HELD IN MOCKERY

"Kangaroo Courts" Instituted by Australian Convicts.

Prisoners at Botany Bay Said to Have Invented Idea to Relieve the Monotony of Their Existence—Spread to United States.

Kangaroo court is an expression which, however strange it may be to the layman, is familiar to most United States marshals, post office inspectors and the police forces of large cities, remarks a writer in the Detroit News. What it really stands for is explained by a post office inspector who has had much experience with offenders and criminals.

It appears that in a number of the larger prisons in this country the prisoners, from time to time, are accustomed to hold what they call kangaroo court, and that every notorious criminal in the United States is probably not only familiar with the term, but has no doubt presided often enough as judge or prosecuting attorney in this relation, or perhaps has been tried for some of the numerous mock charges that are preferred against those who have the misfortune to be held before such a tribunal.

Such a court is held only in the great prisons of the country, being entirely unknown in the country jails.

The institution of kangaroo court seems to date back some 40 years in the United States.

In the days when Australia was a penal colony the convicts at Botany Bay, by way of amusing themselves and relieving the monotony of prison life, used to organize a sort of mock court at which the shrewdest and often the worst criminals of the lot presided as judge, while others acted as jurymen, prosecuting attorneys, bailiffs, criers and the like.

At such trials the prisoners were wont to take on recent arrivals from England on all manner of mock charges, such as snoring too loudly, washing their faces with soap, and so on. If it was found that among the batch of new-comers, convicts just from the old country, there were several who possessed money, court was immediately convened and the ones suspected of having funds were haled up on the charge of having red hair or wearing box-toed shoes.

The trial was held with mock gravity and decorum and in the end the prisoner would be found guilty and fined whatever amount he was known to have on his person for the offense charged. The money thus obtained would be divided among the old, long-term convicts, who would buy tobacco and other luxuries with it, while the victim of this form of extortion would have no recourse except to await the time when he himself got a chance to preside as judge or sit on the jury at the trial of some new arrival.

It was called kangaroo court because in those days the Botany Bay convicts spoke of themselves as kangaroos, an animal very abundant, as everybody knows, in Australia.

The institution, as well as the term, traveled from Australia to England, whither it was brought by returning Botany Bay convicts, whose terms had expired. It had a short life in England, however, where it was speedily discovered by the jailers and thrunks and broken up; but it was not long afterward that it found its way into the prisons of the United States, where it has remained ever since.

Girl Advertiser for "Dates."

An advertisement which, the advertising department of Columbia university's daily newspaper, Spectator, says is the legitimate appeal of a young woman, appeared recently in the publication as follows:

"Are you bound by convention? A Columbia girl from out of town, cultured, well bred and fairly good looking, wishes to make the acquaintance of several men in order to be introduced at Columbia functions. She is entirely unconventional and is willing to meet the men half way by paying all expenses. Strictly confidential. Address E 38, Spectator."

The students who publish Spectator, the New York World says, profess ignorance of the identity of the young woman or whether the number 38 had any reference to the age or figure of the advertiser.

Hundreds of masculine students are awaiting replies from her, the advertisement having been well answered.

First Sight of a Pig.

Along the hard, dry, wind-swept road in a suburb came a drove of pigs—a most unusual spectacle in London of recent years. From the by-streets the children of the poor came hurrying to see, and it was clear from their comments that many of them had never seen a pig before.

"Look, Lisser!" cried one of the smallest among them. "Look, there's a plebeian one."

"Course there is, stoopid," said Lisser, who was clearly well versed in natural history. "Where else do yer think they get streaky bacon from?"—London Chronicle.

China's Industrial Future.

In 1918, regardless of the great world war and unsettled internal political conditions, China's foreign trade increased, keeping the grand total well above the billion-dollar mark. Observing commercial investigators agree that, industrially, and as a manufacturing center, China has a great future.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in Brockville on Tuesday, when Miss Martha V. Warren, daughter of Benjamin Warren, Lansdowne, became the bride of E. Harold Barclay, a well-known trainman in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The death of Mrs. H. D. Wing, formerly of Athens, took place last week at the home of George Taylor, Wollaston, Mass.

BRIEFS FROM WELLINGTON

A Budget of Personal and News Notes.

M. Sprang and family motored from Belleville on Sunday and were the guests of George B. Noble. Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Languir, St. Mary's, were week-end guests of relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Port Hope, are visiting friends here. K. C. Hortop has passed his examinations at Toronto with honors. Mrs. D. Clinton rented her home to Hul. Wilson for the winter.

Mr. Hortop's sister, who has been his guest for some time, returned to her home on Tuesday. D. S. Answorth who purchased the Lane property, will convert it into furniture room. Mrs. Emma Seath, who spent the summer months here, has returned to Montreal.

Stewart Lloyd, Toronto, has been visiting his mother and sisters here. Mr. and Mrs. Vandervoort and son, of Belleville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Davison, (The Cedars), on Sunday.

Mrs. Beattie Harris, a former resident of Wellington, was visiting friends here last week. Rev. F. W. White, Plainfield, spent Monday and Tuesday with his sister, Mrs. Woodman Thomas.

People of Prince Edward County are enthused over the prospects of an electric railroad through the country. This is necessary on account of the great delay of shipments. Mrs. Marie Murray (nee Best) is confined to the house through sickness. Mrs. Grier, (nee Hardy), of Kingston, who spent the summer here, will soon take her departure for New York, where she will spend the winter.

Harold King, Detroit, is home on his vacation. The five canning factories here are busy night and day. Rufus Wilder is confined to his house through sickness. Mrs. Daniel Morin, has left for Rochester, to undergo an operation for internal trouble. Charles Fritz, who had the misfortune of having his house destroyed by fire last winter, has his new concrete house finished.

Rev. Mr. Robbins and family, who have been away for five weeks, through the northwest and Rockies, have returned looking well and hearty. On Sunday last Rev. Mr. Robbins gave his congregation two well admired sermons. Rev. E. Howard, who is eighty-seven years of age, officiated for Mr. Robbins during his absence, preaching three sermons every Sunday. Ninety dollars were realized at Rose Hall chicken pie tea this week. William Collier will open a grocery. Mrs. Dr. Gorland and Mrs. Dr. Armstrong, Cobourg, were guests of O. S. Clark on Sunday last.

McMahon Bros. have finished canning tomatoes at their factory. The other factories are still busy and hundreds of bushels of tomatoes are still coming in. Rev. Erastus and Mrs. Howard are this week with their daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Garrett, Demorestville.

M. R. Doyle and family, Belleville, were callers at J. E. Clark's on Sunday. Mr. White is buying apples. D. Answorth is putting a long frontage on the property purchased from Mr. Lane. He will make this property very attractive for his furniture show rooms. Jack Shurie has purchased the building formerly occupied by D. Answorth and purposes converting it into a city drug store.

Mr. Zuseit, Concession, has purchased the L. Rankin property for his father and mother, who will reside there the remainder of their days.

At Bunker's Hill.

Bunker's Hill, Oct. 13.—Some of the farmers are still engaged in threshing. Timothy Freeman is engaged with his threshing outfit. The wells have plenty of water again. Snow fell in this district recently. Sanford Freeman has finished work in his swamp. The hens appear to be on strike around here, and eggs are very scarce.
