ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any drug-gist a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, while it is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces the soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

BEWARE OF TENDER GUMS

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills. To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Landmarks of Mackenzie

SINCE William Lyon Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader, has been visiting some of the shrines of his illustrious forebear, from whom he gets his Christian name, it is permissible for the average citizen, regardless of his politics, to do the same.

The remains of the rebel leader rest beneath the low spread branches of a mountain ash in the Necropolis in Toronto. Within a small plot, bordered by a hedge, four little stones, only a few inches high, mark a row of graves. One bears the word "Father" and below "William Lyon Mackenzie, next to it is a stone marked "William Lyon and George Mackenzie," and the fourth "Barbara and Helen." A substantial monument has been erected to William Lyon Mackenzie in the same God's acre where a granite shaft commemorates Lount and Matthews, two of his chief lieutenants, who gave up their lives for the faith they had in their leader and his cause.

Parts of the basement walls of the old Toronto Jail, in a cell of which Lount and Matthews were kept till their execution, are still traceable in the office building at the southeast corner of Toronto and Court streets. From the Necropolis we pass to Bond street where No. 82 stands the three-storey dwelling in which Mackenzie died. Toward the end of his strenuous life, which was one of almost continuous opposition to things as they were, some of the rebel leaders' friends, moved by sympathy for his condition, presented this property to him, though against his will, for his native Scottish independence never forsook him.

Here he spent his closing years—years of gloom and despair, it is said, and with a consciousness that he had not achieved all he sought in the realm of reform. After sixty-six years of strenuous struggle he passed away, and with his passing a page of Canadian history was closed. As one sits at the old desk used by Mackenzie when a member of the Upper Canada Legislature (now preserved in the cabin of the York Pioneer in Exhibition Park), it is easy to conjure up the exciting scenes in which he figured and of his free successive expulsions from the old Front street chamber. It must be admitted that he drew fire as when he wrote that "the House was an assembly of scoundrels" and the Government "a band of public robbers." "If a Government emanating from England can cherish such a corrupt star chamber crew (as the Family Compact), then the days of the infamous Scroggs and Jeffreys are returned upon us! They were tools of a servile power, official fungi more numerous and pestiferous than the quagmires and marshes that encircle Toronto!"

No wonder there was a "come back" "William Lie-on Mackenzie" was a comparatively gentle rejoinder. He was, according to his enemies, a reptile, a spaniel dog, a seditious little liar, a firebrand, a political mountebank, a squire scribbler who began to feel his importance among small people and, like the frog in the fable, to swell with puffs and vanity.

Another Mackenzie reminder in Toronto still exists in the old Doel house, on the northwest corner of Adelaide and Bay streets. John Doel became associated with the leaders of "the Party of Reform." During the exciting days preceding the actual outbreak of the rebellion at the skirmish at Montgomery's Farm, the house was a rendezvous for Mackenzie sympathisers, while larger gatherings were held in the adjoining brewery where "The Canadian Alliance Society" was probably discussed if not formed, and other plans laid for the raising of an armed force, and where their leader no doubt frequently met with them. Yet another visible reminder of Mackenzie is a pleasant one in his portrait, in the City Hall, as the first Mayor of Toronto, in 1834; indeed, as the first mayor ever elected in Upper Canada. It was during his year of office that the "little mountebank" proved to be a hero in personally risking his life during a cholera plague; in fact, he was stricken with the disease, but fought it successfully.

Among the Mackenzie relics in the John Ross Robertson collection in the Toronto Public Library are some of the military orders issued by Mackenzie and his rebel army, as well as the proclamation offering $1,000 for his capture. A curio in the Normal School Museum is a case apparently given to Mackenzie by some political enemies in a spirit of irony, the lettering reading: "This vase was cut on Navy Island, C. W., after the Lion (Mackenzie) and his pirate followers fled to the boats on January 16, 1838, and the grape of Canada too potent for their relief." (Signed) "H.M.P."

More than one old Ontario farmhouse has legends of having given a him sanctuary during his flight. A cave near Dundas is still pointed out as one of his hiding places, while, in the same town, the building which he once occupied—the Leslie House, has survived the passing of the years. Queenston also holds a pathetic reminder of the turbulent Scot in the ruins of his old printing office, in which the Colonial Advocate was first printed and which so exasperated Sir Peregrine Maitland and all the Government rulers of the day, and, generally, a glimpse of Navy Island, in the upper Niagara, tells its story of the short-lived Provisional Government there set up by Mackenzie, ere he finally escaped to the American shore. —Frank Yeigh in Star Weekly.

CHURCH UNION WILL BECOME BIG ISSUE

To be Fought to Finish at the Next Presbyterian General Assembly.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Church union is about to become once more the biggest issue before the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations in Canada, according to a semi-official statement made at the Methodist church offices yesterday. Assurances have been conveyed by two chairmen of Methodist districts that the issue is to be fought to a finish at the next meeting of the Presbyterian general assembly.

Word has also been received by the Methodist general conference officers in Toronto that a provincial conference of the Methodists of Saskatchewan on church union has been called for next January. It is expected that a general conference officer from Toronto will attend.

In the west, church union of the Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists is reported to be making such rapid progress that a general council of union churches of western Canada is an accomplished fact, with Rev. J. Irvine Walker as chairman. The union churches are dividing their mission funds between the general mission boards according to the proportion of membership.

RECAST EXPRESS RATES

Urged That They Correspond With Freight Rates.

Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—That express rates be recast on the basis of freight rates, so that any decision issued by the Board of Railway Commissioners in connection with freight rates may be immediately effective in express rates, is the suggestion of the express committee of the shippers' section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, in a statement sent to the Board of Railway Commissioners today.

To care for the increased clerical costs involved, a surcharge of fifteen cents on shipments up to 100 pounds and 25 cents on shipments over that amount is suggested.

The opinion of the board is stated to be that with the tendency toward lower prices any scale of express rates should approximate those now in existence.
