JURY AWARD THROWN OUT

Justice Lennox Dismisses the Action of Smith Elliott vs. The G.T.R.

Justice Lennox has dismissed the action of Smith Elliott against the Grand Trunk for damages for personal injuries following the accident on Sept. 17th, of last year, when his auto truck was hit by a Grand Trunk train.

A jury in the Supreme Court, Wednesday noon, awarded Mr. Elliott $6,000 damages, but when the court resumed in the afternoon, Justice Lennox dismissed the action. His lordship made the following award:

"That judgment be entered for the defendants, dismissing the action with costs, but in the event of the case going no further, without costs. The case is likely to be appealed by A. B. Cunningham, counsel for Mr. Elliott.

The list of questions submitted to the jury by Justice Lennox with the answers, appeared in Wednesday's Whig, and the finding of his lordship was based on these answers. While finding that the railway company had been negligent the jury was also of the opinion that the plaintiff with reasonable care could have avoided the accident, and that plaintiff failed to exercise reasonable care, in that he did not stop his car or look toward the approaching train.

The case of Mrs. Flora Knott, against George F. Smid and Mary Couper, was dismissed without costs. Mrs. Knott sued for damages for personal injuries she received, when hit by Mr. Smith's car, four months ago, near the corner of Wellington and Brock street. A. B. Cunningham conducted the prosecution, and T. J. Rigney the defence.

The jury in the case of Christiana Hanson against Andrew Goodwin, for damages for personal injuries, when her buggy was hit by Goodwin's car, on October 9th last, awarded the plaintiff $150 damages, costs of her medical attention, $25, and also costs of the court, according to the supreme court tariff.

A. B. Cunningham conducted the case for the prosecution, and Thomas Walsley, Picton, appeared for the defendant.

Autos In Limelight. Automobile accidents have taken a prominent part in the present sessions of the Supreme Court, there being no less than four cases in which automobiles are involved.

The case of Mrs. Knott vs. George Smith and Mary Couper commenced Wednesday forenoon.

Mrs. Knott stated that she came up Clarence street to Wellington, and then turned to the right. When she got near Carnovsky's corner, she started to go across Wellington street, toward the city street, where there was clear of traffic at the time. She got about three-quarters of the way across, when she was knocked down by the automobile, suffered a fractured limb, and was in hospital fifteen weeks. She did not see the car coming and she was struck by the right side of the fender. She did not hear a horn sounded.

Dr. L. E. Crowley, who attended Mrs. Knott, told of the injuries she had received, and the treatment given her. He believed that by November, the plaintiff would have the full use of her limb.

Frederick Shepherd, a young man who witnessed the accident while standing in front of Hugh Doyle's barber shop on Wellington street, said that Mrs. Knott, appeared to be crossing the street at an angle.

Mrs. Couper, who was driving the car, stated that she swerved to the left, to avoid hitting Mrs. Knott, and again turned to the right, when near the curb on Wellington street, before striking the plaintiff.

George Smith, owner of the car, was sitting in the front seat. He did not see the car was travelling ten miles an hour. He first saw Mrs. Knott when almost in front of the car. She was hurrying along, and he called to her to "lookout." Mrs. Couper swung her car to avoid hitting Mrs. Knott, but the latter changed her course toward the city street.

Thomas Rogers saw the accident, and believed the auto was travelling about six or eight miles an hour. He noticed that Mrs. Couper turned her car to avoid an accident.

Sued For Personal Injuries.

Mrs. Christiana Hanson, who sued Andrew Goodwin, for damages for personal injuries, as a result of her vehicle being struck by Goodwin's auto, is serving time in jail, and a widow. She said the accident occurred on the Bath road, on Oct. 9th of last year. She was driving in a bad storm, holding an umbrella over her head. She was hit by Goodwin's car as it came up behind her. Her medical attendance and hospital fees totalled $240.

Dr. G. W. Mylkes, said the plaintiff suffered serious injuries to her chest, and for a time it was doubtful if she would recover.

Andrew Goodwin, the defendant, said he was on his way home from Kingston to Picton, when he came up to Mrs. Hanson, who was travelling on the left hand side of the road, her horse turned towards the right and stopped on the road. Had the horse not stopped, he would have been able to pass without an accident. He had blown his horn when about 100 feet from the vehicle, at the time of the accident, was not travelling more than five miles an hour. He stopped as soon as he could.

Edward Ryan, who was driving with the defendant, told of Mrs. Hanson driving on the left side of the road. He heard defendant blow the horn when near approaching the vehicle.

THE AMHERST ISLAND FAIR

Held on Tuesday at Stella—Steamer Brockville Ran From Kingston.

The Amherst Island annual fair was held on Tuesday at Stella, and was patronized by all of the farmers, their families and many visitors from Kingston, Picton, Bath and other points. The steamer Brockville made special trips for the convenience of visitors and the service rendered was greatly appreciated.

The exhibit of horses, cattle, sheep, and pigs took place on the grounds, and the grain, vegetables, fruit, ladies' art and needle work were shown in the township hall. While in some classes the entries were not so numerous as in some former years, the quality was exceedingly fine and unsurpassed. The horses were heavy draught, general purpose, roadster and carriage. The cattle were Holsteins, Durhams, Ayrshires, Jerseys. There were long and short wool sheep and Berkshire pigs. The poultry show included turkeys, ducks, geese, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes and Leghorns.

The exhibit of grain, vegetables and fruit was magnificent, and fair samples of the yield this year. Ladies' art and needle work, as well as cookery, presented a most attractive appearance. The vegetables included turnips, beets, potatoes, onions, carrots, corn, squash, mangolds. In the fruit exhibit, there were apples, pears, and tomatoes. There were also shown honey in the comb, homemade wine, preserved fruit, canned vegetables, pickles, bread and cake. The sewing and fine needle work contained beautiful embroidery and knitted articles. There were also shown wonderful writing and drawing by children under fifteen years of age.

Among the large exhibitors were Charles Neville, Charles Davy, Robert Marshall, David Finigan and Mr. Miller. In the ladies' work Mrs. Finigan and Mrs. William Glenn had some beautiful samples of their own work.

The first prize for the best turnout driven by a lady, was won by Moutray Wemp, second by Fred Neilson, and third by Thomas Cochrane.

In the horse races Tom Connors won, with Moutray Nicholson, cattle and sheep; Miss Loyalnahan, ladies' art and needle work. The list of prize winners will be published in the Whig at a later date.

The officials were, F. P. Instant, president; D. K. Fison, secretary; judges: A. D. McDougal, Maxwell horses; Ralph Sillis, poultry; Arthur Finigan and Chester Nicholson, cattle and sheep; Miss Loyalnahan, ladies' art and needle work. The list of prize winners will be published in the Whig at a later date.

The weather was fine all day and everybody had a most enjoyable time. It was a cause for deep regret, however, that Fred Richards had the misfortune to lose three very valuable horses by the lightning on Monday night, and his friends sympathize with him.

How to Make Your Hair Beautiful

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple, old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Compose) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1/4 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft and lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you should not find a single loose or straggling hair. Dandruff should quickly disappear. You should find fine, downy, new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair growing with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is inexpensive, and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its results.
