Theatrical

At The Strand.
Harold Goodwin, who plays the "poor but honest lover" in "You Never Can Tell," the initial Bebe Daniels starring vehicle which will open Thursday at the Strand Theatre, has a screen history which should be an inspiration to every ambitious young man who contemplates entering motion pictures.

Four years ago the good-looking seventeen-year-old youngster was a sophomore in the Glendale (California) High School with not a thought of motion pictures.

Summertime came along and young Goodwin wondered where he could pick up a little "change." He saw a newspaper advertisement that "Boys" were wanted at the old Griffith-Majestic studio. He applied—and from then on his success was assured. He has appeared with William S. Hart in "The Silent Man"; Charles Ray, "His Own Home Town"; Lila Lee, "Puppy Love"; Vivian Martin, "A Kiss"; "Hearts of the Hills" and "Duchess of Suda" with Mary Pickford, and "Sweet Lavender" with Mary Miles Minter.

As Jimmy Flannery, the young Irish truckman, he has a fine character role in "You Never Can Tell." He loses out in the race for the hand of Rowena Patrick Jones (Bebe Daniels), but in losing he accomplishes a bit of acting that is full of fine comedy touches. He is a real expert in portraying puppy love.

"You Never Can Tell" is a Reelart picture, directed by Chester Franklyn. It was scenarized by Tom Geraghty and Helmar Bergman from the two Saturday Evening Post stories by Grace Lovell Bryan.—Adv.

At Griffin's.
To-night will be the last opportunity to see Norma Talmadge in "She Loves and Lies," the splendid feature picture which has pleased Griffin's audiences during the past two days. "She Loves and Lies" is a lively serio-comedy punctuated here and there with deep emotional moments, in which Miss Talmadge plays in a dual role—a role that gives here the use of three distinct names. Her principle part is as "Marie Max," who, for reasons peculiar to the play, poses as "June Daye," a Greenwich Village girl. The roles give Miss Talmadge unusual play for her versatility and the manner in which she rises to the task is more than gratifying. Conway Tearle has the leading male role, and the picture has been produced with lavish splendor. The second episode of "The Branded Four" will also be shown for the last time to-night, as will also the balance of our interesting programme, which includes a splendid "Smiling Billy" Parson's comedy, and unique Vod-a-Vil movies. Don't miss this programme to-night.—Adv.

MEN WILLING TO DO SMALL JOBS AT HOUSES
Local Labor Agent Asks Citizens Who Want Help to 'Phone Him.
Allan Stroud, local agent for the Ontario government employment bureau, states that if the people in Kingston who have a small job to do, would communicate with him, he would be able to get them help. On Tuesday, a man who went into the labor bureau, stated that in view of the fact that there were so many men out of work he had decided to make some repairs to his cellar so as to give help to some man. It goes without saying that a large number offered to go. There is no question that the labor situation is acute, and small jobs will help greatly.
On Tuesday a man arrived in the city from the lumber camps at Whitney, Ont. He had positions for forty-five expert bushmen. The firm which he represented was willing to pay $4 a cord for cutting wood.

One Killed, Eight Injured In a Boiler Explosion
Ottawa, Dec. 8.—William McKay, aged thirty, was killed, and eight others received injuries ranging from slight scalds to a small portable boiler at the Sutherland-Innes cooperage factory at Fort Coulonge, Que., Monday. Interruption of the telephone and telegraph wires prevented earlier receipt of the news.

News From Picton.
Picton, Dec. 6.—On the last Friday evening of November, the Prince Edward merchants' banquet was held at the Royal Hotel. Mayor Newman, president of the Board of Trade, was host. There were nearly one hundred present. Mrs. G. Hadwin has returned home, after visiting in Detroit and Battle Creek, Mich. On Dec. 10th, the Ladies' Guild of St. Mary Magdalene church hold their bazaar. Mr. and Mrs. A. Weir, R. Jeffrey, Miss Gladys Weir and Miss C. Fox attended the Anglican church concert in Hillier hall, after their annual bazaar in November. The Kenny Company gave the entertainment. Mrs. C. C. Wannamaker came home for a short visit to her parents, Union street.

Event at the Y.W.C.A.
The Fellowship Club of the Y.W.C.A. held a very successful tea and sale from 4 to 9 p.m., on Tuesday, in their cosy parlors on Johnson street. All sorts of pretty Christmas wares were for sale and a thriving trade done at all the tables, many visitors being present who wished to help along the good work of the institution. A good sum was realized as the work of these young girls deserved.

After a short illness, Mrs. Elizabeth Rosebush passed away at her home near Stirling. She was born in 1836, being eighty-four years old. Telephone the Y.M.C.A. and enquire about "The Gift With a Lid" for your boy or some other worthy boy.
On Nov. 17th, death claimed for its victim an old and esteemed resident of Tweed, in the person of Jacques Delters, aged 103 years.

HELD SALE AND CONCERT

Event at First Congregational Church—Y.W.C.A. Tea and Sale.

The home-like parlors of the First Congregational church, on Wellington street, presented a holiday air on Tuesday afternoon, when the Ladies' Aid held their annual tea and sale. Mrs. Thomas Barlow, the president, received the visitors, who had given their small admission fee to Miss Alice Nelsh. At the work table, with its fine display of Christmas gifts, were Mrs. T. Barlow, Mrs. F. McCallum, Mrs. A. K. Routley and Mrs. George Coward. The home-made table with its good things was in charge of Miss Mabel Hewitt, Mrs. Ernest McCallum and Miss Alice Nelsh. Pretty and useful aprons were sold by Mrs. S. T. Lilley. The tea table, all in Christmas red and green, had a diminutive Christmas tree with tiny red candles and tinsel cord for a centre, and four red candles in brass candlesticks at the corners, the silver tea and coffee equipage giving a home-like touch. Miss Etta Henderson was convener, and Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Leadbeater poured tea and coffee, assisted by Mrs. Ernest Treneer and Miss Bessie Rogers. A handsome sum was realized.

In the evening a recital of sacred music was given in the church by the organist and conductor, Miss Bessie Rogers, and Ernest Madrand, as solo organist, assisted by some of Kingston's best musicians. The organ solos were very fine, and the work of the quartette was much enjoyed. Solos by Miss Margaret Fearn, Mr. Mackie, Mrs. Treneer, Mr. Wood, Mr. Ker and Mr. Vickery were heard with pleasure, and Miss Rogers proved herself to be an excellent accompanist. Ernest Madrand's last number on the organ, "Offertoire in D Minor," Batiste, showed his skill as an organist to great advantage.

J.M. HUGHES IS NOW OWNER

Of the Casualties Reed and Rattan Factory of Kingston.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Casualties Reed and Rattan Company, on Tuesday afternoon, the offer of J. M. Hughes was accepted for all of the assets of the company, and he will carry on the business.

R. F. Elliott, late president, stated that the company was started with the object in view of assisting disabled soldiers to earn an occupation that would enable them to earn a good living wage. A number of citizens subscribed their money with this object in view, but from its inception the company got poor support from the soldiers' civil re-establishment department of the city. About midsummer, Mr. Elliott says, the company had some twenty returned men working in the factory, and on one hour's notice the officers of the soldiers' civil re-establishment took every man away with the exception of two who are still employed by the company, with the promise of re-establishment in some other occupation. They did this after a written request from the company that if such a move was intended, to give the company reasonable notice so that they could make other arrangements. This action held up production for five or six weeks before another staff could be engaged and instructed in the business. There are now employed about twelve or thirteen women and girls and several men, who are doing very satisfactory work. The factory is very busy.
In a short time, the new company will have from forty to fifty hands employed, so that the industry will not be lost to Kingston. Instead it will be operated upon a larger scale. The goods turned out are of the best in Canada. The company's assets will be handed over to Mr. Hughes by H. S. Smith and R. F. Elliott, on behalf of the stockholders.
