Egypt.

"Stan" Trotter looks worried until there are two thousand spectators.
Then you ought to see him smile.

How can a fellow bat with "Flat" Walsh telling him all that stuff all the time?

"Ice cream cones?" Bet your life!

A Sudden Death.
A sudden death took place at Ernestown Station shortly before noon on Monday, when George Simmons, a highly-respected and well-known farmer, who resided near Wilton, dropped dead while assisting in unloading hogs at the station. He leaves a wife and two sons: Archie, at home, and Stewart, a farmer, residing about a mile from Wilton.

The deceased was about fifty-five years of age, a Presbyterian in religion, and one of the best known farmers in the district. He was the owner of the grist-mill at Wilton.
His death will be widely lamented throughout the countryside.

Hardly the Same.

The married lady at the wedding party wiped her eyes and grasped the bride's hands fervently.
"Oh, my dear," she said feelingly, "I only hope that Mr. Dinwiddie and you will be as happy as my husband and I are. Through all the twenty years of our married life we have continued to use to each other the dear little pet names of our engagement days."

Then the married guest went home, and found hubby waiting for her supper.

"Amelia, my angel," he snapped,
"It's about time you did get home!
I want some tea!"

"Don't you ever think of anything except eating, darling?" asked the lady with a sour look.

"Don't talk like an idiot, little sugar plum; I'm hungry!" was the man's only reply.

"Well, duckay, you've been hungry before, and I expect you'll be hungry again, so you needn't be disagreeable about it, and don't dare to call me an idiot, Suffkins, I don't like it!"

As she spoke she grappled with a tin of salmon which she was opening for his supper.

Going One Better.

Competition was keen in the street market. Two rivals were selling ready-made coats and things, and each tried to undercut the other.

"Look 'ere," shouted the first, as a brain wave struck him, "I tell yer I am selling these coats at rock-bottom prices. I charge only for the makin' I need to make you pay a penny for the cloth, because I pinches it. See?"

The other stall-holder did some hard thinking. He saw that his opponent's gib he had attracted the crowd.

"Oh, yus!" he yelled derisively.
"Ye says 'e charges you only for the makin', 'cause he pinches the cloth. But I don't even charge yer for the makin', 'cause I pinches 'em all ready made!"

Had His Money's Worth.
"I canna get over it," a Scottish farmer remarked to his wife. "I put a two-shillin' piece in the plate at the kirk this morning instead o' ma usual penny."

The beadle had noticed the mistake, and in silence allowed the farmer to miss the plate for twenty-three consecutive Sundays.

On the twenty-fourth Sunday the farmer again ignored the plate, but the old beadle held out a detaining hand, and in a loud, tragic whisper said:
"Your time's up noo, Sandy."

The remains of Mrs. Jane Mastin, wife of Alpheus Mastin, Consecon, who passed away on Thursday were interred in Belleville cemetery.

THE TORONTO ASHORE
IN THE HARBOR

The steamer Wolf Islander was sent over to convey the passengers to shore. The passengers who had been watching the proceedings all morning, hastily assembled their baggage and flocked aboard the little boat and were landed at the little wharf at twelve o'clock. A special train for Montreal and other eastbound points was waiting at the Grand Trunk station.

Up to the time of the passengers leaving the ship there was no evidence of any leak.

Over a hundred of the passengers were American delegates to the civic waterworks convention at Montreal this week. They had taken this opportunity to see the famous Thousand Islands and most of them expressed keen disappointment over the failure of their plans. About fifty passengers were on deck when the steamer went aground.

The Royal Military College cadets came down at six o'clock to the beach about twenty-five yards from the steamer, and serenaded the passengers, their lusty voices started the people aboard who thought an other catastrophe had occurred. The cadets were much applauded for their entertainment, which they closed by singing "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Good Night Ladies."

When the steamer is released, it is likely she will go into the Collingwood dry docks for examination.

Capt. John Donnelly is in charge of the operations to release the steamer Toronto from the shoal.

BOOST FOR MINISTERS.

Winnipeg Methodists Favor $2,000 Salary and Parsonage.

Winnipeg, June 21.—A minimum salary of $2,000 in addition to a parsonage, for every married Methodist minister in Manitoba, probably will be established at the annual provincial Methodist conference now in session here. The proposal is to go before the conference in the form of a resolution unanimously adopted by the Winnipeg south district.

GANANOQUE

(From Our Own Correspondent)

June 21.—Capt. D. J. McAuley's steamer Yennek, made her first trip of the season on the Gananoque-Clayton route on Saturday.

At a meeting in the town hall on Thursday evening a junior baseball league was formed with teams representing the Catholic Literary and Athletic Club, No. 2 Co., Grace Church Boy Scouts and No. 3 Co., St.
Andrews Church Boy Scouts with the possibility of a "Lansdowne" team entering. These officers were elected: President, Mayor W. J. Wilson; vice-president, Dr. Fraser; secretary, E.
J. Neal; treasurer, T. D. O'Connor.

On Friday afternoon at the Provincial hotel, there was a goodly assembly of local sportsmen to decide whether or not Gananoque should enter a team in the semi-professional St. Lawrence League. It was decided to do so and the services of the Buffalo Prospects, Dr. Savage's team will carry Gananoque's colors as far as they can on the road to victory. Their opening game will probably be on July 1st. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, Sir Thos. White; president, Mayor W. J. Wilson; 1st vice-president, F. J.
Skinner; 2nd vice-president, F. J.
Skinner; secretary, W. C. McCarney; treasurer, A. W. White; manager, George Webb, executive, L. S. Barr, William Pratt, A. P. Smith, W. F.
Martin and W. Luxenburg.

Leeds Lodge No. 201 A. F. & A. M.

Friday for Montreal, whence he took passage on Saturday on the S.S. Corsican for a three months' visit at his old home in Ireland.

Mrs. A. G. Wilton, who has spent the past few months in Springfield, Mass., arrived home during the past week accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Baxter who spent some time at the former's summer cottage on the river front.

and Mrs. F. V. Skinner King street, motored to Ottawa the fore part of last week for a few days' visit.

A BRIDEGROOM WAS ON THE STRANDED STEAMER

Afraid He Would Not Reach Montreal in Time for Ceremony.

There was one young fellow on the steamer Toronto, which went aground in the harbor, who put in some very anxious moments. And he had good reason to worry, for the day was the day of all days in his life. It was to be his wedding day.

He was taking the boat trip to Montreal to meet his bride and arrangements had been made for the knot to be tied to-night. When the vessel went aground he had visions of being detained and not getting to Montreal in time for the event, but when it was announced that the passengers would be taken off and sent down to Montreal by special train, he was able to breathe much easier. He was one of the first to get into the train and expressed the hope that the train would not run off the track on its trip to Montreal.
