

VIEWS GIVEN ON THE TARIFF

Kingston Board of Trade And Companies Appear Before Commission.

When the Dominion Tariff Commission opened its session in the city hall, about 11.30 o'clock, on Monday morning, J. M. Campbell, president of the Kingston Board of Trade, presented the following report:

"Kingston is one of the oldest manufacturing cities in the Dominion. At the present time the industrial workers and their dependents constitute approximately one-third of the population of about 24,000. The remainder of the population is made up of the military establishment here, the university students and staff, the Royal Military College students and staff, merchants, professional men and retired persons. I shall file with your committee a list of the principal manufacturing industries located here, together with the products which they make. This list will indicate to you the diversity of manufacturing interests represented in Kingston.

"The Board of Trade of the city of Kingston appreciates the importance of industries to the city and in February of this year an Industrial Committee consisting of six members of the Board of Trade, six members of the city council, the city clerk and myself was appointed to bring before investors and industries in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, the advantages of Kingston as a location for manufacturing purposes. This committee has already met with a considerable measure of success and several new industries have been established here within the past year.

"Kingston's Harbor. "Kingston has the advantage of a splendid harbor and the government is expecting to spend some $3,000,000 for its further development as a trans-shipment point as soon as the Welland Canal is completed. Moreover, the projected development of hydro-electric power on the St. Lawrence river will provide an abundance of electrical power for manufacturing purposes here. In view of this encouraging prospect the Board of Trade of this city is confident that the beginning which was made this year in securing new industries for Kingston is only an earnest of what can be done in the near future. Our commission has planned to bring the advantages of our city before the attention of the big manufacturing companies in the United States and elsewhere which are not already represented by branches in the Dominion and we are confident that some such branches can be secured for Kingston. We realize that our trade people will be directly benefited and that additional employment will be provided and also that an enlarged home market will be afforded for the farmers in the surrounding district, which is already highly prosperous. It is, of course, common knowledge that the tariff has been the principal factor in inducing United States industries to locate manufacturing plants in Canada, and we realize that any withdrawal of protection would seriously check this movement. We believe, too, that the maintenance of adequate protection is necessary in order to keep our industries here in operation and in order to preserve a healthy condition in industry generally throughout the Dominion.

"The enrollment of approximately 1,100 students in the Arts and Scientific courses at Queen's University is in itself an indication that many of the sons and daughters of our people, in many cases from the farms, are taking advantage of the opportunity of obtaining a broad education. The co-ordinate development in Canada of agriculture and industry is affording a choice of careers to these young people and even in the war, cheese and butter, especially the former, were exported in considerable quantities to the United Kingdom and no doubt the British market will continue to be available. Nevertheless, exchange and other conditions at the present time are tending to restrict such export demand and there is cause to believe that the next United States tariff will increase the tariff duties of that country against Canadian farm produce of various kinds. It is, therefore, all the more necessary that the home market should be reserved for Canadian agricultural products for exactly the same reason that it is of importance that the home market for Canadian manufactured goods should be protected. Already there is considerable unemployment in Kingston in consequence of the readjustment which is now taking place in all lines of manufacturing industry and even in agriculture. The Board of Trade hopes that this condition will speedily be improved but we believe that

"The difficulties of the readjustment period ought not to be complicated by subjecting our industries to still greater competition from Europe and the United States at a time when the industries of those countries are under the necessity of finding export markets for their surplus production and are disposed to resort to dumping or other unfair practices in order to dispose of surplus stocks or excess output. The Board of Trade of Kingston deeply wishes to be interpreted as suggesting that the present tariff ought to be continued in all instances. It may be found in some cases that changes are desirable for various reasons, but we do endorse the principle of adequate protection and ask that the policy be observed as the guiding principle of the tariff revision of which the present inquiry is a preliminary."

Unemployment in Kingston. Mr. Campbell was questioned by the chairman, Sir Henry Drayton, about unemployment in Kingston, and with the assistance of Allan Stroud, local labor representative for the Ontario labor department, these questions were answered. It was stated that the piano works in Kingston had closed down. The company employed men. The shipbuilding company had been employing 340 men. The staff was being reduced, and at present about 250 were being employed. Davis' tannery had been employing 160 to 200 men but just recently 40 and 34. At the locomotive works 683 men were employed, while the company usually employed 800 to 1,000. There had been a general laying off of men in practically all the local industries. It was estimated that at the present time there were 400 men out of employment in Kingston. Of this number about 100 came under the heading of skilled labor. It was stated that there was a demand for farm help, but many men could not take these positions, as they had no experience. The wages offered were $20 to $25 per month, and board.

Mr. Campbell also presented to the commission a statement, showing that Kingston employed yearly 2,220 men, with a yearly pay roll amounting to $2,525,000. Value of products manufactured in Kingston was estimated as follows: 1900, $2,045,175; 1905, $4,329,607; 1910, $3,860,142; 1915, $4,872,795; 1917, $11,191,954; 1918, $12,149,430. The total capital employed by the manufacturers was given as $8,665,000.

W. Kent McNeen, secretary of the Kingston Board of Trade, submitted the following resolution, recently passed by the board: "That the Board of Trade of the city of Kingston, believing that this city offers opportunities for new industries and that an increase in manufacturing operations will be to the advantage of all classes in the community and the agriculturalists in the surrounding country, and also that still further development of manufacturing in the Dominion is in the national interests, hereby records its conviction that such tariff protection should be continued, or if not already provided that such protection should be afforded as will protect our industries already established against dumping and other unfair practices of foreign countries, attract new capital to the Dominion, stabilize employment here, and create jobs for the unemployed."

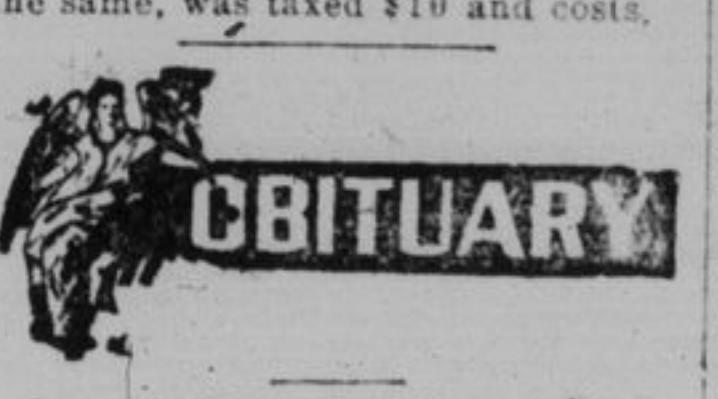

C. A. Eaton addressed the commission on behalf of the Canada Cutlery Company, W. G. Meakins, Ontario Brush manufacturers. In his address, Mr. Meakins stated that under the present difficult readjustment, it is important that there should be assured home markets for the products of Canadian labor, for the capacity of the Canadian brush factories should be utilized to supply the needs of the Canadian people. By giving an assured market for Canadian-made brushes, the amount of business available to the Canadian companies will be enlarged and they will be able to produce and sell their goods at prices based on quality, output and low manufacturing costs. Mr. Meakins asked the commission to study the development of the brush manufacturing interests in the United States under the protective tariff and called attention to the way which tooth brush manufacturing industry has been developed there after adequate protection against Japanese labor was provided.

Others Heard. Mr. Townsend and J. Mc L. Stephens, representing the Frontenac Flour & Milling Company, also gave the commission some valuable information. Feldspar is chief among the raw materials used by this company. China clay is another and this is secured in England and the States. J. L. Haycock, also spoke at length on the binder twine question. He declared that the farmers had no desire to escape a tax. He believed they would be willing to pay a tax of two cents a pound on binder twine, providing the money would go into the treasury of the Dominion, and not to private corporations. And this view of the farmers applied to hundreds of other articles. The programme for the sittings of the commission in Kingston also included representations from the following: Frontenac Milling & Glass Company, W. C. Phillips; Weber Piano Company; Mr. Brethwaite; Retail Merchants' Ass'n.; F. J. Hoag; McKay Fur Company; John McKay; Toy Company A. C. Lingham; Kingston Industrial Committee, composed of Dr. W. W. Sands, secretary, and B. N. Steacy chairman; J. S. McCann, William McCammon, market clerk; Trades and Labor Council, local farmers and representatives from Gananoque, Belleville, and Brockville. Upon the adjournment for lunch at 1.40 p.m. the ministers and others were the guests of W. R. Givens, at the Frontenac Club. Hon. G. H. Robertson, Minister of Labor, in commenting upon the abolition of the luxury taxes, said he felt certain that one of the desirable results would be an improvement in the employment situation.

CASE WAS AGAIN ENLARGED

Assault and Robbery Charge is Given a Further Set Back.

William Shawcross is still in the Hotel Dieu, suffering from injuries he received when he was assaulted and robbed on the old Montreal Transportation Company's wharf, on the night of December 3rd, and as a result the charge against Edward Stokes and John Hilliard had to be enlarged again, when the case was called at the police court on Monday morning. Stokes and Hilliard are charged with assaulting and robbing Shawcross. T. J. Rigney, counsel for Shawcross, was present, and produced a certificate from a local doctor, showing that the plaintiff in the case was unable to appear. Shawcross had two ribs fractured and his ankle injured. Two citizens were on the carpet for breaches of the O.T.A. One, who had a bottle, was fined $110 no bottle, while the fellow who had no bottle, but carried his load just the same, was taxed $10 and costs.

Late J. McGovern, Kempville. James McGovern, aged seventy-eight, a highly respected resident of Kempville, passed away at the Hotel Dieu on Saturday evening. He was for some time an inmate of the House of Providence. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Findlay, Kempville. The remains were sent to Kempville for interment.

Late Lucy McCallum. Lucy Viola McCallum, aged five years and seven months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell McCallum, 15 Park street, passed away on Saturday at the General Hospital. Diphtheria was the cause of death. The deep sympathy of a wide circle of friends goes out to the parents in their sad bereavement. The funeral took place to Cataract cemetery on Sunday, Rev. J. A. Waddell officiating.

Will Not Pay More Than 75 Cents an Hour

Toronto, Dec. 20.—President Smith, of the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co., stated definitely on Saturday afternoon, at the end of the conference, that he would not pay more than 75 cents an hour to the men working on the ships at the Dominion Shipyards. He stated also that the employment of Collingwood men had been only for the purpose of starting up operations, and that after this had been done the Collingwood men would be replaced by Toronto men. This decision was based on terms of contract made between the company and the minister of marine.

Board of Trade to Boom Smith's Falls

Smith's Falls, Dec. 20.—Under the auspices of the Board of Trade a public meeting was held a few days ago in the Riteau Hotel. About 100 people were present, including many of the fair sex. The object of the gathering was a free discussion of matters in general, and a wide range of subjects was dealt with. Subjects brought up will be further discussed at the time of the election of municipal legislators for 1921.

Boy Found Hanged in a Montreal Park

Montreal, Dec. 20.—Herbert Walker, aged sixteen, was found Sunday afternoon in Mount Royal Park hanged to a branch of a tree and half buried in the snow. He disappeared from home Wednesday. The lad had been working at an office job and was studying for McGill matriculation. Overwork is supposed to have caused mental strain. Shirley Denison, K.C., has been appointed counsel for the crown in the timber enquiry, to succeed J. T. Harding, who resigned recently.

WANT RAILWAY LINE FINDLAY TO FORFAR

Deputation From Seely's Bay District Wait Upon Sir Henry Drayton.

On Monday morning a deputation consisting of Messrs. Robert Webb, Charles Hartley, Mr. Bracken and twenty-five other farmers and residents of Seely's Bay and district, waited upon Sir Henry Drayton and Hon. G. H. Robertson and asked that railway service be given to that section. They proposed that a branch line be run from Findlay on the G.T.R. through Seely's Bay to Forfar on the C.N.R. This would mean a great convenience to the farmers in the vicinity of Findlay and Forfar. It brings them into direct railway communication with the markets which they do not enjoy at the present time. In addition, the line would open up railway business.

The deputation pressed its case very strongly. The proposal has been brought up frequently before and surveys have been made of different routes. From the reports of engineers, the Findlay connection would involve such a heavy expenditure as to be practically prohibitive. The country is very hilly and in the construction of anything like a suitable grade great difficulties are involved. The cost of fillings, trestles and cuttings would be enormous. An alternative has been proposed to connect Forfar with Ridesau station, via Seely's Bay, and the line of the Rideau river. This would give a uniform grade at comparatively small cost.

Sir Henry Drayton obtained the views of the deputation and they will be placed before the railway board immediately. The idea of this branch line will gain the approval of all the farmers to be served by it and will mean a very great convenience in every way.

Be Thankful

Let us be thankful and celebrate Christmas, 1920, by a generous gift towards the work of caring for the sick and suffering in the Kingston General Hospital.

The U. S. House Ways and Means Committee on Monday voted out the Fordney emergency tariff bill designed to protect farmers in the United States.

The G.W.V.A. at Belleville has raised $1,000 for a Christmas tree for the soldiers' children.

THE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Great Preparations Are Being Made for Christmas Festivities.

Plans are being put into effect to give the patients at the Kingston General Hospital a real "Merry Christmas." The young ladies of the city churches, with the assistance of the trustees and already the work of decorating the halls and wards is being proceeded with. The main entrance hall is under the charge of Chalmers' and the four main wards under the charge of the Congregational, St. James' Synagogue, street Methodist and St. George's cathedral. The infants' ward is the special care of a class from St. James' Sunday school and the Doran wing, of the Rebeccas.

On Tuesday afternoon the King's Daughters are to give a tea to all ward patients. At 5.30 p.m. on Thursday, a committee of ladies, under Mrs. D. G. Laidlaw and Mrs. R. J. Wilson, will give a dinner to the nurses, and the dining room is being beautifully arranged for the occasion. On Christmas Day, a special Christmas dinner will be given to the patients, attendants and other help. This dinner will be in charge of the governors and officials of the hospital. During Christmas and New Year's week the gifts from Christmas trees will be distributed, and teas and concerts held in the different wards by the young people of the churches.

Dr. A. E. Ross, the superintendent, has put his great energy into the administration of this hospital with results that are evident to the most casual observer. A representative of the Whig had the privilege of visiting the hospital on Sunday, and was a pleasure to observe the condition of scrupulous cleanliness, order and system that distinguishes this institution. The wards are all well lighted and the surroundings are such as to give to the afflicted one every encouragement and hope in his fight against inertia and disease. The optimism of Dr. Ross is reflected in the patients, all of whom seemed buoyed up, and even the visitor could not escape the contagion of cheerfulness. Here were people, men, women and little children, of all sorts and conditions, receiving the same scrupulous attention under the strictest scientific regime, but over and above all, permeating all, was the spirit of human kindness that makes life sweet. One cannot speak too highly of the nurses in the General Hospital.

Upon entering the hospital the writer encountered a group of the city's most eminent physicians and surgeons in consultation over hospital matters and the welfare of different cases, men whose lives have been completely absorbed in a profession upon which humanity makes a first claim. Their activities have not for some of them been confined to a high place in special branches of medical science and are known throughout the province of Ontario as having made invaluable contributions to the knowledge of pathology, medicine, diagnosis and surgery. In addition to this, the General Hospital has the advantage, at the present time, of the experience of Brig.-Gen. Ross in the great war. He was in command of the Canadian Army Medical Services and the experience he gained in hospital work in medicine, surgery and psychology, gives him an enlarged sphere that few, if any, hospitals can claim. The board of management, with Lieut.-Col. R. E. Kent, as chairman, is a most efficient body. Col. Kent is a large part of his time to hospital management.

The usefulness of the General Hospital is shown by the large number of patients it serves, not only in the city but also from outside the city. While it receives a small grant from the city and the province, it has to depend upon the munificence of Kingston citizens, but for whose generosity it could not fulfill all demands that are made. To all who know the inestimable value it is to the sick an appeal for support is never addressed in vain. The physicians and surgeons give their services free, but money is urgently needed to meet the expenses of the management.

MUCH PLOWING DONE DURING PAST WEEK

Farmers Took Advantage of Mild Spell—Ground Free of Frost.

To see men plowing in the fields late in December is unusual. When speaking to farmers near Kingston, the Whig learned that the weather this past week was excellent to work in the fields, although there has been much cold weather, the frost has not penetrated into the ground. John Baker, market gardener, Cataract, stated that on Friday he had plowed most of the day, but had to discontinue on Saturday to attend the market. He said that had it been any day but Sunday, he would have worked yesterday on the land. Mr. Baker said that as far as he could remember, it is fully twenty-five years since he was able to do any plowing so late in the season. Cooke's Bros. market gardeners, who also reside at Cataract, informed the Whig that on Wednesday and Thursday last they had turned over four acres of land. They completed all their plowing. It is stated that a number of other people living near Kingston, have been working on the land during the past week. Telegrams are being received in Ottawa from many parts of Canada congratulating the government on its decision to abolish the luxury tax. The order abolishing the tax came as a surprise. John Doughty appeared in Toronto police court, Monday morning, to answer charges in connection with the disappearance of Ambrose Small, millionaire theatrical man. Doughty's counsel pleaded not guilty, and the prisoner was again remanded for a week. Amendments made by the British House of Commons to the Irish Home Rule bill were agreed to by the House of Lords, after a brief debate. Hon. T. W. McGee has again left for Vancouver to personally supervise the intended changes in the Whelan Pulp Mills there.

Will You Need Capital A Few Years Hence?

If you are likely to require the use of your capital in a few years' time, invest in bonds of substantial Ontario Municipalities, maturing within, say, two to six years. Trustees desirous of having funds available to advance the interest of beneficiaries—parents and guardians faced with the providing of heavy educational expenses—for all of these, short term Municipal Bonds are an exceptionally desirable security. At existing prices, these bonds yield from 6.70% to 7%.
