Theatrical

Marjah, the Mystic.
Marjah, the mystic, master mind reader and crystal gazer, who is featured in the Mystic Magic Melody Revue, which comes to the Grand theatre for three days commencing Monday, sends the following message to the people of Kingston:

"My children, you shall find contentment and peace, comradeship and good will through thine own heart. Love truly, hold kindness in thy thoughts for your fellow men and women; gird yourself with your courage to go on, will to work ambition—to progress—thus shall you attain the greatest boon upon earth—Happiness."

During his engagement Marjah will endeavor to answer your questions on business, investments, love affairs and questions of a personal and private nature. In addition to Marjah will be presented Orette, the miracle man, in his famous weird oriental interpretation "The Temple of Joss," and Hutt's Harmony Hounds, proclaimed by critics as Jazzland's premier colored jazz orchestra.—Advt.

At The Strand.

"Yes and No," pleased a large audience at the Strand Theatre last evening and will remain there for two days. Miss Talmadge handles both roles, and she does it with skill and charm. One woman who had everything to lose said "Yes"; the other though sorely tried by poverty, bravely answered "No." Margaret Vane, pampered and petted wife of Donald Vane, mistakes her husband's devotion to business for indifference. As a matter of fact, Vane is ruining his health in business endeavoring to supply Margaret with luxuries. In a little tenement house, Min Berry and her husband find themselves in a losing fight against poverty. Ted Leach, a boarder, has a secret infatuation for Min, but she is too busy working to even notice that her husband is neglecting her in his fight against poverty. Margaret Vane confides her disappointments to Paul Derreck, Margaret promises Derreck she will run away with him. Her husband dies of the shock, when he hears of Margaret's plan. Min is happy until Leach makes several advances to her, which are repulsed. Trying to express his emotions by brute force Leach embraces Min, and a struggle ensues. A powerful climax to this photoplay embodies a twist in the machinery of fate that will thrill you with its realism. A question as to the humanity has been answered in this gripping picture.—Advt.

STEAMER STORMMOUNT IS TO BE SOLD HERE

Underwriters Take it Over—Richardsons Buy Its Grain Cargo.

The steamer Stormmount, which struck the rocks at the entrance to the Morrisburg canal, while loaded with grain for Montreal, and was lightered and salvaged by the Donnelly Wrecking and Salvage Company, Kingston, was damaged to the extent of about $75,000. She has been taken over by the Underwriters and will be sold at Kingston. She will probably be laid up for repairs during the winter and will be ready for the opening of navigation next season. She is owned by the Canada Steamships Limited.

Only for a tug, the Stormmount would have been a total loss. The captain of this tug saw the plight of the Stormmount as he was leaving the Morrisburg canal. He re-locked through and went to its assistance, succeeding in pushing it into fifteen feet of water. Only for this, the Stormmount would have sunk in fifty feet of water and been a total loss, as it would have been necessary to have blown it up in order to clear the channel.

Body Washed Ashore May be Capt. Beapre

The decomposed body found on the lake shore at Sandy Pond, N.Y., Tuesday, by Elmer Tryon, a fisherman, may be that of Captain Charles Beapre, Kingston, who commanded the ill-fated steamer Waffle which disappeared mysteriously last year carrying with it four men and one woman.

The body is that of a man apparently sixty to sixty-five years of age and bears the appearance of having been in the water for some time as there is little flesh on the head and only a small portion of the face remains. A pair of shoes and a woollen shirt were found on the body. These may serve to identify the body.

THE FLAG INCIDENT HAS BEEN CLOSED

Police Investigation Shows an Italian and Not German Flag Floated.

Considerable excitement prevailed in certain quarters in Kingston on Armistice Day, when it was reported that a family living on Bagot street had been floating a German flag.

The matter was taken up by veterans and Chief of Police Robinson was instructed to investigate the matter. He found that the flag complained of was not a German flag but an Italian flag, and, therefore, an Allied ensign.

Half-Holiday at Queen's.
So as to make it possible for all the students to attend the Varsity-Queen's intermediate rugby game on Saturday morning, Principal Bruce Taylor has declared a holiday at the university. It is expected that one of the largest crowds on record will attend the intermediate fixture.

It is stated that potatoes are selling at Westport for seventy-five cents a bag. When the new provincial road from Kingston through that place is completed, produce from the Westport district will come here.

Denial is made that Miss Ferris has rented her farm, as stated in the Bath Road news in Thursday's issue of the Whig.

Flags were at half-mast at the City Hall and Court House out of respect to the memory of the late Justice Britton.

Brockville footballers have asked the G.T.R. to give them a car to come to Kingston on Saturday.

The John Randall Is Still Missing

Up till the time the Whig went to press on Friday afternoon no word had been received regarding the steamship John Randall, which cleared from Oswego on Tuesday noon for Belleville, loaded with coal.

The Whig was in communication with South Bay Friday morning, but it was stated there that nothing was known as to the whereabouts of the missing vessel. In local marine circles it was felt that the boat might have taken shelter in South Bay or Timber Island.

There is also the belief that the members of crew may have been able to make their way to the Ducks and that they are safe. A heavy gale is still blowing, and it has not been possible for any search to be made.

GREAT CROWDS AT BAZAAR

Drawings for Prizes—A Dances on Saturday.

The House of Providence bazaar was the scene of a tremendous gathering on Thursday evening. The bazaar was an unprecedented success. In the Ontario hall there were throngs from 7 until 11 p.m., and some of the names of winners in drawings were announced. A beautiful oil painting by Dorothy Hickey was won by Mr. Kane; a safety razor by A. Gow, and a chicken by James Rigney. On Saturday afternoon and evening all of the remaining drawings will take place, and all holders of tickets should be present when the names of winners are announced. Among the important drawings are: Money and other prizes, representing $100; beautiful fumed oak china cabinet; and the doll's house that has attracted such widespread attention. After the drawings Bedford, the auctioneer, will auction off all of the articles unsold.

On Saturday there will be a tea and dance from 4.30 to 7.30 p.m. Special arrangements have been made to meet the rush during the dinner hour and again at supper time in the evening. It is expected that the footballers and fans will patronize the bazaar.

LIVINGSTON'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Of a Big Sale of Men's and Boys' Furnishings.

In this issue of the Whig, C. Livingston & Bro. announce slashing reductions in their entire stock. Their object is to try and assist in bringing the clothing and furnishing business back to normal conditions. Every garment and article carries its original price mark in plain figures, and everything during this sale is subject to a discount of twenty per cent. Mothers should take advantage of this sale to clothe the boys with a good warm suit or overcoat. This sale also includes made-to-measure clothing, including blue serges, made up in Livingston's best style. The reputation of the Livingston clothing house for carrying the very best and most up-to-date goods should induce everybody to take advantage of this sale.

Mothers' Allowance Commission.
Kingston has been selected as one of the six places to be represented when the first payments are made for the Mothers' Allowance Commission. The six places selected for the first payments are Kingston, Hamilton, Guelph, London, Owen Sound and Woodstock. The Mothers' Allowance Commission is doing its best to expediate matters and each case will receive consideration in due course, and if the application has the approval of the commission, payments will be made by the treasurer.

Will Summon Offenders.
On Friday morning, Chief of Police Robert Robinson stated that he was going to see that citizens who persist in neglecting to clear their sidewalks of snow comply with the city by-laws. From now on, people who allow the snow to remain on the walks will be summoned.

Tea and Sale.
Girls' branch of the W. A. will hold a tea and sale in St. George's Hall on Saturday, Nov. 20th, from 3 to 6.

At Chicago on Friday wheat fell to $1.734 for December delivery. Corn was off three points for December and oats down to 46¢ for May.

The bark of the ash tree remains smooth until the tree is about 30 years old, when it becomes rough and furrowed.

The aspidistra, sometimes called the "parlor palm", was introduced into England from Japan and China in 1822.
