

In the Realm of Women---Some Interesting Features

Piquant and pungent—yet delicate

This is the flavor of Lanka. Famous Lanka—British grown in Ceylon's hill gardens. Strong—yet so blended that the flavor is mild and delicate. The aroma—fragrant and tempting; the color—rich and sparkling.

WM. BRAID & CO.
Vancouver, Canada

LANKA TEA

G. W. V. A.

(Incorporated)

During months July, August and September, meetings will be held on the 1st of each month. Next general meeting will be held on Friday, August 9th.

Used for 70 Years
Thru its use Grandmother's youthful appearance has remained until youth has become but a memory. The soft, refined, pearly white appearance it renders leaves the joy of Beauty with you for many years.

Gouraud's Oriental Cream

FERD. J. HOPKIN & SON, Mfg.

Borden's EAGLE BRAND

It fills every milk need where recipes require both milk and sugar.

Send for Borden Recipe Book

THE BORDEN COMPANY LIMITED
MONTREAL

"The Milk that Saves the Sugar"

Romaine Sings Two Ardent Love Songs

It's just a step into our store, where this exclusive Columbia artist will give you all the thrilling ardor of "Your Eyes Have Told Me So" and "Deep in My Heart." Come in and hear this great soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company tell you the inmost secrets of love.

A-2933—$1.00

Other Good Records

49560—GOODBYE Ponselle
79920—VALUES Ponselle

The J.M. Greene Music Company, Limited
The Home of Good Music. Princess Street.

LOVE and MARRIED LIFE

by the noted author
Idah McGione Gibson

John's Latest Move.

"What is the matter, Katherine?" Alice asked, jumping forward and putting her arms around me as I swayed a little.

"Nothing, dear, nothing," I answered, and straightened as though to meet the greatest blow I have ever had in my life.

"Yes, there is, dear. I know there is something terrible the matter. You are pale as death." Is Karl Shepard dead?

"No, no, this telegram does not in any way relate to Karl Shepard. If you will excuse me, dear, I think that I will go to my room. I'll have to be alone a little while."

"But you must tell me, Katherine. I want to help you, dear. You can't be alone in such trouble as you seem to be in now."

"Oh, yes I can, my dear. Trouble and grief always call for solitude." I turned away to my room.

Alice followed me. "I may seem an intrusion to you, Katherine, but I can not let you go to your room. Let me telephone to John."

"No, he is the last one I want to see," I said impetuously.

"What has he been doing now?" asked Alice quickly as we entered my room.

"I don't understand how he could do it," I said, more to myself than to her.

"What has he done, Katherine?"

"He sold my childhood home—the gift of my parents—without my knowledge."

"But he couldn't do that," affirmed Alice. "You would have to sign deeds and things, wouldn't you?"

Telegram From Charles.

"I thought so, but here is a telegram from Charles Goodwin which says: 'Do not be distressed over anything you may hear. I heard John wished to sell the old home and am having the deeds again made out in your name. Charles.'"

"I am going to telephone to Tom and ask him to come right over here," said Alice decisively.

"No, don't do that. There may be some mistake. Let me think. Let me think. Surely John could not sell the house without my knowledge." And then all at once it came to me. A little while before, during John's management of my oil lands, I had given him unlimited power of attorney, and while I had been traveling down here, he had evidently gone back and tried to sell my family home.

Of course he did not know that Charles had bought it. Now I knew, however, why he had been so nervous ever since he returned, why he was so anxious to get me into the new house, and why he seemed perfectly willing to buy anything that I wanted to put into it.

"Let's get John here," said Alice. "I hate to come to the conclusion that the meanest man in the world is my brother."

"No, don't call him. I know he has done this. He wanted me to give him the last little nest egg that I had left from the oil wells, and I would not do it. He thinks he has a right to dispose of my property as he wishes. I think, too, that he has the legal right now, as I have given him my power of attorney. I am sure his excuse will be that he did not have money enough to make the next payment on the new house and that he thought he would not bother me with any of the details concerning it. You know, dear, what he told Tom when he tried to borrow some money to make the next payment."

"Oh, dear," exclaimed Alice. "I wish now that I had told Tom to lend it to him."

"Well, it is all over now," I said. "I am glad that if my mother's home had to go, Charles has it."

Deeds In Her Name.

"But Charles said that the deeds are made out in your name, Katherine."

"Do you think, Alice, that I would allow Charles Goodwin, who has loved me ever since I was a child, to give me something that my husband has deliberately taken from me?"

"No, you couldn't do that," she said. "Oh, what a mess John has got us all into. I can not understand his ideas on the subject of money, when it belongs, or should be given, to the women folks of his family. He is reputedly honest with business men and in business transactions."

"I think, Alice, that I could forgive him for his affair with Elizabeth Moreland easier than I can forgive him for what he has done to me now."

"Oh, my dear, he has never had a real affair with Elizabeth Moreland."

"Yes, he has."

"How do you know?"

"How does any woman know. I know that no woman would have the affrontery to treat John Gordon's wife as Elizabeth Moreland has treated me unless she knew that she was more to him than I, and wanted him to know."

(Copyright by National Newspaper Service.)
To-morrow—Elizabeth Moreland's Letter.

2 peppercorns
1 clove

Soften the gelatine in cold water. Stew tomatoes and when soft strain. Cook this pulp with seasonings and add gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Pour into a ring mould and set aside to harden. When set, dip the mould in hot water for a moment to loosen jelly and place on a dish. Fill the centre with the chopped cucumbers that have been mixed with salad dressing.

WOOL SKIRT AND TOP COAT

This charming creation for spring wear consists of a brown and white checked wool skirt and coat of brown bolivia.

Abbey's EFFERVESCENT SALT

Purifies the Blood

1 tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar
1/2 tablespoonful of salt
1/4 tablespoonful of pepper

GOOD HEALTH ENO'S FRUIT SALT

THE tonic, bracing, brain-clearing effect of the morning course of ENO is in keeping with the life and vigour of the Summer.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

ENO contains, in a convenient form, the natural elements ordained by nature to counteract the poisons which daily attack and disorganise the system. Take, each morning while dressing, just a dash of ENO in a glass of water. It will cool and cleanse the blood, correct irregularities, and energise your whole being.

KNOWN AND SOLD THROUGHOUT THE WORLD FOR HALF-A-CENTURY.

The words "Fruit Salt" are our registered Trade Mark, and have been known for half-a-century to mean the preparation of J. C. ENO, LTD., "Fruit Salt" Works, London, S.E.

Sole Agents:
HAROLD F. RITCHIE & CO., Ltd.
New York TORONTO Sydney

Drink Charm Black Tea

Sold in Packages Only

GEO. ROBERTSON & SON, Limited

KITCHEN ECONOMIES

By ISOBEL BRANDS
Of the Apprentice Experiment Station

Ways to Make Substantial Unsweetened Jellies.

Jellies are not merely a trifling desert. For gelatine contains body-building elements, and should be used far more often than as a sweet desert or a garnish for salads. For summer especially it is a good plan to keep on hand the plain, unsweetened gelatine to convert quickly into a cool aspic containing vegetables, fish or meat, of some kind. The most popular of summer aspics is tomato. This can be used in any number of ways, either as a plain salad or otherwise in combination with meats, fish or with other vegetables.

Tomato Aspic.

2 cupfuls of cooked tomatoes.
1 tablespoonful of gelatine
2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar
1 tablespoonful of cinnamon
1 onion
1 bay leaf
Salt, pepper

Strain the cooked tomatoes. Soften the gelatine in one-half cupful of cold water, then pour the hot tomato juice over it and stir until melted, adding other seasonings. Pour into a large mould or in individual ramekins and set aside in a cool place to harden.

Jellied Shrimp Salad.

2 cupfuls of canned or fresh cooked shrimp
1 1/2 cupfuls of stock or water
1 tablespoonful of gelatine
1 tablespoonful of lemon juice
1 cupful of cooked peas
1 teaspoonful of capers
1 teaspoonful of chopped green peppers

cupful of cold water, then pour on. Soften the gelatine in one-half the hot water or hot stock slowly, stirring until melted. Mix with the shrimp, peas and seasonings and pour into a chilled mould. Set aside to get cold and firm; serve on a bed of lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Any of the canned fish or fresh shell-fish like lobster, crab or cold chopped meats may be prepared similarly, using seasonings as preferred. Chicken blends well with chopped celery; chopped onions may be used with any other of the cold meats. A very attractive salad can be made by mixing chopped beets, cucumbers and asparagus tips in an aspic.

Salad Dressing For Tomato Aspic.

1 tablespoonful of grated horseradish
2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar
4 tablespoonfuls of whipped cream
Salt, cayenne

Place the small moulds of tomato aspic on lettuce leaves and pour this heavy dressing over it.

Or a thick mayonnaise may be used instead. If desired surround with sliced cucumbers, sliced cold potatoes or any other vegetables.

Cucumber Jelly.

3 cucumbers
3 tomatoes
1 small onion
1/2 cupful of cold water
1 tablespoonful of gelatine

Rinso

No more of this!
One day in every week—one-seventh of a lifetime—women used to spend on wash day tasks like this! RINSO washes your clothes without rubbing.

the modern way of washing

What is it? The RINSO way. Just soak the clothes in RINSO'S rich, cleansing suds. A few hours later rinse the clothes. And then? That's all. They're clean!

Does it sound too easy? It's perfectly true. Just try RINSO for yourself and see—one package will do the family wash.

try RINSO on the hardest things, to wash

The children's rompers, overalls, aprons—things with the dirt just ground in. See how beautifully RINSO washes them in the same easy way.

Not a cake soap, not a washing powder, but—better. Purest form of soap in granules. RINSO is perfectly harmless. Saves the wear and tear of the washboard.

No more of this!
No more hours of drudgery over a steaming boiler. RINSO washes your clothes without boiling.

Get a package from your Grocer

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

