THREE MEN CLAIM GIRL

All Say She is Their Wife—Mrs. Williams Denies Claims.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14.—Anne Williams, 21, values highly the privilege of remaining within the boundaries of the United States.

In fact, she's willing to do battle with any of her alleged former husbands to maintain her liberty here, she says.

On her martial record hangs the decision of the immigration authorities as to her desirability as an immigrant from Canada.

So willing was Anne to clear up this record that when confronted with one man who said he had been her husband she hit him in the face with a basket of peaches.

Anne is in the Florence Crittenton home, awaiting the result of a thorough investigation of her case by the federal immigration officials. She told the officials she married Peter Williams, 1194 Russell street, September 24th, in Detroit.

The day after her marriage she was confronted by Joseph Adionski of Kitchener, Ont., who claimed her as his wife. He said he married the girl in Ruthenia seven years ago, when she was 14.

The bride of a day met her accuser in the office of Dr. P. L. Prentiss, inspector of immigration.

Adionski said he had read of her marriage in the newspapers, and "fearing it might be true," rushed to see her. He was questioned at Fort Huron by immigration inspectors, and his story resulted in the girl being detained.

The present Mrs. Williams spurned Adionski.

"I am happily married, and you are persecuting me," she declared. "I never was married before. We went together in Ruthenia, but we were never married."

Apparently heartbroken, Adionski returned to his home.

A few days passed, and then came a telegram from Adionski, saying he was forwarding a warrant, charging bigamy, on the ground that the girl had married a friend of his in Canada.

"One, two, three times married?" counted the girl.

"No, I'm only one man's wife, and I'm willing to fight any man who says he married me. I'm no bigamist."

And through it all Anne smiles.

Theatrical

At the Grand.

Harry Morey, the popular Vitagraph star, will be seen at the Grand to-night for the last time in "The Gamblers," the screen version of Charles Klein's great stage success of the same name. The story is an unusual one, having an extra strong plot, different from any other play or film that pretenses to deal with the same basic theme—finance. It is a visualization of money intrigue in its most interesting phase. The picture deals with a group of bankers who gamble with the funds of their depositors, and in the final crash, the self-sacrifice of one of their number in taking all the blame, so that his father might go free. There is a strong love interest running through the picture, and the talented star is seen at his best. There are reels of extra good comedies and other subjects, and a splendid musical programme of the latest popular selections, by the Grand's Orchestra. This bill will be seen to-night only.—Adv.

"San Toy" Coming.

F. Stuart-Whyte, the noted producer of pantomime, has gone into the musical comedy field again this season and is now presenting an elaborate revival of the charming Chinese musical comedy, "San Toy," with an all star cast of carefully chosen English musical comedy artists and a chorus of regal beauties. The story of "San Toy" is too familiar to need repetition here, while the twenty-eight song numbers have enjoyed a popularity which has not diminished during the last fifteen years. The book is by Edward Morton, lyrics by Harry Greenbank and Adrian Ross and the music by Sidney Jones. "San Toy" will be the offering at the Grand Opera House, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15th and 16th, with a special matinee on Saturday.—Adv.

"The Wanderer" Coming.

A play whose popularity with every class of theatregoers can be compared only with "Experience" will be presented at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 20th and 21st, with a special matinee on Thursday. It is "The Wanderer," and not unlike the modern morality play, though of entirely different construction. Curiously enough this sensation of the theatre owes its production to F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, the enterprising young managers who sponsored "Experience," and they are candid in admitting that they never expected to find a successor to "Experience" as a box office magnet. The story of "The Wanderer" is that of the Prigal Son. A most lavish and sumptuous production has been given "The Wanderer," which will be interpreted here by many of the original New York cast, including Frederick Lewis, Mabel Griffith, Dwight Dana, Fred Mosely, Charles Gline, Margaret Bryn, John Dougherty, and a hundred others. A ballet of thirty, led by Charlotte Wynters, is a feature, and in the first act over a hundred sheep, goats and dogs are introduced. Maurice Y. Samuels wrote "The Wanderer" and David Belasco staged it. Appropriate music, composed by Anselm Goetzl, will be played by an augmented orchestra.—Adv.

At Griffin's.

William in an eminently new sort of role is promised when his new Wm. Fox production "The Joyous Troublemakers" will be shown at Griffin's today, Friday and Saturday. "The Joyous Troublemakers" is a story of hidden treasure, and William plays the youth who finds the treasure and then the man who comes back to claim his own. The treasure was hidden by nature not by man, and is in the bed of a river. The story is fresh and bright and lives up to its merry title. But it is not all laughter; the tears that sometimes lie behind the smile have their place for it is a story of love and gold—both dangerous things. Don't miss this splendid comedy drama, in which Wm. Farnum shows that he is as good a comedian as in any of the heavier roles. On the same programme is shown the 8th. episode of "Bound and Gagged," that interesting serial with Geo. B. Seitz and Marguerite Courtot. As this serial draws near a close, amazing events take place, which no follower of it will want to miss, and the chapters we are showing today contain some of the most amazing of all. A good comedy picture and other attractive subjects round out an entertaining bill for the last half of the week.—Adv.

At The Strand.

Wallace Reid in a spirited screen version of the stage farce, "Sick Abed," will be the attraction at the Strand theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The story concerns one Reginald Jarvis who tries to get away with laughable complications through trying to help an old friend of his father's out of a scrape. The latter has earned the wrath of his jealous wife because he went to a roadhouse with a certain lady customer of his firm. Reginald is wanted as a star witness in the pending divorce suit. To escape, he feigns sick and a pretty nurse is assigned to attend him. Not only does Reggie put over the deception successfully, but he wins the nurse in the bargain.

Vivacious Bebe Daniels figures as the nurse and an excellent comedy team-mate for Mr. Reid. Winifred Greenwood, John Stepping, and Tully Marshall are also in the supporting cast. The picture, which is a Paramount Arctcraft, was directed by Sam Wood.—Adv.

KIDNAP SCHOOL INSPECTOR

Armed Men Order Official Out of School and Out of County.

Belfast, Oct. 14.—While S. Weatherup, a national school inspector, was inspecting a school near Inishkeen, County Monaghan, armed men entered the school, forcibly removed him in a motor car across the border of County Monaghan, and ordered him not to return.

The children in the school fled panic-stricken. Weatherup's removal was due to his alleged hostility toward the teaching of the Irish language and history in schools.
