Why hens go on a strike!

The feed elements that make white of eggs are entirely different from those that make yolks. When hens aren't fed both the white and yolk making elements, they can't lay.

Missouri Experiment Station tests prove that 100 lbs. of wheat, corn, oats, barley and kafir corn make (above bodily maintenance) an average of 224 yolks to 154 whites. Based on data from the same experiments, Purina formulas produce, (above bodily maintenance), as follows:

Purina Scratch Feed	247.49 yolks	142.11 whites
Purina Chicken Chowder	182.05 yolks	282.55 whites
Combined Ration	429.54 yolks	424.66 whites

These Purina feeds not only make a practically equal number of whites and yolks but more of both than ordinary feeds.

Note that Purina Chicken Chowder contains the necessary white-forming elements to balance up the yolk-making grain ration. That's why it makes hens lay so heavily. Instead of the yolks being absorbed by the hen's system, Purina Chicken Chowder makes the whites to complete the eggs and they are laid. Thus we can absolutely guarantee more eggs or money back on Purina Chicken Chowder if fed with Purina Scratch Feed as directed. You take no risk.

Good Night Stories

Lazy Snail Tells Why She Carries Her House on Her Back.
"Pooh!" exclaimed Johnny Grasshopper. "It's perfectly silly to go around lugging your house after you to my way of thinking."
"Well, I should say it is foolish!" chirped Cherry Cricket. "I shouldn't like it one bit myself. But, dear me, what a funny world it would be if every one did just exactly as his neighbor."
"I should say so," buzzed Billy Bumble Bee. "Now, wouldn't I look silly lugging a house around with me?"
"And wouldn't I?" this from Granddaddy Longlegs. "I'd never be able to find one large enough to cover all my legs."
"Oh, dear me, think what a funny looking house Mr. Walking Stick would have to drag after him," laughed Katydid. "I don't stand it for a second. No sir. The responsibility would be too great. I'd much prefer to fly free, I imagine it's a load dragging that shell house around on one's back."
"Oh, no, indeed, it isn't heavy," came from a merry voice, and the object of their sympathy crawled among the crowd of meadow folks. "I rather enjoy it."
"Indeed!" chirped Cherry Cricket. "We were just going to call on you and ask you why you are so careful to drag it with you everywhere you go. But now that you're here maybe you'll tell us. I've often wanted to know, myself."
"And I guess there are quite a few others beside you who have been wondering the very same thing," laughed Lazy Snail good-naturedly. She wasn't the least bit hurt by what her friends had been saying about her.

"I Rather Enjoy It."
She knew it was just because their curiosity had got the better of them.
"In the very first place, I drag it with me for safety's sake," she continued. "If danger approaches I just do this" and quick as a wink Lazy Snail drew her little body into the shell so you couldn't even so much as see her feelers. Then cautiously she poked out her head, looking around, laughed, and once more crawled out.
"You see it hides me so completely that no one would ever suspect anything being under the shell. Then by having it with me I know no one will occupy it when I'm away. Long ago, before I began to have a little sense, I used to go away from home and forget to lock my door. One day when I came home tired and hungry, what do you think had happened?" The meadow folks looked at one another, then shook their heads.
"Just this," continued Lazy Snail. "Two great, big crabs had crawled into my house and were living there as snug as two bugs in a rug."
"Well, of all things!" exclaimed Cherry Cricket. "And didn't you make them get out?"
"What good would that have done?" laughed Lazy Snail. "And it really served me right for forgetting, so instead I just bade them good day and found another house. Here it is on my back, and right here it's going to stay. 'Safety first' is my motto." And wiggling her feelers proudly in the air Lazy Snail crawled slowly away.
"Just as I said before," said Cherry Cricket, "wouldn't this be a funny world if every one in it did the same things?"
Laughing happily the merry crowd separated, each going his own way.
For stealing ribbon attached to wreaths on the graves in the cemetery, a woman was fined at Dudley, Worcs. She pleaded that the ribbon was taken to tie up flowers for the graves of her own three children.

EVENTS AT ODESSA.

School Fair, Big Show and Concert During Past Week.
Odessa, Sept. 28.—Visitors: Mrs. A. Wycott, Watertown, N.Y., with her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Benjamin; Mrs. Radoliff and children, Kingston, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hodge; Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill, Calabogie, with John O'Neill; Mrs. Van Dusen, Mrs. Waggoner and Mrs. Braymer, Watertown, at George Burnett's; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee, Watertown, with friends; Mrs. G. Hamm; Percy Hogle, Watertown, and Mrs. Jamieson and little son, Charles, at James McQueen's; Miss Storms, Wilton, spent Tuesday the guest of Mrs. E. O. Clark.
The school fair held last Monday on the exhibition grounds was well attended. The exhibits surpassed any of the previous displays. The different amusements arranged by the directors were enjoyed by all. One of the most popular was the baseball game between Yorker and Odessa Juniors. The score was fourteen to ten in favor of the locals. Last Saturday the same teams played an exhibition game, not so interesting to the locals as the honors were carried by the Yorkerites.
The annual show held last Friday was all that could be asked for. The receipts at the gate amounted to about six hundred dollars. The concert given by the Odessa Dramatic Club, assisted by "Sandy" MacGregor, the Scotch humorist and singer, was a rare treat. The large hall was crowded to the doors, and many were turned away. The hall has recently been extended fifteen feet, and the adjustable chairs, the gift of the Dramatic Club, are a great improvement to the former seats. The receipts of the show amounted to $150, which after the expenses, will be used by the club towards the seats. After the concert the social dance followed with about seventy-five couples in attendance. The excellent music was furnished by the McAuley Orchestra, Kingston.
The concert given in the Salvation Army barracks last Tuesday night by the silver band of Kingston, was well attended. The many choice vocal and instrumental selections were beautifully rendered.

Death visited this vicinity on Saturday and took away a highly respected resident in the person of Mrs. J. Somerville. Deceased had been ill for some time and the end was not unexpected. Five sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother. They are, Clifford and Robert, Winlog; Claude and William, of the home-stead; James, merchant, Morton; Mrs. Pritchard, Timmins; Miss Liza Jane, Lyndhurst; Miss Minnie, at home. Deceased, who was in her seventy-seventh year, had many warm friends who will learn with regret of her passing away.
The death took place in Belleville Hospital of Miss Gertrude Heagle, Ormsby. Some time ago she underwent an operation for mastoid trouble and appeared to be recovering when she took a turn for the worse. She was eighteen years of age.
James Alexander, Arden, a nephew of Thomas Alexander and Mrs. Warren, Deseronto, has sold a block of timber known as the Thornton ranch to the Canada Co-operative Company. Mrs. Thomas and daughter, Miss Helen, Deseronto, who have been in Sydenham for the past couple of months, arrived home on Friday.
