GREAT DAY AT ST. JAMES

The 75th Anniversary and Dedication of New Sunday School Hall.

St. James' church celebrated its annual harvest thanksgiving and the 75th anniversary of the church on Sunday and the occasion was marked by the dedication of the new Sunday school hall built in memory of the late Archdeacon Macmorine, for many years rector of the parish. The service was conducted by Rev. T. W. Savary, the rector, assisted by Archdeacon Dobbs, and Canon Forner. Bishop Bidwell was the special preacher.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, sheaves of grain and fruit, and the harvest music was brilliantly rendered by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. A. R. B. Williamson. Bishop Bidwell spoke from Chronicles, IX, 9:—"The offering willingly to the Lord." The occasion, he said, was most unique, being the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the church. It recalled many of those who from time to time had ministered in the church, notably the late beloved Archdeacon Macmorine, so well known to all. St. James' church always contributed admirable and leading men, and as the late R. V. Rogers, whose name will always stand high on the scroll. It is when we think of these and the great many who have in the interval passed to their rest, that we realize the truth of the communion of saints. Referring to the progress made in the work of the church, the Bishop offered his heartiest congratulations to those who were carrying it on at the present time.

"The present," said he, "is a time for rejoicing. God is not averse to our making his house a house of beauty, provided there is no compulsion about it, and it is here that a great contrast is found between our churches and the temples of earlier ages which are monuments of the days of slavery. Our churches are the people's free-will offerings. There was a time when it was not thought proper to beautify and ornament a place of worship, but it is a mistake to think that God does not want us to make His house beautiful. In the church we are all brothers and sisters and we ought to forget all outside distinctions. Here are dispensed the means of grace.

This bishop referred also to the place of the church in the important events of human life with which it was identified, and it filled a large place in the Christian education of children. He congratulated St. James' people upon the new Sunday school building. Instead of the Sunday school being the least important, it was one of the most important parts of the work the church had to do.

"God cares for the whole man. This is the truth of the harvest thanksgiving. He not overanxious for the things of this world, because the heavenly father knoweth we have need of these things." We thank God for the spirit of the joy of thanksgiving to-day. The members of St. James' church had always shown a spirit of generosity in the support of their church and it is a great privilege to be able to take part in the ceremonies of the day that recalls such a record of achievements and is so full of promise for the future. In addition to the harvest hymns beautifully rendered, an anthem "Praise The Lord" was sung very effectively.

Memorial Hall Dedicated. The Macmorine memorial hall was dedicated by Rev. T. W. Savary, assisted by Archdeacon Dobbs, Canon Forner and Canon J. W. Jones. Rev. Mr. Hiltz, general secretary of the Sunday school commission, Toronto, was the special speaker for the occasion.

The new hall is Octagonal in shape, each side having windows of cathedral glass. The main floor is subdivided into many class rooms which form a part of the auditorium when the partitions are removed. There is a gallery with large seating capacity. The building was crowded for the occasion and the singing of the children, led by the church choir was beautiful. Among those present was Miss Mary E. Rogers who is the only person in the congregation who took part in the opening of St. James' church.

Rev. Mr. Hiltz gave a most inspiring address, taking for his text, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." He congratulated the rector, the church wardens and the congregation upon having such a fine building. It brought with it a responsibility and all are called upon to do his and her part in the work of the church. He touched upon the qualities so essential to success in every endeavor, and showed a marvellous faculty in adapting his remarks to the children whose attention he held throughout.

At Chalmers Church. There was a large congregation at the Sunday evening service in Chalmers church. Rev. Dr. R. J. Wilson delivered the first of a series of sermons on "Night Scenes From the Bible." His subject on this occasion was "A Young Man's First Night From Home." There was a large student attendance.

Evangelistic Services. Most profound attention marked the service Sunday night at the Pentecostal tabernacle as Evangelist A. H. Argue stirred the hearts of his hearers by a most telling talk on prophecy. He gave scriptures foretelling the auto, the aeroplane, the submarine, and the return of the Jews to Palestine, together with the close of the Gentile age; all coming to pass in our generation. The music on the slide trombone, by his young son and daughter, was reinforced by several other instruments. The house was filled, some standing, and others being turned away. Extra seating accommodation is being arranged for.

Meetings are announced to continue every night, with a special service Tuesday afternoon to pray for the sick. The tabernacle is located on Queen street, near Barris.

Civic Apathy Prevalts. Rev. W. T. G. Brown in Sydenham Street Methodist church on Sunday night preached a vigorous sermon on "Citizenship," in which he deplored the apathy in civic affairs apparent all over the country. Electors would not assume any responsibility, but were vigorous in denunciation of failure and neglect on the part of those who do. Everybody wanted somebody else to do the civic work. A good citizen, to his mind, was a good Christian, and vice-versa; a good citizen was one who sought the best for himself, his city, country and God.

CASE WAS DISMISSED.

Court Was Held at Newboro on Thursday Last.

At Newboro on Thursday before Magistrate Preston, Lachin Muchmore, a resident of Westport district, appeared on a charge of intoxication, arising out of an alleged assault on John Truelove, a resident of Westport, who was injured in the Wardrobe House, conducted by Donald Curtis, at Westport, on Sept. 28th. After considerable evidence was heard the charge of intoxication was dismissed.

At Westport on Friday four residents of the district were scheduled to appear before Police Magistrate William S. Murth on charges of intoxication. Only one of the quartette appeared, however, and he was fined $10 and costs.

GERMS IN WARFARE.

Canadian Scientist Does Not Think Scheme Practical.

If Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minnesota, really did say at dinner in London, England, the germs would be the ammunition of the next war—well, Col. George C. Nasmith, C.M.O., of Toronto, isn't at all convinced.

Col. Nasmith is familiar with germs, too. When the great war broke out he was director of laboratories, Department of Health, Toronto. When the conflict came he offered his services, and became adviser in sanitation, etc., to the First Canadian Contingent, and for sixteen months commanded the Canadian mobile laboratory in France.

"Dr. Mayo is reported as expecting war to become one of bactericidal dropped from airplanes over enemy cities," an interviewer said to Col. Nasmith as he was making some scientific test of other in his office in the Confederation Life Building.

Col. Nasmith smiled. "Are you sure that Dr. Mayo said it?" he asked. When informed that a cable made the affirmation, Col. Nasmith laughed a little.

"Get away from the question of humanity, and come down to cold-blooded practicality," prefaced Col. Nasmith in comment. "It's the business of armies to kill and destroy. Yet, respecting the prediction attributed to Dr. Mayo, it is interesting to recall that no epidemics were started deliberately. Why? Well, if an epidemic had been launched by one army, it would have been a boom-erang, recoiling on the sender. Consider it in this light, and you will perceive that common sense is opposed to such a thing as between armies. I don't know which army had it first. But he suffered."

"During the war, Col. Nasmith, there were rumors of poisonous wells," observed the interviewer.

"There was never any proof of such a thing during my time," Col. Nasmith replied. "In 1916 I represented Canada on the War Allies' Sanitary Commission in Paris. We took every angle of infection and contagion, and there was no evidence submitted that disease germs had been or were being used."

"Science would combat science if Dr. Mayo's fears were realized, Col. Nasmith."

"Certainly. If the enemy, in the last war, had desired to use the germ weapon, they would have attempted it with typhoid and cholera. But they didn't. Now, as between armies, the germ system would hit back, and, anyway, the method would not develop fast enough."

"Say that germs were dropped from the skies, see only one condition under which the plan might operate: If Germany were at war with the United States, German airplanes might cross the ocean and drop their war-tokens on American territory. The spread of the disease back to the Germans, in such an event, would be barred by the seas. But difficulties are manifold."

"Then, Col. Nasmith, while Dr. Mayo's forecast is interesting, the world need not be downcast at the possible horrors?"

Col. Nasmith nodded assent, and then went back to his little powders and his work of mystery which the interviewer had interrupted.

And the colonel was as calm as ever.

Good Citizenship Means Service.

(Acton Free Press) Salutary results are sure to accrue to the boy or girl who at school and at home has had before him the ideal of service as that which should dominate his life, and who is accustomed to perform everyday tasks of service. This is the best possible training for citizenship. In too much school and home training stress has been laid upon the importance of successful acquisition rather than upon that of using the fruits of acquisition for the benefit of others. Boys and girls are learning through this means to be more thoughtful, kind and generous. They are learning also to deal directly with the problems and needs of life.

MINERS' WIVES OPPOSE STRIKE.

City's Charms Waning. (Buffalo Courier) It is evident that the general public does not regard the growth of cities with the enthusiasm that was once shown. In these days of auto accidents and city hold-ups mere bigness has lost its charm for city dwellers outside of the growing circles of handits and gunmen.

British miners' wives paraded recently in opposition to the threatened miners' strike. They fear starvation if the strike is called.

Philadelphia women who have married aliens will not be permitted to vote at the coming presidential election.
