JUST FUN

His Real Star.

"Got her all ready to sign up for another season!" the theatrical manager exclaimed delightedly as he left the telephone.

"That star you thought you might lose?"

"Yes, I was badly scared."

"The bluffing. These actresses—"

"Actresses? Shucks! Why, I'm talking about our cook, man!"

Two Views.

"I should like to work for a man who would raise my pay just once without my having to ask for it," said the man.

"And I should like," said the chief, "to have a man working for me who would give me a chance to raise his pay without his asking for it first."

His Idea.

"How do you like these cigars, Brown?" the host asked. "Pretty fair, what?"

"Splendid!" responded the unhappy guest. "But I can tell you something that will please you. I know a place where you can get cigars even cheaper than these!"

Two Versions.

"It's so difficult to be happy when you want so much," sighed the poor man.

"Oh!" sighed the rich man, "it's so difficult to find any happiness here when you have everything and there's nothing more that you really want."

Nothing to Worry About.

She Realy, Egbert, you must ask father for my hand.

Egbert—But—I—I—don't know him very well.

She—Oh, that doesn't matter in the least; he's never even heard of you.

Mean!

Edith—Maud Elderby has a remarkably fresh complexion.

Marie—Hasn't she? I never saw such a young head on such old shoulders.

THE BEST SIGN.

"Is he honest?"

"I think he must be. I haven't heard him bragging about it."

And He Never Tips Anybody. The meth's an apture complete. The choicest on this earth. For at a single meal he'll eat a hundred dollars' worth.

True Friendship.

"Is he truly your friend?"

"I think so. He never gives my name to book agents, real estate men, bond salesmen or insurance people as a possible customer."

Paradoxical Conduct.

"I hear the signal man on the railroad was discharged for too much activity."

"How could that be?"

"His energies were flagged."

The Vital One.

"I have taken up the study of ethnology, and what puzzles me is what is the greatest problem of the races?"

"That's easy. It is to guess right which horse is going to win."

Anything but Poor.

Patience—Ever hear him sing? Patrice—Indeed, I have.

"I think he is a very poor tenor!"

"Poor, indeed! You ought to see how he spends money when he takes me out to dinner!"

Wet With Tears.

"This book is damp. Yet evidently it is not just from the press."

"Nope. The girls cry so over that book we simply can't keep it dry."

Not Certain.

"You know, my dear boy, we really gain by our trials in life."

"That depends altogether on what kind of lawyers we get to try them."

Cruel Comment.

"Look at the engagement ring Will gave me. He has such taste."

"Yes; all the girls he's been engaged to admit that in his favor."

Naturally.

"Ma, I wish you wouldn't call me your lamb when folks are around."

"Why not, Eddie?"

"It makes me feel so sheepish."

Too Literal.

"As I told Nell the terrible tale, she whitened to the lips."

"How foolish! All she needs to do is to powder her nose."

FLYING BOAT DEPARTS
Gone To Gananogue to Give Citizens Pleasure.

The Huff-Daland Company's flying boat that visited Kingston and gave so much pleasure to many citizens over the week-end, left Tuesday for Gananogue where Mr. Post, the commander, and Mr. de Vitalis, pilot, have made arrangements to make a number of flights with citizens of that town. Among those who flew over the city and harbor on Monday, not previously mentioned, were Mrs. Coulson, an elderly Kingston lady, A. Haggerman and W. H. Friendship.

Why They Do It.
A salesman was showing an elderly lady the virtues of the car he sells. He made a number of turns, and at the proper times extended his arm as a turning signal. The old lady watched the proceedings for some time. Then she craned her neck and looked at the sky.

"Mister," she said sternly, tapping him on the shoulder, "you just tend

GEN. MACDONELL SPEAKS

Before the Sydenham Street Methodist Church Epworth League on War Events.

Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., commandant of the Royal Military College, addressed a large gathering in the bible school hall of Sydenham street Methodist church on Monday evening. The meeting was in charge of the literary committee of the Epworth League. General Macdonell, who commanded the first division in France, told of many interesting things which took place during the time he served with the First Canadian Division.

Commencing with the arrival of the Canadians at Valcartier camp in August, 1914, the general traced many of the important incidents which took place from that date until the battalion was demobilized in 1919. He said that the Canadians, who were at Salisbury Plains in England, in training to go to France, would never forget the days spent in that muddy camp. He also paid a tribute to General Alderson, who was placed in command of the Canadians there, and later went to France with the First Division.

Gen. Macdonell related many of the amusing incidents which had taken place during his stay in France. The general also took occasion to pay his respects to Lieut.-General Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian Corps in France. It was in the early battles that General Currie showed his worth as a soldier, General Macdonell remarked. Speaking of some of the achievements made by Canadians, he said that the First Canadian Division were the first troops in France to introduce trench raiding, which later proved so successful. To Brig.-Gen. A. E. Ross, he gave the credit of being the first medical man to introduce treatment for "trench feet," which was playing such havoc with the army. Prof. Andrew McNaughton of McGill University, who is well known to Kingstonians, was credited by General Macdonell with being the man who perfected the artillery barrage.

When speaking about German prisoners who had been captured by Canadians, and especially by the units of which he had the honor to command, the general told of many interesting talks he had had with German officer prisoners. In one case, General Macdonell said that the official documents taken off a German officer of high command stated that the Germans were opposed in this sector by the greatest soldiers in the world, the Canadians. This document told the German soldier that there were no deserters among Canadians, and all were fighters and would never give up.

In concluding his address, General Macdonell stated that it was hard for people at home to understand how trying the days were after the armistice was signed, and especially after they arrived in England. Few people at home have any idea how the men must have felt, when one night they would be all packed up and told that they would be leaving for Canada the following morning, and to wake up and find this order was cancelled for reasons unknown. As much as he tried, he was unable to find why these cancellations took place. In spite of this disappointment he was pleased to state that he never had occasion to summon a court martial while the men were in England.

Rev. W. T. G. Brown, acting as chairman, Miss Pollard rendered a solo, and Mr. Gilpin played a violin selection.

CAME AS A SHOCK.

The Death of F. S. Wartman—Burial at Colebrook.

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Napawee, Oct. 28.—Citizens were shocked to hear, on Saturday morning, of the sudden death in the Kingston General Hospital of Franklin S. Wartman, of Napawee. Mr. Wartman had gone to Kingston on Tuesday for an operation which was performed on Friday and everything was apparently all right until the patient died a chill on Friday evening and death followed on Saturday morning at eleven o'clock. Deceased leaves to mourn his death, besides his wife, three children: Mrs. Dr. C. E. Smith, Saskatoon; Miss Hattie and brother, Charlie, in California. Mr. Wartman had just returned from the West two weeks ago where he has been, for the past three years.

Mr. Wartman was well known throughout the country having carried on the pump business in Colebrook for many years. He removed to Napawee seven years ago after disposing of his business. He was a Liberal candidate for three elections being opposed by the late Uriah Wilson, Dr. Meacham and W. J. Paul. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 29th. A short service will be held at his late residence, East street, after which the body will be taken to Colebrook church, where a short service will be held. The remains will be interred in the family plot in Moses cemetery. Deceased was fifty-six years and seven months of age.
