ARE WE RESPONSIBLE

Business is a personal matter. You can't get away from it. Somebody has to be responsible for quality. The deciding factor in every deal is "Who's Responsible?"

We are responsible for everything we sell you, whether it be Tires, Tubes, Blowout Patches or what not. And the fact that you know we are responsible and everybody else knows it, too, is the only thing that keeps our business good.

But this responsibility of ours would be an awful load—liability rather than an asset—if we didn't buy our Tires from people who are just as responsible to us as we are to you, and who always send us goods that we can stand back of.

That is why we sell you DOMINION TIRES.

Ask anybody as to our responsibility.

FINING THE TAX DODGERS LOW BUILDINGS THE BEST

DOMINION INCOME TAX OFFICE IS AFTER DELINQUENTS.

They Are Bringing to Time Quite a Bunch of Men—Farmers Are Said to Be the Greatest Delinquents.

Gerald O. Stevenson, of the penalty branch, income tax office, Ottawa, is spending his holidays in the city. He states that the Dominion income tax office is making great efforts to clear up the returns from all districts. R. W. Brebner, commissioner of taxation, has instituted prosecutions of all delinquents under the act, with the result that those who have failed to make returns promptly upon receipt of registered notice, are being called upon to pay fines calculated at the rate of ten dollars per day for every day after receipt of such notice, in addition to the tax for the year 1919.

WALTER COMMODORE FREE

THE STILL HAD BEEN A SORT OF COMMUNITY AFFAIR

The Last Time It Was Operated Everybody Got Drunk. Not Operated Within the Past Three Months.

Walter Commodore tried at Smith's Falls on Monday before S. Gordon and J. W. Donaldson, justices of the peace, on a charge of having illicitly operated a whiskey still, was acquitted after a great many witnesses were examined. There was no lack of positive evidence, some of the witnesses giving details of the manufacture of the stuff and the still itself which was secured in the woods on Commodore's property, was on exhibition. But other witnesses told opposite stories showing that the still had been in operation outside of three months limit within which a prosecution must be held.

The last time it was operated everybody got drunk, and when they woke up three bottles of the whiskey had disappeared. One man got into the number, who had kept sober and watched his opportunity. It was alleged that he disposed of the whiskey at $8 per bottle.

The existence of the still came to the knowledge of the authorities through a little incident that happened at a stilling bee. One man got pushed against the hot stove upon which the mash was boiling. He was slightly burned, a row followed and it stepped the law. T. J. Rigney prosecuted the case for the department of inland revenue, while C. R. Webster, watched the interests of the Ontario Temperance Act. The magistrates were S. Gordon and J. W. Donaldson.

Robert Charlton tried before Justices of the Peace S. Gordon and J. W. Donaldson, at Smith's Falls, on Monday, on a charge of being intoxicated on the street on July 21st, was convicted and fined $50 and costs. C. R. Webster, barrister, was the prosecutor.

Scored Another Success.

The Kingston Mustangs scored another success, Monday night, with their excursion to Clayton, N.Y., on the steamer St. Lawrence. The boat, with a capacity crowd aboard, left the dock at 7.30 o'clock, while on the wharf more than a hundred disappointed people bewailed their fate. An orchestra of eight pieces played delightfully for dancing on the main deck. On the promenade deck a brass band gave an enjoyable concert programme. An hour was spent at Clayton sight-seeing and then the return trip began, the steamer arriving at the wharf after midnight.

Admired Our Cricket Field.

Quite a number of visitors who spent the week-end in the city, and who attended the ball game at the cricket field on Saturday afternoon, admired the cricket field, and stated that it was one of the best ball diamonds they had ever inspected. They stated that being right in the heart of the city, it made it most convenient for everyone to get to the grounds.

THEY ARE MARKETABLE WHEN THE BUSINESS SECTION SHIFTS

Much Money Saved Through Less Tremendous Foundations and Sub-basements—They Promote Safety and Good Health.

Low buildings erected on expansive lots are more profitable than skyscrapers towering into the air in the opinion of various members of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, expressed at their annual convention at Minneapolis, Minn. This is contradictory to the generally accepted theory of realty men.

Reading a paper at one of the sessions on "Analysis of the Comparative Investment Value of Office Buildings of Various Heights," Edwin S. Jewell, of Omaha, an advocate of the low building theory, said that since land values are enhanced by the increase in population in a section and not by the size of buildings on it, structures under ten stories in height were more profitable in that a saving would be made on the tremendous cost of foundation and enormous elevator equipment.

"If a builder erects a six to eight story building in a part of the city that is the business section," Mr. Jewell said, "and if that business section shifts in a decade or two, the structure can readily be used for a factory, warehouse, or other purposes. It is still a marketable building. The same is not true of the skyscraper."

"When builders begin to erect low buildings in our cities, the tremendous amount of money now being used for building foundations and sub-basements, can be put into other buildings. The money put into elevators, heavy framework and other incidentals necessary to the erection of a skyscraper would pay for a good, practical office building four to six stories high covering the same piece of ground."

Mr. Jewell, who is chairman of the operating experience committee of the building owners and managers association, also asserted that the low office building plan would spread the business districts of cities over wider areas and raise land values, enabling cities to raise more revenue for schools and other public improvements.

"The low building plan," he said, "would prevent congestion, promote safety and good health and by forcing the business districts of cities over wider areas, it would result in greater competition and lower prices to the buying public."

A low building, Mr. Jewell asserted, can be built for fourteen cents per cubic foot cheaper than a tall building of the same quality because cement can be used instead of steel.

Mr. Jewell asserted he had made a study of revenues from a large number of office buildings in more than fifty cities, adding that the rental and expenditures from 143 buildings in 1919 showed an average income of about $1.41 per square foot whereas it would require $2.64 per square foot to make the investment realize six per cent.

LOTS OF POTATOES.

And They Should Be Cheap, Too, Says Prominent Farmer.

A farmer in the city on Monday stated that not in many years had there been such a good crop of potatoes in this district.

There should be no scarcity of potatoes, he stated, "and there is no reason why they should not be sold at a reasonable price."

On Saturday's market the very best quality of potatoes could be purchased at 50 cents per peck. Three weeks ago they sold at $1.25.

Archbishop To Methodists At the representative meeting of the English Wesleyan Methodist Conference at Hull the following message from the Archbishop of York to the President was read: Lambeth Palace.

My dear Sir,—As I have been for some time now engaged in the work of the Lambeth Conference, I have only just heard of the meeting of the Wesleyan Conference in Hull. As that city is within the diocese of York, it would have been a pleasure to me if I had been able to give some personal greeting to your Conference; but it is quite impossible for me to leave our present exacting labors at Lambeth. I must, therefore, be content, if there is still time, to send this word of cordial greeting.

The fact that it comes from a place where some 250 bishops of the Anglican Communion from all parts of the world are assembled may perhaps give it some special significance.

We are earnestly seeking to be guided along the path which may lead to a fuller visible manifestation of the unity of Christ's Church. I pray that your own deliberations may help forward the same high purpose, and may also strengthen the endeavor of all Christian people at this anxious time to bear witness to Christ and to set forth His Kingdom among men.

Yours very truly, COSMO EBOR.
