

THREE ELECTRIC STORMS INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Visited Kingston on Sunday—The Thunder and Rain Were Heavy.

Three electric storms within two hours passed over the city on Sunday afternoon and evening. At three o'clock the first storm commenced with a heavy downpour of rain accompanied in the later stages by hail. The thunder and lightning was of exceptional severity and during the day reports continued to be received about damage done in the city and surrounding district. Several of the lightning flashes were brilliant and nerve-racking. The telegraph lines in the district were disorganized by the intensity of the electrical currents and workmen were busy repairing them on Sunday and again on Monday morning.

During the first storm three cows belonging to Leonard Gordon, Glenvale, were struck by lightning and instantly killed. In other parts of the country damage was done, but the lateness of the storm prevented any considerable loss in destroyed crops.

At five o'clock the lightning returned with even greater intensity than the first time, and the display in the heavens was wonderful. It hovered near the city and a number of fuses in houses were blown out when the heavy current travelled over the wires into them.

Shortly after seven o'clock the storm returned again, but the lightning was not so heavy, although a large amount of rain fell. Persons on their way home from church were caught in the downpour.

The firemen were on tiptoe during the storms waiting for calls, but fortunately no fires were started and they were not out of the stations.

Fire, apparently the result of lightning during the electric storm on Sunday, destroyed the barn, crop and threshing machine belonging to Mrs. Herman Ball, Verona.

A valuable horse, the property of Alexander Wartman, living on the Front Road, west of Portsmouth, was killed by lightning during the storm on Sunday.

A peculiar feature of the storm on Monday afternoon was noticed by a number of residents who had occasion to be on Princess street. While the rain was pouring down on one side of the Y.M.C.A. steps, it was noticed that there was no rain on the other side or as far up as Division street. This phenomenon was said to continue for some time.

Letters to the Editor

Easy Way to Get Divorce.

Kingston, Sept. 11.—(To the Editor).—From the reading of your paper, I am glad to see this subject rise, concerning non-Catholics and Catholics. As I have great cause to object to the marriage being legal, and I will uphold Justice Bruhan in his verdict of divorcing Dehlemann and Gertrude Barbeau, of Quebec, as I know of a case where a Protestant being unable to get a wife of his own religion, sought one of the Catholic faith, with promises to marry in her own church after being married by the protestant minister. He failed to keep that promise. Not only that, but he orders his half-married wife to discontinue her visits and correspondence with her people. Afterwards it is found he is an Orangeman and leaves her destitute for her parents to keep for five weeks, then returning, takes her out of town from her parents' sight. Such laws I don't hold legal in marriage and if the case of marriage, Catholic vs. Protestant, should go to the vote, I believe it would be condemned, and marriage of that kind made illegal, which would be keeping our faith in its right place, and keep to the church of our education and parents' faith. Yours truly, E. HOWLEY, 63 Stephens Street.

Will be Honored on Tuesday.

Bishop Bidwell, who arrived in Montreal on Saturday, upon his return from England where he attended the Lambeth Conference, is expected to reach the city this evening.
