STOPPING OF STREET CARS

Regulations Conflict—A Car Has the Right to Stop At Far Crossing.

A conflict of jurisdiction has arisen in the city over the administration of the traffic by-laws, and the city solicitor, J. L. Whiting, K.C., and the solicitors for the street railway company, Messrs. Nickle, Farrell and Day, are now negotiating to secure some compromise arrangements. In the spring of 1919 a section was added to the traffic by-law submitted by the Kingston Motor Club to the City Council ordering the street railway company to stop its cars on the near side of the corners instead of the far side at at present. This section of the by-law was never enforced and it now appears that the franchise under which the railway operates gives the company permission to stop its cars at the far crossing.

It is pointed out, however, that this operation makes very difficult the handling of traffic on the main streets. For instance, at the corner of Wellington and Princess streets a standing street car causes traffic to stop on the two streets whereas if it stood at the near crossing it would halt only the traffic coming down Princess street.

Kingston is one of the few cities in the country where there is such an arrangement, and Chief of Police Robinson is now endeavoring to work out a compromise whereby traffic will be permitted to proceed without interruption on the main streets.

It is claimed on the part of the company, however, that local cars are not equipped with motors strong enough to make the start on the grades on Princess street and that it would cause much inconvenience to passengers alighting in mud or snow were the cars to stop at the near crossings.

However, it is possible that some arrangement will be effected to have the cars stop at the near crossing on paved streets and have passengers alight at the front door of closed cars on other streets. If the latter plan is not feasible, the suggestion has been made to have them stop at present, and have signs painted on the paved streets indicating where the cars stop at near crossings.

CRITICIZE WAY HEALTH OFFICERS APPOINTED

Portland Township Seeks Control Over Its Medical Health Officer.

Strong criticism of the Provincial Board of Health's appointment of the medical officers of health was made at the Ontario Municipal Association's annual convention in Toronto by F. L. Auly, of Frontenac county. He found fault because the municipality, though it had to pay the officer's salary, had no control over him. Mr. Auly protested that during a recent epidemic in Portland township, the medical health department had proved very unsatisfactory.

Dr. J. S. McCullough, provincial officer of health, said the department could not dismiss a health officer unless evidence to warrant such dismissal were forthcoming. He said if Portland township could get enough evidence against the medical officer of health there, he would be dismissed.

BIG FIGHT PICTURES

Are To Be Seen at the Strand Theatre.

A special matinee on Monday at 11 a.m. will be given, and a special performance on Tuesday and Tuesday evenings at 10.40 p.m., after the usual evening performance is over. Everybody who is interested in this great international event should on no account miss seeing Jimmie Wilde the fighting Englishman, the greatest of all British champions, and Patsy Wallace, the American champion flyweight. These pictures when shown in Toronto broke all records and thousands of people were unable to gain admission when shown there. Every detail of the big fight is clearly presented. Reports from Kingstonians who have seen the picture declare it the best they have ever had the pleasure to witness. The lure is in five reels and is the genuine fight and no fake. Manager Wilson had a screening of the picture when he was in Toronto, and declares it a knockout. On any account don't miss it.—Adv.

Local Hunters Suffer Seizure of Their Guns

The duck season opened most unfortunately for some Kingston hunters who overlooked the fact that shooting after sundown is prohibited by the provincial regulations. Inspectors Young and Dine were on the bridge at Catarauqui creek, beyond Lake Ontario park on Wednesday night seeking violators of the game laws. Half a dozen hunters fell into their hands, and seizure was made of their guns, some of them being very valuable weapons. It is understood that there may be a protest entered over the seizure as it is alleged that all of the hunters had not used their firearms during prohibited hours.

GREATER PRODUCTION:

Ground For Cultivation Should Be Ploughed or Spaded.

Vacant land greater producers and back yard gardeners of the season, and others desirous of becoming such next year, should get into touch with the owners of the same, or of desired lots and secure at least conditional permission for their cultivation.

Ground intended for cultivation next year should be ploughed or spaded this fall and, if already cropped, well manured. A stronger effort should be put forward for still greater production, and no vacant lot or back yard that can be utilized left untilled.

No garden produce of this year should be allowed to go to waste. Nearly anything not saleable can be used for chicken feed. Potatoes should be dug up and stored as soon as the vines wither, otherwise slugs and worms will injure them. Tubers showing signs of rot should be removed.

Growers are again reminded of the Horticultural Society's exhibition, which is held under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Along with the usual list of prizes there are five special ones—for six ears of Golden Bantam corn, limited to city greater producers; for the best collection of vegetables, restricted to the recent garden prize competitors; for the Bell potato, and for the best three varieties of potatoes and of onions. There is also a one class prize for the largest tomato.
