Coming to The Grand.
Earl Williams, the well-known star of many successful Vitagraph photographs, will be seen at the Grand on Monday only of next week in one of the best features he has ever produced entitled "When a Man Loves." The story is particularly suited to the star, and the rapid action, and delightful story that is woven throughout the many thrilling situations, makes a splendid vehicle for this talented star. There will be a special two reel O. Henry picture, entitled "The Telemachus Friend." This picture has the unusual turn so characteristic of all O. Henry pictures, and the uncertainty of the ending adds greatly to the charm of the play. There will also be a splendid Big V. comedy that is a hundred laughs rolled into one that lasts throughout the run of this picture. The Grand's orchestra have arranged a programme of special music for this one day showing and the entire bill will be seen for Monday only.—Adv.

Coming to Griffin's.
"Mr. Wu," a tragedy-drama of Anglo-Chinese life set with perfect stagecraft, and played by Matheson Lang, creator of the title role in the London stage success of the same name, will be the headline attraction at Griffin's for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Few actors would dare to attempt the task, almost impossible for a white man as presenting so difficult a character as that of Li Chang Wu, philosopher and blind devotee of his ancestral code of ethics. That an English actor should successfully portray the character of this high-class Chinese trader, not only in costume and gait, but in facial expression, even in "close-ups," seems almost incredible, and yet this was the achievement of Matheson Lang.

The story centres on the personality of Li Chang Wu, an oriental trader, whose family becomes unhappily entangled with that of the English residents of Kowloon. "Mr. Wu" has been brought to Canada to answer the photoplay patrons' demands for British productions and it sets a high standard. At its initial showing in Toronto this great English play met with success. Kingston theatre-goers are fortunate in having an opportunity to see this picture.—Adv.

At the Strand.
A new comedy picture starring Robert Warwick, "Jack Straw," will be the attraction at the Strand theatre for two days commencing Monday next. It was adapted from W. Somerset Maugham's well-known stage play of the same name.

The central figure is Jack Straw, an Iceman, in love with Ethel Jennings, daughter of a hard-working clerk. The Jennings suddenly become rich and move to California. Jack Straw follows and shows up there as a waiter. Mrs. Jennings, the mother, has a weakness for royalty. To revenge an alleged slight, an acquaintance of hers palmed off Jack Straw on her at a big reception at the Archduke of Pomerania. Later, Jack Straw turns the tables by proving to be the real duke.

The leading feminine role is played by the former musical comedy favorite and late entertainer of the A. E. F., Carroll McComas. It is her first motion picture venture. Sylvia Ashton, Charles Ogle, and J. M. Dumont are also in the cast. William De Mille directed the picture. It is a Paramount Artcraft.—Adv.

Winter in the Highlands.

That wondrous reserve, known as Algonquin Park has now become an all year round resort. The region provides a winter holiday ground that is beyond compare, and in accord with the ideas of medical science, 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, it has invigorating climate conditions, and anyone needing rest or recuperation will find this the ideal resort. November is a pleasant month to pay a visit to the Park. When December comes with its cold bracing days and snow, visitors spend their days in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests, in tobogganing or skiing, in skating or by the enjoyment of fishing through the ice. The Highland Inn, the largest of the Park Hotels, is now open through the year for the reception of guests. Here in the centre of the reserve overlooking Cache Lake will be found all the comforts associated with first class hotel service; cheery public and private rooms, excellent cuisine and the companionship of guests who have a common aim to enjoy the healthful sport that this great unspoiled wilderness affords. The hotel is owned and operated by the Grand Trunk Railway, who have issued an interesting illustrated booklet, entitled "Enjoy Winter in Ontario Highlands," a copy of which will be sent free to anyone requesting same. For all information, and copy of booklet write to J. P. Hanley, C. P. & T. A. G. T. Ry., Kingston, Ont.
